Volcano and Earthquake
American Shocks Paris
Selassie's Gold
Presidential Whispers

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.

The recent eruption of the savage volcano, Krakatao, seemed to ask: "Why do you human beings kill each other?" And now in Japan, an earthquake, spreading over a region 250 miles wide, kills many and seems to ask the same question.

But men will continue killing each other. They have been doing it for a million years, from the cave to the airplane, and will not stop suddenly.

In the city of Paris, in a solemn French court, a young lady is tried for "offending French morals." American grandmothers, living "far out upon the prairie," will be surprised to hear that the lady is an American girl, of 22, accused of dancing in public, wearing only a small "translucent balloon, and one ribbon," not fastened anywhere in particular.

All sorts of things are dragged into the trial. The lady's lawyer said she represented a beautiful statue, "The Apex of Art." The prosecutor objected: "Statues don't dance; this lady did."

One virtuous person said such nudity was calculated to make French women decide never to have any more babies, and France needs babies. He added that in Canada, where morals are at their highest, the birth rate is also at its highest. Mrs. Dionne proves it.

But gallantry still exists in France. The prosecutor said: "I only want a fine, not prison. Joan, the prisoner, is young, and, besides, she is pretty. It would be a shame to send her to prison."

What would Puritans have done to her in New England, in the witch days?

The young naked-dancing lady is arrested at the request of the French "League for the Increase of French Population." How a young lady dancing with not enough clothes would interfere with population increase is not clear.

The law-maker in ancient Sparta made a rule that young ladies must wear their skirts split from the waist down to arouse the interest of masculine youths in female loveliness and with the definite idea of increasing population. Perhaps the race has changed.

In Genesis, Tenth Chapter, you read of Ophir, one of the sons of Joktan, and, farther on, in Kings, one, that when Solomon built his temple and needed fine gold, his Tyrian sailors brought it from the land of Ophir.

As Haile Selassie, present Emperor of Ethiopia, calls and believes himself a direct descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, it is particularly appropriate that he should be now reopening the gold mines of Ophir. He will not use his gold to decorate a fine temple, but to buy weapons, with which to fight Mussolini, and defend his empire.

It says in the first book of Kings that Solomon's agents "came to Ophir, and fetched from thence gold, four hundred and twenty talents, and brought it to King Solomon." How many "talents," or good pounds sterling worth of gold King Selassie is getting from Ophir, nobody knows.

The Tyrian gold-hunters attracted the attention of the Queen of Sheba, who thus heard of Solomon. But for that gold expedition, she might never have met the wise king, and there would not be any Emperor Selassie, descendant of that pair. In Abyssinia, they say: "It is a small world."

Some wild Abyssinian chieftains to this day have their slaves hunting for gold, in dry river beds. That might interest our Western gold hunters. Also the fact that rich gold deposits have been found in the Fiji Islands.

Washington reports a "whispering campaign," concerning President Roosevelt's health. It will be a very small whisper if the whisperers stick to facts. The President's friends will be glad to know that his health is excellent, has never been better since his Presidential work began. A constitution able to withstand and conquer such an attack of illness as the President has withstood need not worry about a few political annoyances.

Congratulations to Postmaster General Farley, that is, if he is making any money or breaking even on his parcel post. His rates present a cheerful exception to the new era rule, which says: "Make everything dear, and everybody will be happy."

On Monday, your deponent, sending a small package to Norway, asked the private express company, and Mr. Farley's parcel post, what they would charge. The express company would charge six dollars and thirty-one cents, Mr. Farley's parcels post asked two dollars

CRASH SHUTS FORE RIVER BRIDGE

Rammed by a tanker, partially wrecked and thrown out of line, Fore River Bridge, between Quincy and Weymouth on the main traffic artery to the South Shore, was closed today to all traffic.

A. G Robertson, resident engineer in charge of constructing the new Fore River bridge, estimated that the damaged span cannot be repaired and ready for use inside of five days.

Within a half-hour after the accident South Shore traffic was in a turmoil as police reserves began routing it off the main roadway through Weymouth Landing and East Braintree.

TANKER BREAKS LOOSE

The bridge wrecked was the temporary span put in service last year while the new bridge is being built.

It is the only bridge over Fore River on the direct South Shore route.

The Cities Service tank liner, Koolmoter, outbound in ballast and under convoy of three tugs, broke loose from one of her escorts while approaching the open draw.

The big steel boat sheered off the piling approaches to the draw and her sharp bow cut eight feet through the railing in the wooden bridge, approach on the Weymouth side of the draw.

SHIP SNAGGED IN CRASH

Occupants of cars parked on the bridge approach waiting for the draw to close felt the bridge sway and sag under them.

The Koolmotor remained wedged in the bridge for about 15 minutes before the tugs succeeded in pulling her out. She was then taken through the draw, apparently undamaged.

Beyond the new bridge construction, however, she again went out of control and nosed into the mud flats. She was floated 10 minutes later.

When attempt were made to close the swing draw it was found that the approach had been knocked out of line by about five feet and that its end was two feet below the end of the draw.

Engineer Robertson said V. Barletta, in charge of constructing the half-finished new bridge, would put several squads of men at work day and night repairing the damaged temporary span but that it could not possibly be put in service for the heavy weekend traffic flow.

Songstone, a first time starter, displayed speed from the outset, [illegible] up stoutly to take the lead midway of the turn and, hard ridden, held sway to the close. Narise moved up steadily leaving the backstretch and finished with good energy. Reminding, slow to begin and outrun for the first three furlongs, moved up on the outside when reaching the stretch and, closing stoutly, was going fastest of the lot at the end. Mamma Mary showed a good effort. Many Moons was rushed up nearing the far turn to enter into contention, though unable to improve [illegible] position in the drive. Ktwo was never a factor. Glitter showed good speed but stopped in the last three-sixteenths. La Junta White had early speed.

Suffolk First To Songstone

Another day of intense, burning heat, and the second successive afternoon of an estimated crowd of 8500, marked Suffolk Downs' third program of its inaugural meeting of 28 days.

Announcement was made this afternoon that post time for the balance of the meeting will be set back 15 minutes to 2:15 instead of the 2 o'clock opening up to now.

The Daily Double windows will accordingly close at 2 o'clock, 15 minutes later than the opening days.

Jockey Charlie Stevenson, one of the leaders at Narragansett, gave the 9-1 shot Songstone a fine ride to account for a juicy winning price of $20.20 in the opening number today.

Balloon Blows Up, 5 Leap

By Associated Press

Rapid City, S. D., July 12—Disaster overtook the National Geographic Society-United States army corps stratosphere balloon here today as the giant bag collapsed from an unexplained cause one hour before the scheduled take-off.

No one was injured, but five men working on the gondola preparatory to lashing the metal ball to the balloon were forced to jump to safety. Guards also scattered quickly to avoid injury.

Roosevelt Then and Now

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT: It was clear to the framers of our Constitution that the greatest possible liberty of self-government must be given to each State. That is what we call the doctrine of "home rule," and THE WHOLE SPIRIT OF THE CONSTITUTION is to carry this great principle into the relations between the National Government and the government of the States. (From radio address broadcast from coast to coast on March 2, 1930.)

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT: The country must choose between centralized regulation of activities that had swept over boundary lines and the haphazard handling of such problems by the States, with consequent inefficiency and the development of sectionalism. (From his statement at White House newspaper conference, May 31, 1935.)

New England's third day of the heat wave had taken eight lives today.

At 2 p.m. the mercury reached 90 to equal the year's high mark of 90, reached a week ago today.

The all-time heat record for July 12 was set up in 1908 at 97 degrees, and before nightfall it was expected this mark might be topped.

Relief in the form of thunder showers is predicted for late tonight, with tomorrow expected to be fair and cooler.

Boston and New England were not sweltering alone today, however. All across the country it was hot, and in some sections thermometers read well over 100 degrees.

PRIEST SEIZED By Hitlerites

Erfurt, Thueringen, Germany, July 12—A Catholic priest of Birkungen was taken into "preventive custody" today following a Hitler youth society demonstration in front of his home.

An official statement charged the priest had beaten one of the youths when the latter gave a "Heil Hitler" salute.

Scores of Burkungen inhabitants sided with the priest when trouble threatened. A fire brigade was summoned and streams of water were poured upon participants. Finally police restored order.

PORTLAND Asks $6,000,000 Park

Portland, Me., July 12 (AP)—Application to the Public Works Administration for $6,000,000 of federal funds for construction of an amusement and recration development in the "Back Cove" section of Portland was made today by the Portland Public Development Commission.

The development would eliminate mudflats. The project would employ 3000 men for a year.

J. P. MORGAN On Way to Europe

New Yo., July 12 (AP)—J. P. Morgan, the financier, is aboard the Aquitania which sailed at midnight for England.

It was learned at his office today that he is making his customary annual visit abroad and expects to spend August at his hunting lodge in Scotland.

Battle Over Heiress' Will

Mrs. Elva Statler Davidson, heiress to hotel fortune, whose mysterious death last February resulted in the beginning of a battle today over her will. Her fortune was left to H. Bradley Davidson. It is charged by her foster-brother that Davidson and Prof. W. Barton Leach of Harvard Law School forced her to sign the will.

BOSTON ITALIANS RUSH TO ENLIST

Italy's invasion of East Africa and the world crisis provoked by the Italian-Abyssinian controversy came home to Boston today.

Hundreds of youths, the majority of Italian-American extraction, but many without Italian ancestry, have volunteered for service with Italy's armies, it became known.

Their names are on the records of the Italian consulate at 51 St. James avenue, Back Bay. So far all have been told that there is no need of their services.

12 U. S. Fliers to Aid Ethiopia

By Associated Press

Grasse, France, July 12—Hal Du Berrier, former American commercial air pilot, announced today he had recruited 12 American flier to fight for Ethiopia.

Duberrier said Major Granville Pollock, famous veteran of the old Lafayette Escardrille, was aiding him to raise a force to form a nucleus for an Ethiopian air corps.

He refused to divulge names of the other pilots.

"We are willing to fight for an ideal," said Duberrier. "The Ethiopian authority assured me there would be plenty of promotions and decorations."

He said Emperor Haile Selassie would furnish the planes but he refused to say when he planned to go to Addis Ababa. He said that his party, he hoped, "will be greatly strengthened" in Egypt.

HARVARD MAN IN HEIRESS WILL FIGHT

Professor W. Barton Leach, of Harvard Law School, was named today in charges that Elva Statler Davidson—12 days before her mysterious death —"was virtually driven" into making a will bequeathing her new husband $500,000.

Leach or the beneficiary, H. Brdaley Davidson, Jr., or both, "acting in concert, unduly and unfairly and wrongfully", induced the bride to execute the will against her wishes and desires, documents filed in court in Carthage, N. C., alleged.

The Radcliffe graduate, Statler Hotel heiress, was found dead from carbon monoxide in her garage in Pinehurst, N. C., last February—12 days after the will was drawn by Leach and less than two months after her marriage to Davidson, socially prominent Philadelphian 20 years her senior.

FOSTER-BROTHER SUES

Today's charges were contained in a caveat filed in preparation for contest of the will by Ellsworth Morgan Statler, foster-brother of the young heiress, and his foster-sister-in-law, Katherine M. Statler, as guardian for Joan Marie Statler, foster-granddaughter of the late E. M. Statler.

Also a party to the action was Miss Isabell Baer of Minneapolis, Radcliffe chum of Mrs. Davidson, who had been bequeathed property and named executrix under a will superceded by that drawn by Leach.

The Harvard Law professor, in whose Waban home Mrs. Davidson had been a visitor, is alleged in a bill of particulars to have suggested and urged the heiress on January 3, the day of her marriage, to make a new will.

He did so, it is charged, "at the

U. S. STEERS CLEAR OF ITALO-ETHIOPIAN FIGHT

ROME ANXIOUS OVER BRITISH GOVERNMENT'S POLICY

East Africa War Outlook

1—Washington indicates definite policy of keeping hands off in Italo-Ethiopian dispute though anxious to preserve world peace.

2—Great Britain reopens negotiations with Italian envoy to see if peace overtures cannot be made acceptable.

3—Rome expresses some anxiety as to British policy, in view of Foreign Minister Sir Samuel Hoare's declaration to the House of Commons.

4—Geneva sees hope of a new meeting of the conciliation commission, whose sessions in Holland ended abruptly.

By Associated Press

Washington, July 12—Though the last few days have produced signs the United States is deeply concerned over threatened strife between Italy and Ethiopia, there was no indication today that co-operative action with other powers is under consideration.

That the United States wishes to aid the world's peace machinery in averting war was indicated yesterday by Secretary Hull.

Hull conferred yesterday with Andre De Laboulaye, French ambassador, and Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, after talking the day before with Augusto Rosso, Italian ambassador.

Officials said the conversations dealt only with information about the situation.

It was said Lindsay and Laboulaye were invited to give any information in their possession concerning the crisis.

The State Department also sought information about proposals—reported in despatches from London—for a conference by Great Britain, France and Italy in an effort to reach a peaceful settlement.

Meanwhile, Senator Pope (D.), Idaho), said he believed the United States intended to "consult and co-operate with other nations under the Kellogg peace treaty and the League of Nations.

In a radio speech last night, he declared that Mussolini has "apparently entered upon a course of subjugating Ethiopia by force with utter disregard of his solemn obligations." The United States, the senator said, must not stand idly by and do nothing.

Ethiopia Lake Holds Key to British Plans

By Associated Press

London, July 12 — In the background of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute—where the British government is willing to remain for the time being—is the question of Lake Tsana.

This great Ethiopian lake empties out of Emperor Haile Selassie's domain and furnishes life blood to agriculture in the Sudan and Egypt through the blue Nile.

The British government is not willing even to discuss possibility of Lake Tsana passing out of Ethiopia's hands in case of war.

At the turn of the century, Great Britain began efforts to get a dam at Lake Tsana to regulate flow of the heavy waters of the Blue Nile, prevent disastrous floods, and provide a regular flow of water through storage during the rainy season.

These diplomatic efforts approached their culmination May 10 when Ethiopia invited Egypt, Great Britain, and the Sudan to send representatives to Addis Abba to consider an agreement.

Great Britain, however effected an indefinite postponement of the conference.

Britain Renews Efforts To End Warlike Moves

By Associated Press

London, July 12—The British government, persisting in its efforts to head off hostilities between Italy and Ethiopia, sought today another solution to the crisis.

Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, called Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary general of the League of Nations, to a conference at which informed circles said some new way out of the impasse might be advanced.

The gray-haired Avenol, on a mission to avert war in East Africa and to bolster the League, also arranged a second conference with Captain Anthony Eden, England's secretary for League of Nation's affairs.

With France sidestepping the situation and the United States expressing "extreme misgivings," it was generally believed any key to possible peace still lies in London.

It became clear, however, after Sir Samuel's exposition of foreign policy to the House of Commons yesterday, that Great Britain will not act alone and has never even considered an economic blockade against Italy.

The House of Commons endorsed the foreign policy of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's new government, rejecting by 236 to 40 a labor motion to reduce foreign office appropriations.

Mussolini Government Awaits British Reaction

By Associated Press

Rome, July 12—Italian official circles today interpreted the foreign policy speech of Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary, as tending to clarify the Italo-Ethiopian situation today.

The officials said they were curious, however, as to what Great Britain's program would be to preserve peace in East Africa. Despite this skepticism, they regarded the speech as evidence of a more understanding attitude toward Italy's policy.

Belief was expressed freely on all sides that England would not cease her efforts to settle the Italo-Ethiopian dispute—despite Italy's determination to seek "complete solution."

The Italian press warned the people not to be optimistic about the speech.

Official circles expressed interest in knowing exactly what the British Foreign Minister had in mind when he said he was ready to act to avoid a conflict between Italy and Ethiopia on the basis of the Treaty of 1906 or through the League of Nations.

They thought Sir Samuel, in referring to the 1906 treaty between England, Italy and France, establishing spheres in Ethiopia, had in mind convocation of a three-power conference.

Official circles said that if this is so, Italy has no intention of attending a conference to discuss a controversy which she believes should be settled directly between herself and Ethiopia.

Conciliation Board May Be Called Again

By Associated Press

Geneva, July 12—League of Nations authorities persisted today in hopes that conciliation may yet resolve the deadlock between Italy and Ethiopia.

The Italian and Ethiopian representatives on the conciliation commission, which broke up at Scheveningen, The Netherlands, over territorial issues, proposed that they meet again, July 20, in an effort to settle this question.

With indications that negotiations for settlement were not necessarily closed, the League faced the alternative of calling an extraordinary session of the Council —and risking Italy's withdrawal from Geneva.

The consensus was that the Council ultimately will be convoked—possibly within three weeks.

Ethiopia Frowns Upon Peace Hint by Britain

Addis Ababa, July 12—Even though willing to pay a high price for peace with Italy, Ethiopia probably will refuse to accept any British proposals that Italy be given sovereignty over any large sections of Ethiopia.

This was stated on highest authority today as reports reached here Britain was urging Italy to accept new conditions submitted for a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian quarrel.

Among the concessions Britain has proposed to Italy, according to the reports, is Ethiopian recognition of Italian sovereignty over Tigre and Galla provinces.

McKnight Unaware He's Freed

In a coma most of the time in his Medford home, Edwin T. McKnight still does not realize he has been pardoned, members of his family said today.

Released from Norfolk prison colony Wednesday, after serving two years of sentences aggregating six to seven years, the former president of the closed Medford Trust Company remained in a critical condition from diabetes and heart disease.

He recognizes his wife and daughter in conscious moments, they said, but he does not know he is home.

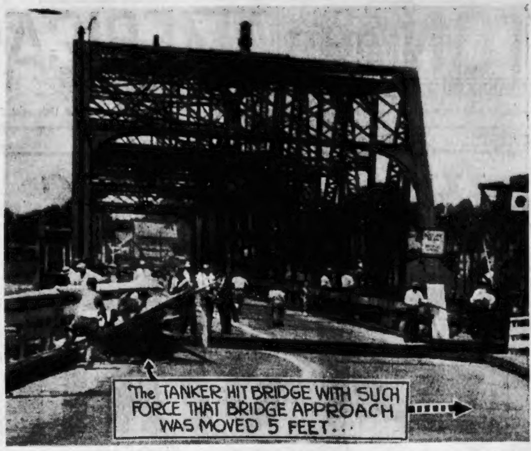
Falling 15 feet from a window in her home, Helen Gately, 50, of Rochester street, South End, is under treatment today for a possible fracture of the spine.

Late Getting Home? Here's Your Alibi!



The TANKER HIT BRIDGE WITH SUCH FORCE THAT BRIDGE APPROACH WAS MOVED 5 FEET...

Knocked all askew by a big steel tank ship which nosed into it while being towed, this Fore River bridge between Quincy and Weymouth is out of commission for days, compelling South Shore auto traffic to take a lengthy detour. If you're late for supper, here's an alibi made to order for you.

Here's what happens when a heavy steel liner nudges its sharp nose into an inoffensive wooden bridge. Result of the collision is a five-day tie-up of South Shore traffic while repairs to the Fore River span are being made. (Pictures by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

Letter Thief On Probation

For theft of a letter, Harry W. Devitt, 19, of Pagoda street, Milton, graduate of Milton high school last month, was placed on probation for five months in Malden court today.

While selling magazines from door to door he took a letter from the mailbox of Mrs. Maud Hervey of Dover street, Medford. It was one she had written and left for the carrier to collect and mail.

After the theft which Mrs. Hervey discovered, police picked Devitt up and released him when, seaching him at his invitation, they failed to find the note.

They held him a second time after another woman saw him return to Dover street, take the letter from under a rock and tear it to bits.

DORIS DUKE Ends Yacht Trip

Manila, July 12 (AP)—The James Cromwells' deluxe honeymoon tour of the South Seas ended today when the couple sent the luxurious yacht Sea Belle II back to Singapore where they had chartered it from the Federated Malay States.

The rest of the way around the world Cromwell and his bride, the former Doris Duke, heiress to tobacco millions, will depend on more prosaic means of travel.

$300,000 LOBBY FUND EXPOSED

Washington, July 12—Evidence that more than $300,000 had been spent by public untility executives in an effort to defeat the provision in the utilities bill to abolish "unnecessary" holding companies in seven years was received today by the Senate lobby committee.

It came from Philip H. Gadsden of Philadelphia, chairman of a committee of public utilities executives formed to oppose the abolition clause.

The fate of this provision, desired by President Roosevelt, still is in doubt. The Senate approved it by a aone-voe margin and the House twice rejected it.

The House joined the Senate today in sending the bill to conference.

By an assessment of one half cent a meter on the companies, Gadsden said, the committee of executives raised about 200,000 of which $151,000 has been spent.

In addition, he related, the Edison Electric Institute of New York contributed $150,000.

Of this, he said, $75,000 each was paid to two law firms, Justin Ward of Richmond, Vt., and Sullivan and Cromwell of New York.

Couzens Doing Well

Rochester, Minn., July 12 (AP)—Physicians at the Mayo Clinic today reported Senator James Couzens of Michigan in satisfactory condition following an operation for an internal ailment.

instigation of and for and on behalf of Davidson."

MADE HER DEPRESSED

The bill further alleges that Leach later wrote Mrs. Davidson again, urging the making of a new will although she "indicated no interest in or desire to make a new will."

The alleged insistence by both Leach and Davidson, it is charged, depressed and troubled the heiress, and caused her unhappiness, as she was "unduly induced and virtually driven to make the execution of a will which she did not desire to make."

As a result, the bill continues, Mrs. Davidson suffered moody spells, "a deep and desperate mental condition" and mental depression.

On the day she signed the new will bequeathing her half-million dollar estate to her husband, the heiress was "admittedly ill," it was charged.

Davidson is referred to as the "propounder," Leach as the "draughtsman" in the bill.

LEACH IS SILENT

The caveat action will probably be heard in Carthage on September 16.

Leach had acted as attorney for the Statler heiress for more than a year before her marriage.

Reached in his summer home in Bridgeton, Me., today, Professor Leach said he would make no comment about the action at this time. He said:

"There is nothing to be said at this time.

"This is a matter that is to be tried in the North Carolina courts.

"I am not a beneficiary under the will, neither am I an executor of the will. I am merely a witness in this case.

"I do not care to make any comment about the charge as a result of my action in connection with the making of the will that Mrs. Davidson suffered moody spells and a mental depression."

NEW BRUNSWICK Tilley Cabinet Quits

St. John, N. B., July 12 (AP)—Calling upon Dr. Murray McLaren, lieutenant-governor, Premier L. P. D. Tilley today tendered the resignations of his government, defeated when Liberals under A. A. Dysart won 43 out of 48 seats in the New Brunswick elections June 27.

The new administration is expected to be sworn in Monday at Fredericton.

CITY HONORS On Bastille Day

In commemoration of the French holiday, Bastille Day, Mayor Mansfield has arranged to place a wreath at the Lafayette tablet on the mall on Boston Common at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Bastille Day will be celebrated on July 14, Sunday. Henri A. Bergeron, French consul, will be present when the mayor places the wreath.

DEFAULT BARED ON BILLIONS IN BONDS

By JOHN H. NOONAN

More than 80 per cent of the ten thousand million dollars worth of real estate bonds throughout the country are in default, it was revealed in Boston today.

Of the more than eight thousand million dollars worth of bonds in default there are more than one thousand million dollars worth of them in default right here in New England.

The disclosures were made by Murray W. Garsson, former special assistant secretary of labor and now executive assistant for the Sabath Congressional Committee.

This committee is investigating the real estate bond situation, one in which the investing public lost more than one thousand million dollars in New England alone during the last five years.

Garsson moved into Boston today, preceding the committee, which which will hold hearings as soon as Congress adjourns.

One of his first acts was to confirm appointments of Attorney Peter C. Borre as chief counsel in the New England district, former Assistant District Attorney William I. Schell as special and Leo Hopkins as chief investigator of complaints.

"Chairman Sabath and the committee have a determination to bring to light the so-called protective committees, the excessive fees taken by them, the fraudulent liquidation of properties and the wiping out of bondholders' equities," Garsson said.

HEARINGS DUE SHORTLY

"The chairman will set a date for the open hearings in the very near future."

Garsson was asked if any of the larger bond issues sold in New England had met sinking fund, amortization and interest requirements.

"Very few, I am sure," he replied.

Asked if any of the bond issues had, he said:

"Well, the William Randolph Hearst properties have met all their sinking fund, amortization and interest requirements throughout the country. So that answers your question.

"As I said to Chairman Sabath in an open hearing in New York a few days ago, 'It is a religion with Mr. Hearst to meet his bond obligations.'"

Garsson declared that the properties under investigation in this district in connection with the sale of bonds and actions of the protective committees include the following:

American Bond & Mortgage issues, Straus issues, Prudence Bond issues, the Boston Metropolitan Building, which includes the Metropolitan and Wilbur theaters, Motor Mart Trust Garage, Ritz Hotel, Myles Standish Hotel, Beacon Trust Building, Hotel Fensgate and the Commonwealth Bond & Mortgage.

Morrison Wife Wins Divorce

Salem, July 12—Mrs. Mildred Morrison today won custody of her 10-year-old daughter, Mary; $5 a week for the support of the child; a $1 settlement in lieu of alimony, and a divorce from Robert Morrison on charges of desertion.

The settlement was made during trial of Morrison's suit for divorce. He accused his wife of misconduct with another man. Morrison withdrew his charges, under the agreement, and was given custody of the couple's 14-year-old son, Robert.

Morrison lies in Western avenue, Saugus, and his former wife in Franklin street, Quincy.

PARTY FIGHT On 48-Hour Week

Legislation providing a 48-hour week for state institutional employes faces a hard fight under an adverse report brought in by the Senate ways and means committee today.

The bill, already passed by the House, must override what appears to be a strict party battle if it succeeds when it comes up again in the Senate next week.

The three Republican members in today's report voted against the bill. The two Democratic members of the committee dissented.

and twenty-four cents. It got the business.

Those that oppose government ownership under all conditions will say: "Ah, but our postoffice loses money." Perhaps it does, but it sends a letter from Miami to Seattle for three cents and we get the benefit. How much would a private company charge for that?

Senator Norris of Nebraska, radical, of the right sort, which means a genuine American, celebrated his seventy-fourth birthday yesterday, plenty young enough to make a good President.

He said that he was sure the future would "bring a better democracy." That might easily happen.

John Jacob Astor, 3rd, son of the late John Jacob Astor, half-brother of the present Vincent Astor, is expecting something interesting, and says he will name it "just plain William," without any middle name, if it turns out to be that kind of a "something." Sensible decision. It is foolish to load a boy or a girl with two or more names, unless you expect two or more uncles or aunts to "do the right thing" in their wills.

Hot weather, cold weather, depression or prosperity, women are ambitious. Yesterday, Laura Ingalls, first woman to fly across the continent alone from west to east, started a non-stop flight the other way, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Her plan was to beat the record.

How many of the thick-necked men, who used to say that women should not vote because they lacked man's courage, would have done the same?

EIGHT N. E. DEATHS IN HEAT WAVE

Two drownings today swelled to eight the number of persons dead in New England as the result of the three-day heat wave.

Threatening both the heat record for the year and the record of 97 degrees for this date, set up in 1908, the mercury had climbed to 89 degrees at noon.

Yesterday at noon it was 81 and the day before it was 75.

Relief in the form of thundershowers is promised for late tonight, with tomorrow expected to be fair and cooler.

Six of the eight deaths in New England were from drowning and the other two from heat prostrations. The dead are:

ROLAND BUSSIERE, 19, of Holyoke, drowned in Hampton Pond, Westfield.

HARRY E. TARBOX, 29, automobile salesman, of Barre, Vt., drowned in swimming pool in Recreation Field, Barre.

JAMES BLACK, 63, of Worcester street, Indian Orchard, who was prostrated while working in his garden and died while being treated.

ALTHEA CHASE, 14, of Cape Neddick, Me., drowned while bathing in the Cape Neddick river, near York.

WALTER KOSOWSKY, 34, of Middle street, Pawtucket, R. I., believed to have suffered a heart attack while swimming off Ocean Grove, Fall River resort. Drowning caused death.

CHARLES D. LEACH, 57, of Berkshire avenue, Indian Orchard, who succumbed to shock induced by heat at his home.

JOHN SETARA, 16, of Lincoln, drowned in the Blackstone River at Lonsdale after diving from a dam.

ROBERT WEBSTER, 12, of South Salem, N. Y., drowned at Westport, Conn., after stepping unexpectedly into a deep channel.

In Providence, R. I., heat records for the summer were broken when the thermometer reached 91.2 at 2:30 p. m., yesterday. In Springfield a top of 94 degrees was recorded.

Many communities around Boston showed high marks of 100 or thereabouts.

Throughout New England generally municipal governments operated with skeleton staffs and at state capitols similar programs were followed.

Boston police are on duty without coats today for the first time in history as a result of Commissioner Eugene M. McSweeney's order, aimed at making the men more comfortable.

Bathing house facilities at Greater Boston beaches were strained to the utmost by crowds seeking relief.

As a result of the overcrowded conditions at L street, City Councillor Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., urged Park Commissioner Long to extend the locker privileges for men.

While there have been as many as 1000 men in line waiting for facilities at L street, the councillor said, he has found no evidence that boys' and women's quarters were similarly affected.

Auto Smashup Kills Woman

Rockport, July 12—Mrs. Carolin M. Anderson, [illegible], of Detroit, was killed today and five other women were injured when two automobiles sideswiped each other on the Rockport road. One plunged through a road railing and down an embankment.

The injured are Mrs. Margaret A. Hinckley of Newton, daughter of Mrs. Anderson; Miss Kitty Stewart, her mother, Mrs. Maude Stewart, both of Rockport; Mrs. Jason M. Dalley of Gloucester, and Mrs. Laura Sayre of Gardner.

The injured were taken to Addison Gilbert Hospital.

According to police, the automobile operated by Miss Stewart struck the auto driven by Mrs. Hinckley as they passed. Both were going in the direction of Rockport. The Stewart auto went through the railing.

Strato Balloon

THOUSANDS SEE 5 LEAP AS BIG BAG BURSTS

Rapid City, S. D., July 12 — Disaster overtook the National Geographic Society-U. S. Army Corps stratosphere balloon here today as the giant bag collapsed from an unexplained cause one hour before the scheduled takeoff.

No one was injured, but five men working on the gondola preparatory to lashing the metal ball to the balloon were forced to jump to safety. Guards also scattered quickly to avoid injury.

The top of the mammoth bag burst open without warning, permitting 375,000 cubic feet of helium gas to escape and definitely halting the projected flight.

Captain Albert W. Stevens, flight commander, said he had "absolutely no explanation" for the mishap.

He added that an investigation would be made but that nothing would be done until later in the day.

Spectators watching the preparations for the flight said the balloon ground ropes suddenly slackened and the top of the bag opened like a paper sack exploding.

As the helium, a colorless gas, rushed out, a blue haze appeared

This haze, officials of the National Geographic Society in Washington said they believed, was caused by talcum powder which was inside the balloon.

However, they said, the powder, which had been used in folding the balloon to prevent friction, could not have caused the explosion.

Pending investigation the mass of fabric was left untouched in the middle of the big illuminated ring where the balloon was benig prepared for the flight.

Flight officials said an attempt would be made to reconstruct the accident as nearly as possible in an effort to determine the cause.

They planned to examine the fabric inch by inch to see where and how the break occurred.

Before the collapse the helium was concentrated in the top of the bag, which was inflated to only about one-eighth its capacity. This was to allow for expansion in the sun's heat.

Sergeant G. W. Money, of the army air corps at Scott Field, Ill., one of the men who was working on the top of the gondola, described the mishap.

"I was working on a cross bar on top of the gondola," he said. "Suddenly I felt the ropes slacken.

"The next thing I knew the whole fabric came down on me."

J. F. Cooper of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, Akron. O., makers of the balloon, said he knew of no reason for the collapse.

TIMED BY LUCK

The first reaction at the flight camp was one of relief that the accident did not occur after the takeoff. It also was pointed out that had such a mishap occurred in last year's flight, when explosive hydrogen was used, the result might have been calamitous. Helium is non-explosive and non-inflammable.

Mrs. Orvil A. Anderson, wife of the balloon pilot, was one of the first to rush to the scene, searching for her husband. He was unhurt.

Mrs. Anderson said her first thought was that she was thankful "if it had to happen that it happened when it did."

"I'm sick with disappointment," she said, "particularly for Capt. Stevens and Andy."

The collapse of the balloon, which was said to be the world's largest, brought an abrupt end to 15 hours' feverish activity in the rock-bound bowl, 11 miles from here.

At 2:24 a. m., the balloon was in proper position and a crew started rolling the gondola beneath the bag. The next step was lashing the metal ball to the balloon by a network of ropes and webbing. It was while this task was being performed that the top of the helium filled fabric gave way.

Watching over all were the men who planned to climb into the gondola and soar at least a dozen miles above the earth.

Carefully they watched every test as they planned their work in the stratosphere.

Foremost among their aims was the collection of data for study of the little known cosmic rays which continuously bombard the earth from a mysterious source.

Although "cosmic radiation" has been known for more than 30 years, scientists were eager to learn more.

In addition to their individual parachutes, there was an 80-foot parachute attached to the gondola of this year's balloon which in case of accident was expected to slow the fall sufficiently to permit the fliers to jump and then bring the lightened gondola and its precious instruments to earth without major damage.

Then suddenly while the crew was preparing to say goodbyes and receiving wishes of good luck, the adventure was, at least temporarily, ended.

A puff of blue haze, a sag of the huge fabric, a confusion as roll was called to determine possible casualties, and everything was changed.

The crushing misfortune which so unexpectedly disrupted the expedition climaxed almost a year of preparation. Plans for the attempt were started immediately after the flight last July ended in near disaster over central Nebraska when the bag ripped at a height of 60,000 feet and then exploded.

The flight today was to have been the most ambitious undertaking of its kind ever attempted.

TOTS' PLIGHT IN CITY

Stranded Here After N.Y. Trip

Joe Reposa, although only 12, is a manly lad, but it was a bit too much today, even for him, when he arrved in Boston—broke and practically lost.

To make things a little more difficult, Joe was escorting his five-year-old niece, Dolodes Silva, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Dolores was hot and tired and fretful.

So Joe marched right over to a policeman and stated his plight.

The policeman was all sympathy. Relieving Joe of some of his many bundles, the officer rode the pair to the South Station and consulted Miss Helen T. Cullinan of the Travelers' Aid Society.

Joe told Miss Cullinan that he lives at 2 Orchard street, Newark, N. J. A married sister, Mrs. Marie Degasper, placed him and Dolores aboard a Boston bus last night in New York, handing Joe $4.

They were to go to a brother, John Reposa, who lives somewhere in Plymouth, but Joe did not know where.

Miss Cullinan and reporters fed the weary travelers, and then she telegraphed Plymouth police in an effort to locate the brother, while Joe and Dolores waited.

HEARST Bonus Stand PRAISED

DOHERTY ALSO LAUDS FISH

Praise for Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York and William Randolph Hearst for their determined fight to re-open the veterans' bonus issue, was voiced today by Daniel J. Doherty of Woburn, national vice-commander of the American Legion.

Doherty, past state commander and a candidate for the national post, said:

"I am glad that Representative Fish and Mr. Hearst have begun anew the fight for the bonus. Payment of the bonus will take thousands of veterans off the relief rolls and put millions of dollars into immediate circulation, bringing about the much-needed stimulus of business.

"The plan of Representative Fish to pay the adjusted service certificates in full out of the $4,800,000,000 work relief fund is highly commendable.

"What is the purpose of the work relief fund? It was established to decrease the relief rolls. Just think of how many veterans will be placed into a position of being able to buy.

"We must get behind Congressman Fish and Mr. Hearst, who are so faithfully fighting for our just cause and help them put the bonus 'over the top' this time."

Irish Women Fight Police

By Associated Press

Fermoy, Irish Free State, July 12—One hundred women swinging fists and throwing stones battled police 45 minutes today in an attempt to break up an auction sale of cattle seized for taxes.

The police, at the expense of torn clothing, scratches, and bruises, finally drove the women back. The cattle sale continued.

The demonstration was one of numerous protests made recently against the seizure of cattle for tax failures.

Scores in Pleas To Adopt 'Jackie'

Baby's Wiles Win Couples

Phone Requests Flood Mother

LITTLE "JACKIE" OFFERED MANY HOMES

75 Beg for 'Gift Baby'

"Jackie," the blonde baby girl whose mother is seeking a home for her, clutched her pink rattle possessively while her small boy cousins sought unsuccessfully to wrest it from her.

In much the same way, she has fastened her pink, curling fingers about Boston's heart in the few days since her mother's appeal for a home for her first appeared in this newspaper.

Wistfully unaware of the small furore she has created, she sits in her highchair or crawls about the floor in one of Chelsea's humbler apartments, while scores of men and women call the Boston Evening American pleading for the privilege of adopting her.

The majority of the requests, which are being made by mail, telephone and in person, come from childless couples of means, although there have been many young couples, admitting income totalling as little as $17 a week, who seek to make the little girl their own.

Approximately 75 responses have been received since the 19-year-old mother asked the Boston Evening American's aid in finding a snug harbor for her beautiful little girl, whose father has never seen her.

Can't Get Job

The young mother, who is untrained and unable to secure employment, has decided that she will give up her baby for adoption to some man and his wife, who can provide a loving, comfortable home for the child.

"I do not seek a wealthy home for her, necessarily, although I intend to be certain that there is sufficient means to insure her security and the usual advantages of a wholesome, middle-class American home. I would prefer that the would-be foster-parents be of the Protestant faith."

One of the splendid offers that have come to the 19-year-old mother of blue-eyed Jackie is from a man representing one of New England's oldest families. He and his wife have a beautiful estate "which needs a child to make it complete," he says, in one of Boston's most exclusive suburbs.

"If a more extensive investigation on both sides proves mutually satisfactory and the adoption were to go through to completion, Jackie would be cared for as our own child."

"The instant we saw Jackie's picture in your newspaper," is the usual introduction to these telephoned offers of homes for the child, "my husband and I (or 'my wife and I' or 'my children and I') decided we wanted her for our own."

Jackie, who is as cute as a Dionne though her's is the coloring that men prefer, is a beautifully healthy youngster with sturdy, plump little legs, silken flax-colored hair and gentian-blue eyes.

G. P. U. KEEPS EYE ON ALL FOREIGN ASSEMBLIES

Once Fred E. Beal was a "100 per cent Communist." He was an official of radical textile workers' unions and was Communist party organizer in America.

A native of Lawrence, he led the Communist element in big textile strikes in that city and in others.

Then Beal, a fugitive from justice in America, fled to Russia. Today having learned his lesson, he details more of his experiences in Soviet Russia.

By FRED E. BEAL

ARTICLE FIVE

In the United States I was a recognized Communist leader, under a 20-year prison sentence as a violent Red, regarded as a martyr to the cause of the proletariat to which I had dedicated my life.

In Soviet Russia I was bluntly informed by one of the chiefs of the G. P. U. that I was suffering from American bourgeois and democratic ideas as soon as I began working for the Soviet government.

Upon my arrival in Moscow this time, with the intention of "being good," the Communist International received me with open arms and quickly assigned me to an important position at the great Kharkov tractor plant.

Kharkov was the capital of the Ukranian Soviet Republic. There was a colony of several hundred foreign workers and specialists, mostly Americans, Germans and Czechoslovaks at the tractor plant.

I was appointed chief of propaganda and cultural relations, and was to be the contact man between the Soviet authorities and the foreigners.

The instructions that I carried specified my duties as follows: To supervise the food supply and the housing conditions of the foreigners, and take measures to satisfy their complaints; to organize political classes, excursions and cultural entertainments.

Had Red Assistant

Associated with me in this work was Isadore Erenburg, a Los Angeles Communist, a native of the Ukraine.

Before leaving Moscow, my instructions were amplified at the Communist International by Clarence Hathaway, at that time Moscow representative of the American Communist party and now editor of the Daily Worker in New York. Comrade Hathaway explained my duties to me in the following fashion:

> "Do NOT yield to the materialistic desires of the foreigners, but cajole them and try to make them happy with as little as possible in the way of food and other requirements."

He made it clear that the idea was to get the most out of the foreigners in the way of showing the Russians HOW to produce tractors without giving way to their individualistic tendencies and loose political notions.

With Stalin's Chiefs

Upon my arrival in Kharkov, I realized how important my position was.

I was thrown into contact with the highest Soviet officials, such as Petrovsky, the President of the Ukranian Soviet Republic; with Skrypnix, vice-president of the council of people's commissars and member of the central committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union; with the all-powerful Postishev, who had been sent down by Stalin from Moscow to weed out the rebels in the Ukranian Communist party; and with the leading officials of the G. P. U. As a labor organizer in America for many years, my first thought upon assuming office was to ORGANIZE the foreigners at the Kharkov tractor plant into one group so as to better utilize their skill.

All the foreigners received much higher wages than the Russians. Many were paid in valuta—in foreign currency. I wanted the Soviet government to get its money's worth out of the foreigners.

My first act was to call a meeting of the most active foreigners, who were either Communists or Communits sympathizers. The meeting was a huge success, if judged by the number of complaints received about living conditions and the food service.

Rouses Red Anger

The Soviet officials were angered by my calling the meeting. I had done it in my naivete without their knowledge and they had no representative present.

Only an American with such a record as mine could have got away with such an unheard-of step, of daring to hold a meeting at which no agent of the Stalin dictatorship was present, I discovered shortly afterwards.

The chief of the G. P. U. in Kharkov, Comrade Potapenko, invited me to call on him. He told me not to organuse the foreigners, because those inclined toward Fascism might take up political matters.

I replied that having been entrusted with a job by the Soviet government, I could be trusted to do that job in the best way to meet the needs of the situation.

Potapenko made it unmistakably clear to me that the only meetings I was to call were those in connection with factory work, and added:

> "And then ONLY when told to do so by the Communist party leaders. A party representative must ALWAYS be present at such meetings."
>
> "Why couldn't the foreign workers organize and make known their feelings in matters concerning their own welfare, even on political issues?" I blew up in reply to Potapenko. "The majority of the foreigners consists of Communists or Communist sympathizers."

How Stalin Rules

"Ah," the chief of the G. P. U. spoke up significantly. "Now you'd better forget your American bourgeois-democratic ideas! You are now under the dictotorship of the pretetariat!

The irony of the situation was beyond words. I could almost see cartoons in the capitalist press in America depicting that interview, in which a Soviet bureaucrat was upbraiding Fred E. Beal, Red Gastonia fugitive, for his bourgeois ideas.

"Of course," I mumbled in answer, "I know that this is the dictatorship of the proletariat. But I had supposed that workers enjoyed democratic rights within the framework of the Bolshevik system."

I learned my lesson. It was obviously my mistake. The workers' democracy which I had believed to exist in Russia was to be found only on the forgotten paper known as the Soviet constitution and in the bristling columns of the Communist newspapers abroad. In reality, the Soviet regime was a dictatorship OVER the proletariat!

Continue this amazing expose of Soviet Russia conditions under "Paradise" Rule in tomorrow's Boston Evening Amercan.

'White-Shirt Job' Now

25 SUMMONED IN STOCK PROBE

Twenty-five witnesses have been summoned to appear before the Federal grand jury in connection with the probe to begin Tuesday of stock sales of Boston and New York brokerage houses.

Assistant United States Attorney Charles W. Bartlett expects that it will take at least three days to present evidence which had been accumulated several months ago.

One of the concerns to be probed has been under investigation by the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

The names of the witnesses have not been disclosed.

CURLEY SIGNS NEW LABOR BILL

Flanked by a group of labor officials, Governor Curley today signed the anti-injunction labor bill which is modeled on federal Norris-LaGuardia act.

One of the chief clauses prohibits the issuance of injunctions unless damage or injury is bound to result, and even then the injunction can stand for only five days before hearings are held.

As the Governor signed the bill, John S. Gatelee of Springfield, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, said:

> "You are now emancipating labor before the courts. By that act you give to labor the same standing enjoyed by every other defendant in all other branches of the law."

Girl Foiled in 2 Attempts to Hang Self

Several attempts at suicide by a 22-year-old Cambridge girl were balked today in Central square police station, Cambridge, after she had been arrested on a drunkenness charge.

To Cambridge police, she gave her name as Miss Mary Rafferty of Magazine street.

A short time after being placed in a cell she attempted to hang herself on the cell door with a dress belt, according to Patrolman Raymond Patten. He blocked that try.

Later the girl used a cord in a second attempt to hang herself, Patrolman William Stone reported. Stone took the cord away.

The girl was first reported to police by a motorist who gave his name as N. B. Davis of Martin street, Cambridge.

Davis drove to Central square station and told police he had found the girl lying in the roadway of Fresh Pond parkway, near the new Concord turnpike.

When police went to his car to question the girl she had fled.

In Western avenue she hailed another car. Later a third motorist reported that he had found the girl in a doorway at Highland street and Memorial drive. Police picked her up there.

PURVIS, G-MEN ACE GANG FOE, RESIGNS JOB

By WALTER WINCHELL
(Copyright, 1935, by International News Service)

Atlantic City, July 12 — Melvin Purvis, agent in charge of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation in Chicago, resigns today to enter private business.

Purvis, whose brilliant record in the Midwest was climaxed with the trapping of John Dillinger, will be succeeded by Mickey Ladd, son of the late United States Senator Ladd.

Purvis is the second star federal agent to resign this year, Francis X. Fay, formerly in charge of the New York branch of G-men, having quit recently to take an executive position with a New York department store.

(Editor's Note: Walter Winchell gave the Boston Evening American a clean "scoop" on Purvis' resignation. An hour after Winchell's story was carried it was confirmed by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation, who is attending the convention of the association of chiefs of police here.)

Ace G-Man Confirms Story, Plans Indefinite

By International News Service

Chicago, July 12—Melvin H. Purvis, who as head of Department of Justice forces in Chicago, wrote the death warrants for John Dillinger and his desperado mob, today confirmed reports of his resignation.

Silent as to his reasons for quitting his position as head of the G-men in the Chicago territory, the soft-spoken Southerner declared:

"My plans as yet are indefinite and I don't know where I shall go from here."

Purvis promised a statement later.

In earning the reputation of the government's No. 1 man-hunter Purvis led his agents in hunting down an imposing collection of murderous desperadoes and public enemies, including Dillinger, Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd and George "Baby Face" Nelson.

ERA WORKERS
Demand Pay

Sixty ERA workers, engaged on a Franklin Park project, stormed the local offices of the ERA at 1 Beacon street today to protest not receiving their weekly salaries.

Although work on the project was temporarily suspended last week, the workers, all former recipients of Boston welfare, demanded their pay.

Henry W. Fitzgerald, head of the grievance committee for the local ERA office, talked with a delegation of five of the workers.

He assured them they would receive their salaries in a few days.

CAPE COD FOG
Ties Up Canal

Due to dense fog on Cape Cod, ship traffic through the canal was at a standstill today.

The Merchants and Miners steamer Fairfax, scheduled to debark 159 passengers at 7 a. m. here today, was forced to anchor off Wings Neck, westerly entrance to the canal. The Savannah Line's City of Chattanooga, on its way here from Savannah via New York, was also among the craft at anchor.

GOVERNOR
Presses Judge Bill

Governor Curley is insistent that the Legislature pass at this session a bill prohibiting judges, associate judges and clerks of district cours from practicing in their own courts.

Declaring that there is no truth to the report that he had changed his position, the governor said he will send a special message to the Legislature Monday urging that body to reverse its action whereby it killed the bill to ban such practice.

GIRL, 9, HURT
In Auto Crash

A nine-year-old girl was seriously injured and two women were taken with her to Sunnyside Hospital, Medford, after an auto crash at Medford and Sycamore sts., Somerville, today.

The injured are Shirley Wilkes, 9, of Sunset ave., Medford; Grace Kavanaugh, Princeton st., Medford, and Mrs. Elizabeth Joseph, Princeton st., Medford.

The Wilkes girl suffered a fracture of the skull.

50 YEARS
With New Haven

A diamond-studded pin was presented to John W. Ahern, general agent at Quincy and Quincy Adams, who today completed a half-century of service with the New Haven railroad.

Ahern is 67 years old and lives in Broad street, Weymouth. He said he intends to continue in the service.

Kept Yacht to Self; Dodge Heir Is Sued

MRS. HORACE DODGE

THREE ACTIONS ASK TOTAL OF $500,000

By International News Service

New York, July 12 — He would not let her use his $100,000 yacht.

This unusual grievance is listed in three suits for alleged damages totaling 500,000 which the former Muriel Sisman, Detroit society girl, is bringing against her estranged husband, Horace Dodge, son and heir of the late automobile manufacturer.

The complaints, which counsel for Mrs. Dodge says will be filed Monday, cite a separation agreement which provided for the creation of a $50,000 trust fund for her support. The fund has not been set up, the complaints state.

The compaints further state that Dodge appropriated for himself nearly all the $75,000 in furnishings from their flat in Tilney street, London, at the time of their separation.

Mrs. Dodge also mentions the wedding presents. Her husband took $35,000 worth of them, she says.

And lastly, she adds, he failed to pay the rent for her suite which takes up a whole floor of the Hotel Pierre in Fifth Avenue.

Mrs. Dodge has told her attorneys that she fears most of all that her husband may take their children, David Elgin, 5, and Diana, 3, abroad and thus defeat the nine months a year custody allowed her.

ADMITS PLOT IN IN-LAW KILLING

By International News Service

Chicago, July 12—From the lips of Mrs. Blanche Dunkel, four-times divorced grandmother, police today drew the admission that she accompanied Ervin J. Lang, her murdered son-in-law, on a rendezvous with death three days before the mutilated body was discovered in a swamp.

Ignorant of what was in store for him, the handsome 25-year-old widow drove with Mrs. Dunkel to the apartment of Mrs. Evelyn Smith, former burlesque dancer, early Saturday, Mrs. Dunkel told police, to drink four Bourbon highballs containing "kockout drops."

While the two women sipped untreated drinks, Ervin slumped over, insensible, whereupon "somebody" slugged him on the head, Mrs. Dunkel told investigators.

Mrs. Dunkel's admission that she accompanied Lang on his fatal trip proved the most startling development of a night of questioning in which the lovelorn grandmother confessed to bargaining with Mrs. Smith for "arranging" the murder of the grocery clerk for a down payment of $100.

FOURTH PRIEST TRIED BY NAZIS

By International News Service

Berlin, July 12 — Fourth clerical defendant to face Nazi justice for alleged currency smuggling, Father Ernst Vorage, 51-year-old Catholic priest attached to the St. Vincent order in Cologne, went on trial today.

He is accused of smuggling 10,000 marks into Holland in 1932 and various other amounts during the two following years. The smuggled money, it was charged, was used to repay a Dutch loan and support the order's mission branch in the Netherlands.

According to the charges, 50,000 gulden donated by the American branch of the order also was taken into Holland by Vorage.

$80,000 WILLED
Geraldine Farrar

Ridgefield, Conn., July 12 (AP)—Sydney D. Farrar, father of Geraldine Farrar, former opera star, left her his entire estate. Estate amounting to $80,827.54, by his will admitted to probate here today.

FLOOD OF MUD IN HANKOW

By Associated Press

Hankow, China, July 12—A small portion of this city's main dike, fronting on the flooding Yangtze river, collapsed today allowing a mud-laden torrent to pour into the city.

Authorities made every effort to close the break but, until late tonight, without success.

Dispatches from northwestern Hupeh province disclosed today that appaling destruction was being inflicted there by the Han river flood, with indications that 2000 persons have perished in the city of Laohokow.

The entire city was submerged, destroying 3000 houses and making 10,000 persons homeless.

Another report said the town of Chaotien, 30 miles southeast of Ichang, was destroyed by the rampaging Yangtze river when dikes there collapsed, and only a few families survived, all others drowning.

Twice Jilted For Kin, He Tries Again

If any of the male relatives of John H. Barthelmes, 42, of 11 West street, Newton, start to read this—SKIP IT.

The first time John started to ge tmarried—10 or 12 years ago—the girl turned him down to marry his father!

The second time—three or four years ago—John got the sack in favor of his brither-in-law!

Now John has the date all set—July 20—to marry Gladys A. McLean, 18, of 63 Gates Pond road, Hudson, at her home in Hudson.

And—if anything happens this time—!!!

G. E. ROWE
Dies in Beverly

Beverly, July 12—George E. Rowe, 67, shoe manufacturer here for half a century, died today. He had retired in 1932 after owning the Millett-Woodbury Shoe Company for 40 years.

Rowe had been a director of the Beverly National Bank for a score of years. He leaves a son, Philip K.; a brother, William A., and two grandchildren, all of Beverly.

RETTICH LINK TO SUNKEN RUM BOAT SOUGHT

Federal agents today sought to learn whether any members of the Rettich mail robbery gang possess knowledge about the sinking of the rum runner John Dwight.

The Dwight was mysteriously sunk in Vineyard Sound 12 years ago, and although eight mutilated bodies drifted ashore from the wreck, no official solution of the case was ever reached.

Yesterday a salvage ship seeking treasure and the key to the mystery relinquished its efforts after recovering one rusty cutlass and a number of empty beer bottles from the wreckage.

Finding of the cutlass lent support to a long-cherished theory that the Dwight was boarded by hijack-pirates disguised as coast guards and scuttled after her crews had been slain and her illicit cargo looted.

SECOND BOAT RAIDED

It was revealed today that federal agents who worked on the case at the time unearthed information indicating the hijackers had boarded a second rum runner, after sinking the Dwight, and seized liquors ultimately sold for $300,000.

Admissions by Carl Rettich, during his trial for the Fall River mail robbery, that he was a big-time rum operator with an organization of 30 men led to a belief that he may have suffered at the hands of the hijack band, or that he might have other information pertinent to the Dwight mystery.

Government agents pointed to Rettich's testimony that the arsenal seized at his Warwick, R. I., estate was for protection of his cargoes against hijackers, and that he first met Charles Harrigan at sea "when he fell overboard."

This latter statement was never explained.

Rettich was engaged in liquor running with Danny Walsh, the Rhode Island "rum king," later kidnaped and believed slain, their association being at its height at about the time of the Dwight sinking.

GETS PLOT DETAILS

Meanwhile, Sheriff John McElroy at East Cambridge jail, where Rettich, Harrigan, John McGlone, Tommy Dugan and Joseph Fisher await sentence for the mail robbery, expected to receive from federal men a report on the frustrated machine gun plot to deliver the gang.

Upon the nature of this report depends whether or not evidence will be placed before a grand jury against a jail guard McElroy said was discharged because of the case.

This guard will be questioned by postoffice inspectors who, according to McElroy, observed him on three occasions in conversation with a New York man supected as being the leader of the jail break plot.

Flip-Flop!

WHEN is a truth not a truth?

If Candidate Roosevelt believed in something in 1932, can he in all sincerity disbelieve in it as President in 1935?

In Pittsburgh on October 19, 1932, Candidate Roosevelt said:

"QUITE APART FROM EVERY MAN'S OWN TAX ASSESSMENT, THAT BURDEN (heavy taxation) IS A BRAKE ON ANY RETURN TO NORMAL BUSINESS ACTIVITY. TAXES ARE PAID IN THE SWEAT OF EVERY MAN WHO LABORS BECAUSE THEY ARE A BURDEN ON PRODUCTION AND CAN BE PAID ONLY BY PRODUCTION. IF EXCESSIVE, THEY ARE REFLECTED IN IDLE FACTORIES, TAX-SOLD FARMS, AND HENCE IN HORDES OF THE HUNGRY TRAMPING THE STREETS AND SEEKING JOBS IN VAIN. OUR WORKERS MAY NEVER SEE A TAX BILL, BUT THEY PAY IN DEDUCTIONS FROM WAGES, IN INCREASED COST OF WHAT THEY BUY, OR (AS NOW) IN BROAD CESSATION OF EMPLOYMENT. THERE IS NOT AN UNEMPLOYED MAN—THERE IS NOT A STRUGGLING FARMER—WHOSE INTEREST IN THE SUBJECT IS NOT DIRECT AND VITAL."

If Candidate Roosevelt said that in order to defeat President Hoover for re-election, why isn't it just as legitimate for Candidate Hoover or any one else to use it to defeat President-Candidate Roosevelt for re-election?

* * *

THE tax raids go on with increasing fury and bitterness under the Roosevelt administration, inspired by Mr. Roosevelt himself.

Taxes are now proposed on inheritances—AND THERE WAS NOT IN PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S LAST MESSAGE TO CONGRESS A SINGLE RECOMMENDATION TO REDUCE THE TAXES ON THE WORKINGMAN'S WAGE OR THE WHITE-COLLAR MAN'S INCOME.

The sweat of the brow of the workingman over which Candidate Roosevelt wept has become a tax-sweating process under President Roosevelt that covers the laborer's whole body.

In taxes, what you take out of the hide of the wealthy comes out of the bone and blood of the poor.

CANDIDATE Roosevelt said so himself.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt has proved it!

NEW BREAK DUE IN NURSE DEATH

Hinting at a possible new development in the probe into the mystery death of Miss Florence Murphy, Mansfield nurse, District Attorney William C. Crossley of Fall River visited the State House this afternoon.

There he conferred with Captain Charles J. Van Amburgh, state ballistics expert, and Dr. George Burgess Magrath, medical examiner.

The district attorney revealed that these two will be the only witnesses called tomorrow at the resumption of the inquest.

Miss Murphy was found shot to death on a cot in the living room of her home in Mansfield, May 5.

Dog Struck by Car, Bites Driver, Dies

If J. Manfredi's dog hadn't run out into the street in front of Byron court, Jamaica Plain—

Then Arthur J. Gorham, 23, of 3 Belgrade terrace, West Roxbury, would not have had to go to the hospital—

But the dog did run out into the street—and Gorham's car did run over the dog—and the dog did bite Gorham when he tried to pick it up—

So Gorham was treated in City Hospital for a lacerated finger—

And the dog died in the Animal Rescue League.

W. R. HEARST'S RED EXPOSE PRAISED

Atlantic City, July 12—William Randolph Hearst and his publications won outspoken praise yesterday from Chief William J. Quinn of San Francisco, addressing the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Speaking from his recent experience in maintaining law and order in the longshoremen's strike at San Francisco, Chief Quinn declared:

"Those things start in a natural way, but when a workingman is in trouble he does not stop to investigate who is offering him aid. The Communists seize such a situation to step in.

"The startling thing about them is the fact they insist on free speech for themselves, but deny it to others. Anyone having the temerity to oppose them is boycotted and harassed in every possible way to silence him.

"William Randolph Hearst and the Hearst publications are being boycotted now by the Communist party because he has the courage to show the world who and what these people are, and what they propose to do. Threats have been made.

"Meanwhile the actual conditions in Russia are being truly pictured, rather than the idea that Russia has found the solution for all world ills and that the working man has found his paradise there."

Chief Quinn urged the police chiefs to work in conjunction with their state bar associations, "the better to combat inimical radical legislation and to educate the people on the subject."

BOSTON IRON Freight Rates Up

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized increased freight rates on rough iron and steel castings in less than carloads from Birmingham, Ala.; Chattanooga, Tenn., and intermediate points to Washington, D. C., and North Atlantic points from Baltimore to Boston.

The increases will amount to about 3 per cent.

GEN. JOHNSON Escapes Pickets

New York, July 12 (AP) — A group of men claiming to be members of a workers' unemployed union picketed General Hugh S. Johnson's office today, but General Johnson, head of the city's works progress division, was not there.

They congregated outside the building where Johnson has his offices, demanding "trade union wages, General Johnson, not berry pickers' scales."

CAPITAL FEARS FLOOD OF TAX PROTESTS

By Associated Press

Washington, July 12—A nation-wide offensive which business leaders are conducting against President Roosevelt's new tax plan drew expressions of apprehension today from some Democratic legislators considering the plan.

They foresaw a new shower of telegrams pouring down on Capitol Hill as the result of a country-wide distribution by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of a statement attacking the tax program as destructive, confiscatory and a "perversion of the taxing power."

Such a result, they feared, might herald a furious new struggle centering upon a Congress which was not yet finished with another titanic conflict—the one over the utilities bill.

WON'T DELAY PLAN

Meanwhile Democratic leaders denied rumors that the President's plan for a "wider distribution of wealth" through high inheritance taxes, increased levies on gifts and large incomes and a graduated tax on corporate incomes would be delayed until a future session of Congress.

The chamber will follow up its nation-wide action by sending representatives to a House ways and means committee hearing tomorrow to assail the bill.

"The urgent need at the present time," said a statement it sent to its 1500 member organizations, "is not more taxes on income but more income to tax.

"More income means more purchasing power for consumers, and more revenues for the government.

"Efforts to obtain restoration of the income that our people have enjoyed in past years are directly affected by the tax policies of government.

CALL IT DESTRUCTIVE

"In view of the shrunken income, the losses yet to be recouped, and the present methods of imposing taxes, the rates and effects of general tax policies now in force already bear too heavily upon the types of personal and corporate enterprises that must be depended upon to produce recovery."

The statement contended that the President's proposals are destructive because based solely on the idea that large enterprises, estates and incomes should be taxed heavily merely because of size.

Such an idea, it said, does not pay sufficient attention to the utility or economic value of aggregations of capital.

The National Association of Manufacturers is also fighting the taxes.

FARLEY TO CUT AIRMAIL PAY

Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service

Washington, July 12—In line with Postmaster General Farley's determination to cut American airmail service in South America, the post office department next week will complete its final report to revise routes and slash mail pay.

The new recommendations to the White House will urge retention of Pan-American Airways, Inc., as the contractor, because of its aid to American commerce with Latin America.

The report, it is indicated, will urge a slash in airmail pay and sharp route curtailment to cut Pan-American postal revenues by more than the 25 per cent originally proposed.

Youth Shoots Girl, Killed by Police

By International News Service

Toledo, O., July 12—A 19-year-old youth, identified by police as Victor Hudson, was killed by a police bullet here today after he allegedly shot and seriously wounded Miss Ida Wexler, an ERA office worker, during an attempted holdup.

Police said the youth's mother had him arrested a month ago on a morals charge. Miss Wexler told police Hudson fired a bullet into her hip when she told him she had no money. She was reported in critical condition.

A police scout car, cruising near the scene of the crime, heard the shot. Two patrolmen seized Hudson.

The youth broke away and Officer Pat Bruen fired. Hudson, shot in the lung, fell dead

DROWNING BOY Saved by Guard

Seized with cramps while swimming off Tenean beach in Neponset today, Paul Fitzgibbons, 13, of Edwin street, Dorchester, was rescued by Lifeguard John Hanley as he was going under for the third time. Hanley, whose home is at 1892 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, applied artificial respiratory methods and the boy was removed to City Hospital.

Victim of Lockjaw

A victim of lockjaw, John Feery, 43, of Brahms street, West Roxbury, died at City Hospital. Tetanus set in after Ferry cut himself slightly on the wrist while trimming a hedge near his home.

Laura Ingalls May Go After Earhart Mark

Establishing an east-west record for women and a speed record for pilots of both sexes, Laura Ingalls, wealthy New York aviatrix, is shown at Floyd Bennett airport before her takeoff for the Pacific coast.

By Associated Press

Burbank, Cal., July 12—Laura Ingalls today dreamed of new aviation laurels after conquering the transcontinental skyways in the first non-stop east-to-west flight by a woman.

The brown-haired, 120-pound aviatrix made the gruelling but uneventful trip in 18 hours 19 minutes 30 seconds—too slow for a record between the oceans.

As she rested after landing last night, she mulled over tentative plans to attack anew the west-east flight, which has balked her twice recently.

"I may try for a west-to-east flight for a record," she said. "I'll know definitely in a few days."

Miss Ingalls brought her new $40,000 blackcowled monoplane to a safe landing at Union Air Terminal at 7:51 p. m. (10:51 p. m., eastern standard time).

"Boy, what a long ride!" she exclaimed, yanking a tiny beret off her head. "It was an ordeal and I'm glad I made it."

Amelia Earhart's west-to-east record of 17 hours, 7 minutes, 30 seconds, was made in a one-stop flight July 8, 1933.

FALL RIVER Coal Cases Continued

Fall River, July 12 (AP)—Andrew J. Farrissey, coal dealer and member of the board of fire commissioners, was arraigned in district court today with three others charged with the theft of coal from another dealer.

At the request of the defendants their cases were continued until September 10.

Betty Alden on 'Beacon Hill'

Newport Debuts of Interest To Boston Society

By BETTY ALDEN

EVERYONE HAS BEEN so interested in opening their summer homes and planning informal parties for the new debutantes that we had almost lost sight of the fact that the new season brings forth an illustrious crop of buds in other cities than Boston . . . Many of these girls are daughters of prominent families whose names are well known all over the country and others have actual family connections on Beacon Hill . . .

VIRGINIA FRENCH

For instance there is Virginia French, who, in sharp contrast to the conservative and quiet upbringing she received under her mother's wing, is now being widely publicized on account of her sister's marriage to John Jacob Astor, 3d . . .

• • •

Debut at Ball

VIRGINIA IS THE DAUGHTER of Francis Ormond French of Dedham and of Mrs. James Banks, Jr., of New York and Newport . . . Her social season will really get under way at the large ball which Mrs. Henry Walters is giving in Newport later in the summer . . .

At this party, which promises to be given in the true lavish Newport style, Virginia will share honors with Mrs. Walter's granddaughter, Jane Pope, and LeBrun Rhinelander, debutante daughter of Mrs. LeBrun Rhinelander and Philip Rhinelander, 3d and one novelty about the party will be the identical frocks worn by the three debutantes . . .

It is an odd coincidence that Phyllis Gillespie is also of deb age this season . . . Again the names of French and Gillespie will appear together in the social columns . . . Phyllis is the younger sister of Eileen Gillespie, who, you will recall, was the cause of much discussion when she broke her engagement to John Jacob Astor, 3d, just a few short weeks before he became betrothed to Tuckie French . . .

• • •

Pauline duPont in Debut Here

IN FACT ALL THREE NAMES are in the news this week, for husband Jack has just purchased a "tiny" 80-foot yacht so that he can conveniently commute from Newport to his $25 a week job . . . Friends believe that the new yacht is to be the playground of the expected son and heir, for Tuckie's first born is to be brought up nautically in true Astor fashion . . .

But to get back to Phyllis Gillespie . . . She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie who have decided that their daughter shall have an exciting time during her debutante year despite her staid and dignified family connections . . .

Each year Bostonians witness the debuts of the daughters of some of the finest families of the land, but it is seldom that a multi-millionairess makes her debut here . . . Because she has family connections here as well as in New York and Wilmington, Pauline duPont will be presented in Boston under the wing of her aunt, Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield . . . Pauline is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry duPont, who have already entertained for her at an elaborate dance at their estate at Southampton, L. I. . . .

Later in the summer, Pauline will be a member of many jolly sailing excursions aboard Cleopatra's Barge II, the big black yacht of the Crowninshields, for she is coming to make a visit in Marblehead with her aunt and uncle . . .

• • •

Entertained at Newport

IN NEWPORT, where their names are as influential as Cabot or Saltonstall on Beacon Hill, Margaret and Mary Easton will be widely entertained during the summer . . . They are the daughters of Mrs. Charles D. Easton and descendants of the distinguished Newport family for whom Easton's beach was named . . .

• • •

The wealthy Cheney family of South Manchester, Ct., engaged for centuries in the manufacture of fine silks, is producing another budding daughter . . . This year society will welcome Mabel Cheney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Cheney . . .

Katherine Bigelow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Bigelow of New York and Paris, is widely connected with some of Boston's prominent families and is scheduled to participate in many of the debutante festivities here during the winter . . .

• • •

Two daughters of the Belmont family will step into the social limelight . . . Bettina Belmont, who has lived a simple country life with her mother, Mrs. Arthur White, and her stepfather, one of the best gentleman riders and trainers of the South, is a sharp contrast to the up and coming Joan, only daughter of the Morgan Belmonts . . . Joan has a young and fashionable mother and her social connections have always thrown her in with a very smart and sophisticated New York crowd . . .

Le Brun Rhinelander

T. R.'S WIDOW

Heads Town Group

Brooklyn, Conn., July 12—Mrs. Edith K. Roosevelt, widow of former President Theodore Roosevelt, was named here as an honorary president of the newly organized Windham County Historical Society.

Mrs. Roosevelt was hostess to more than 150 members of the organization who met at her summer home.

HOSPITAL AIDES

Honor Dowling

All senior members of the medical and surgical staff at Boston City Hospital will be at the funeral services tomorrow for Dr. John J. Dowling, late superintendent, who died Wednesday evening.

Many of the nurses, and delegates from every function of the hospital activities will also be present.

MARBLEHEAD Sands Are Popular These Days

(Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer)

MRS. THOMAS D. WELCH snapped as she enjoyed the cool breezes of the sands at fashionable Marblehead, where so many of Greater Boston's social set are spending the summer. Bathing, golf, yachting and tennis keep the smart set busy and the dinners and dances at night are always a pleasant finale to the day's activities.

Summer Abroad

Stephen Higginses Plan Trip South

THE BLUE DOOR on the Beacon street home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Higgins will be barred shortly for they are planning to spend the summer in South America.

The genial Frances is the daughter of Dr. Francis D. Donoghue of Beacon street.

The Frederick Higgins of Andover, who are almost as much at home in Boston, are leaving for Mexico this week . . . Mrs. Philip O'Rourke of Belmont, with daughter, Nancy, will spend a short vacation at Ogunquit, Me.

Margaret Salloway, dean at Teachers' College, will sail on July 17 for England. She will make a short stay in Brittany, where she will be the guest of friends, and proceed to Oxford University, where she plans to take a summer teacher's course.

Wells-Thatcher

Winchester Bride in White Satin

AT A LOVELY CEREMONY in the Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church of Winchester, this afternoon, Mr. Harry Philip Thatcher gave his daughter, Shirley, into the keeping of Mr. Albert Sessions Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Morgan Wells of Bristol, Connecticut.

Dr. Francis Trowbridge Cooke, pastor of the Church, read the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white satin which was made with a high neck and long pointed sleeves. Her long tulle veil was attached to a coronet of old Brussels lace which had belonged to her great grandmother. She carried an arm bouquet of Easter lilies.

Yellow Lace

Miss Christine Thatcher, who was her sister's maid of honor, wore yellow lace. The dress was a fitted model with a low flaring skirt, square neck and halter back, under a short jacket with a stand-up Elizabethian collar.

Yellow slippers, a leghorn hat of the same color trimmed with an acquamarine velvet band, and a bouquet of summer flowers completed the costume.

The bridesmaids, Miss Genevieve Hamilton of Springfield, Miss Frances Landry of West Roxbury, Miss Kathryn McElhiney and Miss Lillian Rogers, both of Boston, wore lace dresses exactly like that of the maid of honor. But in contrast to the yellow their costumes were of acquamarine blue.

Usher Group

Mr. Joseph W. Wells was his brother's best man, and another, Mr. Stephen M. Wells of White Plains, N. Y., was the head usher. Other ushers were Mr. William Brewster of Portland, Me.; Mr. Gales P. Moore, Jr., of Bristol, Ct.; Mr. Harold F. Belyea of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. Horton Spitzer of Bridgeport, Ct., and Mr. Joseph S. Whiteside, Jr., of Norwalk, Ct.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Winchester Country Club. Mrs. Harry Philip Thatcher of Arlington Heights, mother of the bride, chose a gown of rose lace, with which she wore a large white picture hat. Mrs. Wells, mother of the groom, wore pastel flowered chiffon with a blue hat.

Tea Guest

Lady Baden-Powell Honored by Scouts

LEADING GIRL SCOUTS and those sympathetic with the Girl Scout movement, had the rare opportunity yesterday afternoon of meeting the woman who founded the scout movement, Lady Baden-Powell of England.

Before the tea held in her honor at the Cedar Hill Mansion in Waltham, Lady Baden-Powell gave an interesting informal talk, comparing the American girl with her English sister.

Both the distinguished guest and Mrs. James J. Storrow, who is her hostess while in Boston, were clad in special uniforms of bright blue, with matching blue felt hats, which were designed for the World Committee of Girl Scouts.

Among the many outstanding guests who enjoyed the pleasant tea hour in the large living rooms of the mansion were Mrs. Lawrence Bullard, Mrs. Francis J. Sill, Massachusetts Commissioner of Girl Scouts; Mrs. Thomas Billings of Hartford, Ct., Mrs. Howard B. Allen of Springfield, Mrs. Marjorie Inman of Providence, Mrs. Lyman Delano of New York, Mrs. Roy Eaton of Providence, Mrs. Russell Cate of Springfield, Mrs. Clifford Perkins of Hartford.

Prominent Boston socialites who attended were Mrs. Delano Wight and her daughter Anne, Mrs. Marion Fraser of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. Henry Shreve and Mrs. C. Leslie Glenn of Cambridge, Mrs. Howard Yoeman of Arlington, Mrs. Richard Hobart of Concord, Mrs. David Kellogg of Weston and Mrs. George W. Swett of Melrose.

Society Notes

THE COUNTESS ELECTRA ROSANSKA has just returned to her Boston home after an extended trip in the Middle West. She flew by plane to Chicago after visiting an uncle there, drove to Lake St. Clair in Michigan where her daughter and son-in-law, Baron and Baroness Franz Von Valtier, make their summer home.

MISS MARION E. DAVOL of Walden, and Professor W. Lindgren and his daughter, Miss Helen Lindgren of Brighton, are vacationing at Jasper Par's Lodge, Jasper National Park, Alberta, in the Canadian Rockies.

Mrs. George Barakat of Boston is visiting New York and is staying at the New Weston Hotel.

Mrs. William Goodenow of Boston, accompanied by Mrs. John Korenis, now at the Algonquin Hotel at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, in New Brunswick, for her annual summer sojourn.

Also at the Algonquin Hotel in St. Andrews are Mrs. Austin A. Heath and Mrs. George Kendrick of Worcester.

Mr. Louis S. K. Liggett is enjoying a vacation at Ile D'Orleans, in Quebec.

This Is Life by ROBERT E. ROGERS

Annual report of the circus under canvas rippled by the sea breezes on the headland, where the horses stumble over the granite outcroppings—and where the ticket taker complains that the natives are too swift for him.

"I'm short already," he grumbles, "Cheese, what a town!"

Robert E. Rogers

Item: A new arrangement of acts which argues considerable economic retrenchment but which I, personally, like very much.

In flush days only one or two of the super-acts were allowed to stop the show, that is, to play solo in the center ring with everything else in the big tent still and attentive.

Yesterday afternoon, at this show I am talking of, again and again the end rings were left empty while all attention centered on a single act in center.

I enjoyed those moments and I think the audience did, too. When three acts are going on at once, even if they are supposed to be more or less identical, you miss more than you see.

Children particularly are always looking at the wrong place at the wrong time.

After all there is a good deal to be said for the traditional one ring continental circus of the older days, the Cirque d'Hiver, and the like.

A small auditorium, only one ring, one act at a time, and particularly one clown or clown act at a time.

Circus Artists

There is where the artists of the circus, the great names, are developed. Places like Astley's in London and the little French circuses Maupassant used to write about. The circus where Andreev's "He Who Gets Slapped" functioned. Where the original Poddles Hannaford Family developed, and the celebrated Grock, and other notables.

Better one first class equestrian act than three moderately good appearing simultaneously.

Better one first class clown with the arena to himself than a whole troop with nothing important to show or do.

Even though this circus was a little meagre I saw all of it and enjoyed it. The huge three ring tent is a product of happy days and prosperity. Perhaps depression will bring the small but all-star circus back.

Item: The star of the show.

The veritable daughter of the Mad Monk Rasputin, acting as a lovely and sufficiently persuasive stooge for the wild animal trainer.

I mean that she cracked the whip while the lion rode around on the armor-plated horse's back or jumped through the flaming hoops.

But there was always a competent looking gentleman, who looked like a lion trainer, hovering in the background.

Mlle. Rasputin

Mlle. Rasputin was pretty, plump, placid, blonde without the slightest resemblance to Lionel Barrymore.

Later she led in a troop of genuine Russian dancers for the afterpiece, which also featured veteran Indians, a cowboy or two, and some Hollywood polo gals.

The whole constituted a "Wild West Show" that would have made Col. William Cody (Buffalo Bill, to you) revolve rapidly in his tomb on Pike's Peak.

Item: A curiously smart and Broadwayish act which looked strange in the sawdust under canvas.

A very good Cuban in a frilled shirt who danced on the slack wire.

But what was strange is that he was supported not merely by his plump wife, who handed his props up to him, but by eight beautifully gowned and exquisitely shaped gals who looked as if they had stepped right out of a Hollywood "musical" close-up.

I never saw anything quite like it in a circus before.

Circus women are generally good looking and well built, but these looked as if they had passed through Earl Carroll's famous stage door.

Looks to me as if some deluxe floor show had folded up and the gals had promptly annexed themselves to a spot where the meals are regular and nourishing.

Sundry observations: Aerialists seem to be getting scarce.

What's become of all those families of six and eight who used to keep the upper reaches of the canvas alive with their long, swooping lines of trapeze work, swinging, rising and falling, passing, somersaulting, infinitely glamorous and exciting.

Old Curse Fails

The old curse, "May all your children be acrobats!" doesn't seem to be working any more.

Things I missed yesterday. One of the real or imitation Hannaford families with the statuesque grandmother holding the whip and the zany in the red wig and the horse-blanket suit falling off the huge white horse; the clown automobile that exploded all its insides out; the old clown fire alarm and the rescue from the burning tenement—old but always good; the man shot out of a cannon.

Oh, yes, and the chariot race! Above all, I miss the chariot race. And there was no calliope at the end of the parade. In the words of Vachel Linsday, "I am the Callyope, tooting hope, tooting hope."

Nowadays we can ill afford to do without the Callyope.

Society Notes

Seen around the Beach Club at Swampscott for a bit of a sea breeze, Betty and Paul Fitzpatrick, Bob O'Neill, Don Fitzpatrick and Dick Ward, his arm in a sling, manage to fill the days . . . Betty is getting ready for a busy winter ahead.

Bridal

Katherine McArdle Bride of Joseph Beaver

MISS KATHERINE F. McARDLE, daughter of Mrs. Nora McArdle of East Milton, became the bride of Mr. Joseph F. Beaver of Somerville in St. Ignatius Chapel, Boston College, on Wednesday morning.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas Herlihy, S. J.

About 150 guests attended the reception at the University Club, after which Mr. and Mrs. Beaver left for a honeymoon to Canada. They will make their future home in Brighton.

• • •

The splendid rock gardens of Mrs. James L. Farrell at Felsenmere, Eastern Point, are in full bloom and were a glorious welcome to their owner, who has arrived from Albany, N. Y., to spend the summer.

• • •

Some extensive cruising is being planned by the Richard Hartes of Chestnut Hill, who are enjoying their new 75-foot yacht. They are comfortably installed at Nahant, where they are an important part of the summer life of that section.

Emmanuel Bridge

THE EMMANUEL LEAGUE will get together on Thursday, July 18, for luncheon and bridge, to open its summer season at the Lobster Claw, Cohasset Harbor.

Jane McKay of Dorchester will supervise the affair and has appointed Mrs. Marguerite Maguire, chairman.

Serving on the bridge committee are Mrs. James W. Carr, Mrs. Mrs. Frederick J. Crosby, Mrs. John A. Minahan, Mrs. John J. Quirk, Mrs. James Otis and Mrs. Thomas Dolan.

Miss Myra Morris will be assisted on the reception committee by Mrs. Patrick Solan, Mrs. Edmond L. Grimes, Mrs. Dennis J. McCarthy, Mrs. Edward Pond, Mrs. James McDonald, Mrs. John Piscope, Mrs. William J. Pendergast, Mrs. John J. Nyhan, Mrs. Patrick McCarthy, Mrs. Michael Blute and Mrs. Patrick Quinn.

Fruit Plate Popular In Hot Weather

By MARTHA LEE

From Martha Lee's Friday Morning Broadcast Over Station WAAB.

The luncheon plate that proved most popular with the members of the Martha Lee classes this week was a Fruit Plate, a combination of fruits with bread and butter sandwiches, and marinated watercress and cream cheese balls.

This is a well balanced meal in itself, for the cheese supplies protein, the bread carbohydrates, the fruits and watercress supply the minerals and vitamins, and that so necessary ingredient "appetite appeal." This was served on a green glass plate; in the center of which was placed a mound of powdered sugar surrounded by large, plump unhulled strawberries. At opposite sides were placed strips of pineapple (and, if you think fresh pineapple isn't tender and sweet and delicious, just cut it in lengthwise strips and let stand, sprinkled with powdered sugar, for several hours), and melon fingers also cut the long way of the fruit.

In the other spaces were set dainty bread and butter sandwiches, and watercress marinated in French dressing, with cream cheese balls.

NEW BERRIES

As strawberries go out of season, other fruit may be substituted on the plate. Another delightful fruit combination we used in a sandwich—cream cheese and strawberries on whole wheat bread. Raspberries, blueberries or blackberries may be used successfully for the strawberries. Serve as a complete luncheon on a warm day—and accompany it with iced tea or coffee.

We offer these suggestions for fruits, for they are still the most appealing and colorful foods on the [illegible] list. Serve them again and again, and be sure to make them the basis for all desserts these days. Your families will not weary of them, for there is such a large assortment of the finest quality at reasonable prices.

For variety we give you native raspberries, cherries, grapes, strawberries, blackberries, blueberries, currants and gooseberries, and in the melon family, cantaloupe, honeydew and watermelon.

WEEK-END SPECIALS

When doing the week-end shopping, take note of the native cabbage and tomatoes. Cabbage is most inexpensive, at 2 or 3 cents a pound, native tomatoes, twice the price of the Southern, are selling at 25 cents a pound, but they retain all of their fresh-from-the-vine flavor, and combine delightfully with crisp, firm leaves of native lettuce, to make a most appetising salad.

Native beets, selling at 5 cents a pound, are young and tender, and don't forget to indulge now in beet greens with the tiny beets attached. Also summer squash at 8 cents to 9 cents a pound is reasonable, and native purple-top turnips at 5 cents a pound. If you haven't treated your family to swordfish, do so. It is selling at 25 cents a pound. And there is nothing quite as delightful as broiled swordfish, served with a [illegible] and lemon garnish.

Mothers Fear Drownings

Beach Unsafe

New Safeguards Demanded by West Roxbury

Although buoyant guard lines were put in place yesterday as the result of public demand following two drownings, Spring street beach on the Charles river in West Roxbury is still unsafe for children, mothers charged today.

Many continued to keep their children away and others urged that the beach be closed until more lifeguards are assigned, a watch-tower constructed, signs posted and another life-saving boat supplied.

While the Metropolitan District Commission was still debating this problem—and hundreds of youngsters were placing their lives in jeopardy at the state's invitation—East Boston residents joined the "beach campaign" with a petition addressed to Mayor Mansfield demanding that World War Memorial beach be cleaned up.

Lack of sand and the presence of glass, stones and witch-grass on the East Boston beach is resulting in injury to many children, it is claimed.

LIVE IN FEAR

West Roxbury mothers live in constant fear that the new Spring street beach will claim another life before additional lifeguards are assigned. There is but one regular guard on duty now.

Mrs. Dennis Hughes of 49 Hamilton street, West Roxbury, after warning her children, said:

"My three children will never swim at the Spring street beach because it is unsafe. There are holes that have not been filled with sand. I haven't been at the beach since witnessing a drowning last week."

Mrs. Florence Jesseau, of 118 Gardner street, West Roxbury, said:

"I have lived in West Roxbury since I was born and never heard of conditions at any beach such as exists at the one we have now. If I had children I wouldn't let them swim at the Spring street beach."

Mrs Henry Noon, of 118 Gardner street, West Roxbury, mother of three children, said:

"I fear to hear of more drownings. My children will never swim at the Spring street beach. If I were to send them to a beach it would be to a resort where bathers are protected. The beach should be put in condition so the public would have no fear of the tragedies."

Mrs. Florence Thompson, of Hamilton street, West Roxbury, mother of a four-year-old daughter, said:

"My daughter shall never enter the Spring street beach until it is safe for children."

Joseph Bosco, 234 Saratoga street, East Boston, has instigated the action for the improvement of the World War Memorial Beach. He is circulating petitions, hundreds of which have been signed.

Bosco says more life guards are needed and the beach should be cleaned periodically.

The last time it was cleaned was two years ago, he said.

CHILDREN KEPT AWAY FROM RIVER SHORE HOTTEST DAYS

JEAN THOMPSON MRS. FLORENCE THOMPSON

Never, with permission of Mrs. Florence Thompson of Hamilton street, West Roxbury, will her four-year-old daughter, Jean, go bathing at the Spring street beach—scene of several recent drownings—until adequate lifeguard service is established there.

2 Errors

In the Park street subway station today, Sydney Russell, 39, of Grey street, South End, made two mistakes, police said.

No. 1 was to put his hand in somebody else's pocket.

No. 2 was to select the pocket of Lieutenant Inspector Timothy J. Sheehan. Sheehan trapped the hand and took Russell to headquarters.

Russell has a long record for picking pockets and should have known better, police said.

Veteran, 73, Hikes Across Nation

By International News Service

New Haven, Ct., July 12—A four months trek across the country was completed today by Sergeant Jack Farley, 73, of San Diego, Cal., hardy veteran of two wars, who 17 years ago was given three months to live.

Bronzed and weather-beaten and in excellent health, Sergeant Farley gleefully announced he had arrived four days ahead of time for the national convention of disabled American veterans which opens here next week.

He left San Diego March 4 and walked and hitch-hiked the 3500 miles to this city.

POLICE GUARD ULSTER FETE

By Associated Press

Belfast, Ireland, July 12—Under the watchful eyes of reinforced police, Ulster observed the 245th anniversary of the Battle of Boyne today with countrywide celebrations.

Loyalist districts were ablaze with bunting and arches. Orangemen in full regalia rallied at their clubrooms and marched to various centers to hear addresses by Loyalist leaders.

Indignant references to a recent allusion by President De Valera of the Irish Free State to King George as a "foreign king" formed the general theme of the speeches.

A flying squad in armored cars patrolled Belfast, where the biggest demonstration attracted half a million persons.

Slain on Dance Floor

New York, July 12 (AP)—A man identified as Frank D[illegible]ino, 28, of Brooklyn, was shot to death on the dance floor of a Brooklyn cabaret today by gangsters.

"I Killed Her!" Husband Cries After Ambush Murder

Southbridge, July 12—"I killed her. You can do anything you want with me."

So Martin Dudek, 59, told Judge Henry B. Montague when arraigned today on a charge of murdering his wife here yesterday.

Court ordered a not guilty plea entered and Dudek was sent to the Worcester County jail to await action of the grand jury.

A former inmate of an insane asylum, he will be given a mental examination immediately.

Dudek walked into Southbridge police headquarters yesterday afternoon and told police that he had just killed his wife, according to the official reports.

Police said that he had taken a shotgun and a whole box of shells and concealed himself by his wife's vegetable garden to wait to shoot her as calmly as though he were duck hunting.

When she finally appeared, after he had waited about three hours, he held his fire until she was only a few feet away.

Then, as she bent over to weed the garden, he fired both barrels, police said.

Casually he walked over to where she lay trying to scream for help, and struck her several times with the butt of the gun, police continued, and then thumbed a ride to the jail to give himself up.

Mrs. Dudek, whose death had been witnessed by her 25-year-old daughter, Celia, died on her way to the hospital.

Injuries Fatal To Crash Victim

A second fatality in Wednesday's automobile crash in the Jamaicaway, Jamaica Plain, was recorded today when August Hartenback, 40, recently of Germany, died in City Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Lubbe, 70, of Mt. Pleasant street, Cambridge, wife of the car operator, died a few hours after the machine had struck a tree at Willow Pond road.

The operator, August Lubbe, 75, and Hartenback's wife, Mrs. Barbara Hartenback, 34, are both in a critical condition in City Hospital. She is a niece of Lubbe and, with her husband, made her home with the Lubbes.

BUMPER GRAIN CROP IN SIGHT

By Associated Press

Minneapolis, July 2—Main street, dry and dour a year ago, is muddy and smiling today as it eyes a crop of gold.

For the first time since 1928, the hangers-on around the corner store's cracker barrel, have big stands of wheat and six-root rye to swap opinions about.

Sounds of ringing hammers and creaking winches filter through the open door—audible evidence the vast machinery for handling what grain traders and farmers believe will be the northwest's biggest crop in seven years, is being put into condition.

The government estimates place the expected spring wheat crop at 272,964,000 bushels, compared with 91,425,000 produced last year and the 10-year average of 242,000,000.

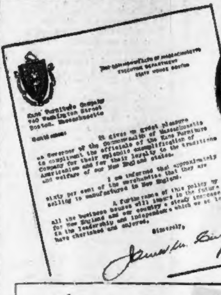
ANOTHER PRICE SMASHING FEATURE OF KANE'S GREAT SALE

Overwhelming PROOF That Kane's Is Selling For Less in July to Promote New England Prosperity



THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
STATE HOUSE BOSTON

Kane Furniture Company
740 Washington Street
Boston, Massachusetts

Gentlemen:

It gives me great pleasure as Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to compliment the officials of the Kane Furniture Company for their splendid exemplification of Americanism and for their loyalty to the traditions and welfare of our New England states.

I am informed that approximately sixty per cent of the merchandise that they are selling is manufactured in New England.

A furtherance of this policy by all the business houses will insure in the future for New England and our country a steady increase in the leadership and independence which we so long have cherished and enjoyed.

Sincerely,

James M. Curley

Hollywood Gossip

Greta Garbo to Star in "Camille"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
(Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service)

Los Angeles, July 12—What ideas are simmering in Irving Thalberg's busy brain! Over the luncheon table he told me of two coming Garbo pictures that should interest the Garbo fans.

Louella O. Parsons

She will play "Camille," and a "Camille" especially written for her, with all the romance of this play, which has been so often produced on stage and screen. She will also be starred in "Beloved," a lighter story written especially for the Swedish favorite.

And that isn't the half of it. Myrna Loy, who left Hollywood in a pout, is returning to play opposite William Powell in "The Prisoner of Zenda" for Irving Thalberg.

• • •

They are all agog at the Fox Studio over the Rochelle Hudson's singing voice. Winfield Sheehan, who is responsible for giving Rochelle Janet Gaynor's role in "Way Down East," is so excited over the Hudson singing ability that he is planning to co-star her with John Boles in "The Song and Dance Man."

Remember, that is the old George M. Cohan play and Jimmy Dunn plays the hoofer which was Cohan's role on the stage. Edwin Burke is adapting the script, Irving Cummings directs and Jane Darwell will play one of the principal roles.

• • •

Major Bowes amateur night has raced to the front in radio. The Major puts on only amateurs but he has the whole world listening for people love Cinderella stories, and everyone gets a chance in his broadcast. John Otterson, the new president of Paramount, and Ernst Lubitsch, who have been in conference, have decided to produce an original by Sid Herzig featuring this and other amateur nights.

Jane Storm, one of Paramount's writers, has gone East to see how Major Bowes works before preparing the scenario. I hear Ray Milland will get the lead.

• • •

It's always good news to hear of our pioneer actresses returning to the fold. Pauline Frederick who has been playing Queen Elizabeth on tour with Helen Hayes in "Mary of Scotland," returns to Hollywood to play Senora Moreno, one of the principal roles in "Ramona."

Miss Frederick might not have cut short her stage engagement if her mother hadn't been so desperately ill but at any rate, she is back and this is probably the first of her screen engagements.

• • •

A talented youth is Alan Baxter, just signed by Walter Wanger. He wrote sketches for "Life Begins at 8:40" and later played in "The Black Pit." I think I hear the Eli clan doing a little boasting. Baxter graduated from dear old Yale.

His stint for Wanger will be "National 7117," another department of justice yarn. In case you don't know "National 7117" is the number of the department of justice to call when there is a kidnaping in any part of the country.

Snapshots of Hollywood:

A psychic at the SOL LESSER party furnished no end of amusement; MADAME JERITZA was one of the first to have her future foretold; three guesses who she told the beautiful MARIA was head man in her life; PAULETTE GODDARD'S future was also easily forecast; RUTH CHATTERTON took a little jaunt to Balboa in her plane to call on FLORENCE VIDOR HEIFETZ and JASCHA; RUTH had the thrill of a lifetime when she lunched with AMELIA EARHART.

CLAUDE RAINS and PETER LORRE, the two super, super horror men of the screen, met at a party; CAROLE LOMBARD, who has gone in for bowling in a big way, says that she finds other sports a lot easier on the muscles; WALTER LANG, who hurt his back moving furniture at his ranch, sympathizing with Carole; JOE PENNER buying a house in the San Fernando Valley for his father and mother, who are coming out here from Detroit. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Music Leaders See Film

Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Pop concerts and the Esplanade concerts; Wallace Goodrich, director of the New England Conservatory; Fabien Sevitzky and other Boston notables in the field of music will be the guests of Loew's State to see and hear "Love Me Forever," which opened today.

Grace Moore, Metropolitan Opera soprano, is the star of the film, and in addition to light and popular music sings arias from "La Boheme" and other operatic selections.

Just Between Friends

JOAN CRAWFORD CHARLIE RUGGLES

Joan Crawford takes a word of advice from Charlie Ruggles in "No More Ladies," which is being held for a second week at Loew's Orpheum. Robert Montgomery co-stars with Miss Crawford.

Italy on Screen

"Man of Courage" Is Dramatic

By ANN AMES

The Blackshirts and Mussolini are glorified, and the 1935 Italy is painted in glowing colors in "Man of Courage," which re-opened the Park Theater yesterday.

Despite its ardent Fascist propaganda, "Man of Courage" is both interesting and dramatic. Episodic in treatment, the film story, centering around a typical peasant family, starts before the advent of the World War.

Flash-backs taken at the front lines, aboard naval destroyers, in the hospitals and in war-torn homes, lead up to the Armistice, with the father in our family missing in action.

The dialogue and narration are all in a rather stilted English, which gives some of the sequences an odd Mack Sennett touch. But once this difficulty is overcome and the producers direct their attention to the rejuvenation of Italy through Il Duce, there are many impressive moments.

The photography, too, particularly of the wonders wrought in the Pontine marshes outside Rome, where health and homes have sprung from malaria-infested marshes, is striking.

The clean, new buildings, the provisions for the training of youth, the great roaring crowds that cheer their leader everywhere, the signing of the concordat between Pope Pius XI and the state, are all memorable matters that have been recorded for the film.

Mussolini himself had a hand in preparing the picture, which consequently builds up to his fiery address to his people with proofs of past performances and promises for future glories as its climax.

Guest Star

Donald Brian, star since the days of Prince Danilo in "The Merry Widow," is appearing as guest artist with Raymond Moore's company at Dennis.

One of Season's Merriest Films

'Don't Bet on Blondes' Pleases

The odds are stacked against the summer doldrums in "Don't Bet on Blondes," Warner Bros. neat little comedy which opened yesterday at the Paramount and Fenway.

Despite the absurdities of one of the merriest and most preposterous of plots, "Don't Bet On Blondes" manages to be pretty consistently entertaining.

Warren William is Odds Owen, the wagering gentleman who makes a handsome living figuring horses, fights and football.

Branching out into a one-man Lloyd's, Odds calls his betting insurance, and stakes his bankroll on everything, from the chances of quintuplets to promising a champion husband-caller that she won't get laryngitis.

His most absorbing commitment is to keep pretty Marilyn Young (Claire Dodd) from getting married for three years. The premium is $100 a week, the risk $50,000, and three dates with Marilyn are enough to get any young man shanghaied.

Marilyn's father, a colonel from old Kaintuck, arranges the policy to insure the continuance of his fat allowance, which will give him the opportunity to finish his voluminous treatise on how Grant failed to take Richmond.

But before long, as it's not difficult to figure out, Cupid stacks the cards. It takes a moonlight night, a fleet of taxicabs and the worst traffic tie-up in the history of Manhattan to get Odds and Marilyn to the altar. As an anticlimax his real name turns out to be Oscar, and everybody's happy, even the solid South.

Miss Dodd is charming in her first sweet girl role, and Mr. William his debonair self. Mr. Guy Kibbee, with sideburns, whiskers and mint juleps as a disguise, has his very funny moments, and further comedy is more than successfully plied on by William Gargan, Vince Barnett, Spencer Charters and Hobart Cavanaugh. Clay Clement plays the villain straight and with conviction.

The companion picture, "Ladies Crave Excitement," proposes to set forth the inside story on the news cameramen, their death-defying stunts and their private lives. Its all quite confusing, and even Norman Foster and Evalyn Knapp fail to pull it out of a dismal mediocrity.

A Good Bet for Your Money

Claire Dodd is the big risk in "Don't Bet on Blondes," with Warren William as the gambling man, now on the screen at the Paramount, Fenway and Scollay.

Tremont's Bill

Topping the double feature bill at the Tremont today and tomorrow is the "Folies Bergere," with Maurice Chevalier as the darling of Paris, and Merle Oberon as the lady of his heart.

The companion picture on the bill is "Mystery Woman," with Gilbert Roland and Mona Barrie in the leading parts.

Cartoon comedies and current news events complete the program.

Lorre's New Role

Peter Lorre seems fated to play the part of madmen and murderers. His newest role will be that of the mad surgeon, Dr. Gogol, in "Mad Love."

Lorre was born in Hungary and worked first as a bank clerk. He was well known on the stage in Europe, and his striking success in the German film, "M," brought offers from Hollywood. "Mad Love" will be his first American picture.

Daily Double!

Every day, those three popular suburban theater managers, the Messieurs Newman, Hartnett and Corkery of the Rivoli in Roxbury, the Embassy in Waltham, and the Central Square in Cambridge, offer you double-features which are certain to clinch first place.

Make it your habit to attend these playhouses and you won't have to take any chances with your pictures. Starting Saturday, the Rivoli presents "In Caliente" and "Alibi Ike"; at the Embassy will be seen "In Caliente" and "Break of Hearts," and the Central Square features "Public Hero Number One" and "The Awakening of Jim Burke."

The Boston Evening American, through the About Faces feature, drawn by Art Moger, gives away 100 WINSHIP Swim Suits and cash awards to the persons who send in the correct solutions to this entertaining contest.

Use the letter given in the drawing, and the dramatic page of the Boston Evening American, as clues, and fill in the squares opposite your favorite film star and send your answers to the "About Faces Editor," Boston Evening American, Boston. Winners will be announced on Saturday.

See you tomorrow and look for the lucky "About Facers!"

Since each successive mail-delivery is bringing so many letters it appears likely that an extra day will be necessary in order to judge each entry!

We will do our best to publish the names of winners tomorrow!

Watch for your name in print in this column!

The eighth in a series of articles by Martin Mooney is presented today. He is the first newspaperman ever to go through the A-B-C's of a G-man.

By MARTIN MOONEY

(Copyright, 1935, by Boston Evening American and Universal Service.)

New York, July 12—They tell the story with all the trimmings in the great crime laboratory of the G-men in Washington.

It starts way back when Charles Curtis was Vice-President of the United States.

One day he received an oddly shaped box, addressed to him but without sender identification.

Rather chary of opening the package, which was neither heavy nor light, his secretaries consulted him. It was ordered sent to the G-men for inspection.

At least half a dozen times a month the bureau of investigation receives such packages, with a request that they go about their "investigating." Public officials have reason to fear bombs sent by cranks.

PACKAGE INSPECTED

The vice-presidential packet was brought into the laboratory. Its wrappings, string and the postmarks were carefully studied. As one of the technicians told me:

"We're not afraid one of them will go off. We get them too frequently to worry about it."

Previously, all such packets were doused in a bucket of water or placed out in the middle of a field while holes were shot through it. The shots would detonate a bomb, when and if there was one.

USE X-RAY

But the Vice-President's package was examined by an X-ray machine. Simply by placing it on a stand, and looking through an eye-piece, which is like a stereopticon machine, it is possible to see what is contained in a suspect package.

On that day the G-men had a chuckle for themselves, for the vice-presidential "bomb" turned out to be a gavel, sent by an admiring citizen.

This X-ray machine, which, by the way, is portable, is only one of many different types of apparatus contained in the greatest crime laboratory in the world.

I was allowed to manipulate the [illegible] test microscope by the research workers, who have so far charted [illegible] varieties of blood stain characteristics in their experiments.

Other technicians in the laboratory have made a special study of cloth fibres. The violet-ray machine is used in detecting the [illegible] particles of cloth or other fibres on articles picked up at crime scenes.

A bit of cloth fibre clinging to a [illegible] may mean the making or breaking of a case. These microscopic particles of fibre are detected and identified through a table of light refraction indexes after the violet-ray [illegible].

MOULAGE PROCESS

Most colorful of the sections in the great crime laboratory is the "moulage" process. Experts in this work are always kept busy.

"Moulage" is the method of making exact replicas of objects out of plastic material, developed by the laboratory, which looks like a cross between red clay and red rubber. Moulds are made from this substance and casts subsequently taken from these moulds.

In this section are 1000 blueprints showing the tire trends of 700 different automobile tire designs.

This "moulage" process is used extensively in taking tire or footprints from the ground and preserving them for use as possible evidence as well as for comparison purposes.

(Another article in this series will appear soon in the Boston Evening American.)

LOVES TO EAT THIS CEREAL, IT CHECKED HER CONSTIPATION*

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Helped Miss Kesterke

We quote from her letter: "Three years ago, I became constipated.* I tried many laxatives. But as soon as I got used to each kind, I began to get the same trouble.

"Last summer I was on my vacation. They served Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I just loved it. I eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every morning, and ever since I have not had to take any more laxatives."—Miss Margaret Kesterke, Cresskill, N. J.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Tests show ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle. It resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables, so it is often more effective.

Isn't this food safer than risking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. If seriously constipated, use with each meal. See your doctor, if you do not get relief.

Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Trouble Fixer Asked To Silence Barking Dogs

By "THE TROUBLE FIXER"

They tell you that "barking dogs don't bite."

Ay! There's the rub.

Even if barking dogs don't bite, they keep you awake nights—if they bark.

Mrs. John R. Gunn wrote to "The Trouble Fixer," telling him that a contingent of dogs, who worship the moon these summery nights, were having midnight yowling convention in front of her home at 46 Belmont street, Malden.

The police will see to it that the midnight convention is held without the barking, or not at all.

N. S. Titelbaum of 195 Colony road, Dorchester, was ired the other day when several children could not seem to get a drink from a fountain at City Point. She complained to "The Trouble Fixer."

The regular city water department reports that their fountains in that district are in good condition

The park department, which also has jurisdiction in that sector, is checking the complaint, and will fix the fountain when found.

Spring is past and summer is here, but Mrs. Thomas H. Black of Milton avenue, West Newton, insists the lower end of Milton avenue is an "anti-spring" street, i. e., one which has a phobia against automobile springs. Mrs. Black describes the thoroughfare as a "disgrace."

So "The Trouble Fixer" took it up with the street department of Newton and learned that Milton avenue is a private way, and as such, must be fixed by the owners of the land.

Mrs. J. A. Johnson, 8 Spring Valley road, West Roxbury: In its editorial columns, Wednesday last, the Boston Evening American voiced your complaint about the new West Roxbury beach—your complaint and that of hundreds of other residents of that section. There is no reason for lives being unnecessarily lost.

Captain Rooney, of the Blue Hills station, however, insists that the beach is properly protected, even more so than most beaches of its size, and that the drownings could not have been averted under any normal circumstances. He warns bathers to keep within beach limits.

CITIZENSHIP IS REQUISITE IN OBTAINING PENSION

By THE PENSION EDITOR, BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Because citizenship is an absolute requisite for the pension, pension editor, in response to several score requests, today publishes information concerning citizenship and naturalization.

As far as the citizenship requirement is concerned there is no if, but, and, or maybe. First papers alone are not enough. Faithful payment of taxes alone is not enough. The alien must become a citizen in order to get pension benefits.

Q—Where are the naturalization bureaus in Massachusetts located?—F. F. B., Lawrence.

A—There are two in Boston, at the Federal Building and at the State House. There are main branches in Fall River, Lawrence, New Bedford, Springfield and Worcester.

Q—I have been in U. S two years now. When can I apply for citizenship?—N. B., New Bedford.

A—You can apply for first papers at once. Application for citizenship can be made as soon as legal residence is established.

CITIZENSHIP COSTS

Q—How much will it cost me to become a citizen?—S. T., Lynn.

A—If you arrived in the United States before June 29, 1906, the first paper costs $2.50; if later $5. If the first paper was issued since July 1, 1929, the second paper costs $5; if before, $7.50. Thus the cost is approximately $10.

Q—I took out my first paper 12 years ago. Is it still good and may I now apply for my second paper in order to become eligible for the pension? J. B., Chelsea.

A—No. A first paper is good only for seven years.

Q — What is the difference between a first and second paper?
L. N H., Quincy.

A—The "First Paper" is officially the "Declaration of Intention," i. e., you declare your intention to give up your former allegiance and to become a citizen of the United States. The "Second Paper" is a petition for citizenship.

RETAINS CITIZENSHIP

Q — Does an alien woman, who married a citizen before 1922 lose her citizenship (which she gained by marriage) upon divorce.
P. R., Quincy

A—Any woman that acquires citizenship through marriage with a citizen before Sept. 22, 1922, retains the citizenship upon divorce after that date if she continues to reside in the United States.

Q—How may I become a citizen? S. L., Franklin.

A— Must make application for first paper. After two years make application for second paper. Then you must wait 90 days. In the district court you must take an oath of allegiance to the United States, and you then receive your certificate of naturalization.

Q—Is my husband, born in Canada, a citizen if he married me before 1922? N. D., Melrose.

A—No. He must become a naturalized citizen.

Q—I married a Canadian in 1900. Did I lose my citizenship? F. W., Wollaston.

A—No. Women lost citizenship by marrying foreigners only between March 3, 1907, and Sept. 22, 1922.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

A TERRIBLE AND NECESSARY BOOK

If I had $50,000, I would spend every cent of it in just one way.

I would put a certain book into the hands of every high school and college graduate in America, with the provision that their parents read it also.

Elsie Robinson

I would do this with the full knowledge that I was wrecking lovely illusions . . . demoralizing "sacred" traditions . . . injecting endless shock, horror, bewilderment, disgust and—I hope—furious rebellion, into lives which otherwise might be gay, comfortable and complacent.

FOR THE TRUTH

Why would I do this?

That the truth might set those lives free from the dreadful chains of ignorance and sentimentality which now bind them . . . and especially save us all from the dreadful fate which awaits us unless we speedily learn that truth.

It is called "EYES ON THE WORLD".

It is actually a collection of photographs of contemporary people, conditions and events. It was compiled by M. Lincoln Schuster. And if Satan can be raised by printer's ink—or heaven achieved—this book should do it.

It is easily, the most devastating book I have ever seen. It is far more horrible than the compilation of World War photographs, released by Laurence Stallings in collaboration with the same publisher.

There are other things in these photographs. There is beauty and fun, wit, scientific achievement, progress of a sort.

LIFE OF TODAY

But these highlights only serve to accentuate the darkness of the pits and cesspools of the fiasco we call civilization.

And in giving the book I would say:

"Here is life as is, in 1935.

"It is not as life was in 1885, when your parents were little children . . . nor in 1905 when you were young men and women . . . nor even in 1915 when you were in the full sweep of your maturity. Nor is it life as you think it is today—

"It is life as your children must live it . . . As your children should see it . . . and if it steps on anyone's pet prejudices or favorite sentimentalities that is just their bad luck."

And here, brushing them daily, are entirely useless females bedecked with glorious gadgets, the least of which would have provided either of those men with a year's food and lodging—and pride and fighting faith—

In short, here is OUR WORLD . . . our bitterly bewildered, heartsick, terrified world today —turning its haggard eyes, baring its gaunt, bleeding, lice-ridden body . . . asking—"CAN YOU TAKE IT?"

Can you?

Note to Readers:

Due to the overwhelming number of replies received in response to Miss Robinson's offer to send a list of simple reference books on psychology, as offered in April, it has been impossible for her to answer all letters promptly. She wishes to assure all those who sent requests that the list will shortly be sent.—Editor.

AUSTEN LAKE

Retort Courteous
Boston Suckerhood

CELEBRATED FOR HIS blunderbuss sayings, Colonel John Hammond of New York is reported to have looked down the length of his nose recently and observed that, while Boston's simple citizenry do quite well in their rustic way to keep so many sport enterprises afloat, Boston is still an Indian village and a frontier cow-town incapable of supporting a world's championship heavyweight fight.

Austen Lake

This is a deliberate slur on the quality of Boston suckerhood, which is giving its all to the races and wrestling, as well as the finer arts like badminton, marathoning, beano and the number pools.

What Colonel Hammond means, of course, is that not enough of Boston's supersuckers can be screened out from its small fry, or short suckers to pay $22.50 for ringside seats, which are located a full mashie pitch from the fighting green.

This requires a profound contempt for money. But I submit to Colonel John that Boston has, within the last two years, divorced New England thrift to make a common law marriage with race-track dissipation.

Boston people have out-spent the New York population at the horse and dog plants two for one, and are still squandering in a spirit of selfless abandon that amounts to idealism.

New Yorkers have always been a little snobbish about their money foolishness and cocky about getting less value for their dollars than their country cousins.

But if any city deserves congressional citation in this period of national emergency for having emulated the spendthrift example of the federal government in squandering its way back to prosperity, it is Boston under the able leadership of the horse and dog bettors.

I think Mayor Mansfield could almost sue Colonel Hammond for saying a thing like that.

Grove Finds Way Back

IN THE TIME SINCE Moses "Lefty" Grove started North from the Red Sox training camp at Sarasota, Fla., last spring, he has been studiously avoided as a newspaper topic.

From a front page character whose shoulder aches were a minor national calamity, Lefty has ceased to be a hot topic.

Yet he has won ten games, with the season less than half over, and Jimmy Foxx told me during the late visit of the Athletics that Lefty has been reborn.

"I can tell as much by the way he comes over and through with his pitch, as the fact that his pitches hiss past with lots of bite," said Jimmy.

"In the last six feet of flight Lefty's fast pitches seem to jump, giving the batter a tendency to strike late. It's a sort of optical illusion that comes from high speed. They're doing that now."

Jimmy Dykes, field boss of the White Sox, added this morning:

"Batters who have been swinging from the heels against Grove have come up on their toes again. They find they can't take any more roundhouse cuts."

At least three of the games which Lefty lost this spring, he was more sinned against than sinning.

Once Billy Werber lost the ball down his pants.

Once Mel Almada fielded a fly with his chin on the ground. And once Joe Cronin got his thumbs caught in his belt loops. All were fatal flunks.

What a Braves' Angel Needs

IN A VOICE MADE a little hoarse from answering the same question about the same subject, C. F. Adams, the sports financier whose multiple interests embrace baseball, racing, hockey and chain stores, said today:

"Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in hard cash will buy control of the Braves."

But what does this quarter-million actually purchase?

It buys approximately 9000 of the 14,000 Braves shares. But not the bank mortgage, which is variously cited between $150,000 and $200,000. Nor the various loose debts which are pinned to the Braves' ragged shirt-tail.

What should a purchaser have in the way of suitable capital to become angel to the Braves?

At least $200,000 in play money above the physical investment to buy material necessary to patch the leaky spots in the lineup.

That, in simple schoolboy sum, makes $250,000 plus $200,000 plus $200,000, or $650,000 in investment, liability and working capital before the new owner can start counting the profits.

Baer's Love Time Table

A CHRONOLOGICAL SUM-UP of Max Baer's emotional change toward his new wife may be had from the following time table:

Dempsey's Chop House, Midnight, July 10—Our marriage is busted wide open by religion. I didn't think she took religion so seriously.

New York Hotel, 9:30 A. M., July 11—I hope we can unscramble our differences. If there is any gettin' along to be done she'll do it.

Newark Airport, 10:45—This separation stuff is the apple strudel. I got a wife broad-minded and sweet.

Baltimore, 1:10—We love each other. The hitch is for life.

Baltimore, 2:30—Anybody who says there is trouble in the Baer flat is screwy. The little lady is holding her arms open.

Washington, 4:30—I just phoned Mary. She's got supper waiting. What a girl! What a wife!

Yeah, and what a man! What a love nest! What an earache!

Miss Bridges Out of Title Meet

Florence McVey of the Olneyville Boys' Auxiliary, New England mile free style champion, will be favored tomorrow afternoon to annex the half-mile title at the meet being held at Rosemary Beach, Needham.

Alice Bridges, the defending half-mile champion, has been forced to withdraw because of a bad cold. The meet which is being held under the auspices of the Needham Board of Trade will attract some of the best known swimmers and divers in New England

There will be three senior events, the women's 880 free style, the men's 220 free style and the men's springboard diving.

Gordon Connolly of Boston, competing unattached, will defend his 220 title, but is expected to meet plenty of competition from Fred Lee, New England Intercollegiate champion.

Clinton Osborne will be highly favored to retain his diving title.

In the women's 880, Miss McVey's leading rivals will be her own clubmate, Betty Higgins, Elinor Weene, Irene Davis and Rita McCarthy of the B. S. A., and Bertha Kaupinen of the W. S. A., of Brookline.

Two New England Junior championships are also on the Needham program. The 100-meter backstroke and the 100-meter breaststroke, both for women, will conclude the program. The first event will start at 2 45.

Daily Double Gets Big Play

By Walter Kiley

"Take a number from one to ten . . ."

That might be the theme song of the daily double players at Suffolk Downs.

The betting innovation, introduced to Boston turf fans for the first time at the brand new East Boston course, has already attracted a large amount of attention due to the healthy payoffs it occasionally refunds.

At Narragansett Park 11 lucky holders of daily double tickets were rewarded to the tune of nearly $5000 each for a two buck ticket.

Browse among the daily double bugs at the Downs and you'll "find more things in heaven and earth" than were ever dreamed of by the world's greatest psychologists.

If the habitants will 'fess up, you'll make the astonishing discovery that many of them play their horses through hunches, hallucinations or downright superstition.

F'R INSTANCE

It was at a mid-western track a few years ago that a gentleman arrived in company with a young lady named Ruth. As a compliment to her he placed Ruth Jelinek in the first part of the double.

He lived on Avondale Avenue, so he hooked her up with Miss Avondale in the second half of the combination play.

You can imagine the consternation of the form harpies when he received something like $2500 for his winning ticket about an hour later.

There is another case of two college students who rattled up in a flivver with exactly two dollars and ten cents between them. With the dime they purchased a program.

They then picked their daily double by rolling a pebble over the races, noting the horses upon which the pebble stopped.

The first time they didn't like the combination so they tried again. When the stone paused on the identical two horses they decided not to tempt fate any further and invested in the daily pool.

Just a little bit later they received the munificent sum of more than $1500 for their insignificant two dollar ducat, and climbed right back into their decrepit chariot, headed for happy days — and the corner beer parlor

An old lady around Chicago moved up to the window one afternoon with a deuce clenched tightly in her hand.

"I want," she said, "to buy a two-dollar ticket on Bob Weidel and the Daily Double."

LET'S GO

The ticket seller graciously informed her that the daily double was merely the name of the combination—that she must select another horse to pair with Bob Weidel. The old lady plunged a thumb at her program.

"Do you think Alma S will be all right?" she queried.

The seller thought it would be and passed the ticket over. That combination refunded exactly $3900.

There are many ways of picking them, however. Some play the double only when the moon is in the first quarter.

"How about the last quarter?" asked the writer.

"I just lost it," was the cheerful response.

The bird system also has its devotees. This provides for the fans to count the number of birds that fly overhead in a bunch, playing the corresponding number on the program.

They, however, rely on Scriptural precedent, reminding the scoffers how the ravens fed Elijah.

One last "tall yarn" and I'll leave you to your racing form.

At Arlington Downs, Texas, a young lady drove into the parking lot just as her speedometer touched the 33,000 mark. She noted the pair of threes and bought a ticket calling for 3 and 3. She received a puny $1000—which enabled her to purchase a new car.

Bowler Injured

London, July 12 (AP) — Eric Hollies, Warwickshire bowler, today met with an accident and it was doubtful he would play for England in tomorrow's third test cricket match with South America.

Mrs. Van Ryn Beats Miss Winthrop

Two matches in the women's tournament on the Longwood Cricket Club courts established the four semi-finalists for tomorrow's play. Miss Helen Pederson, Stanford, rallied sensationally to upset Mrs. John Harris, Jr., Kansas City, third seeded player in the tournament, 7—5 and 6—2.

She will meet Mrs. Marshall Fabyan, the former Sarah Palfrey, tomorrow.

In the other match, Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, defeated Miss Katherine Winthrop, Brookline, 6—4 and 6—4, to enter the semi-final round against Miss Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica.

Miss Pederson's play against the highly-rated Mrs. Harris was little short of sensational, following a shaky first set. In the second set, Mrs. Harris was turned back from match point in the ninth game with the score 5—4 in her favor.

Miss Pederson then ran up the next three games to win the set 7—5 and from that point was never in danger. Her steadiness enabled her to overcome Mrs. Harris in the final set.

Mrs. Van Ryn maintained control of the play constantly in downing Miss Kay Winthrop in straight sets.

Mel Merritt Trips Stratton, 4 and 3

By Bill Grimes

Brae Burn Country Club, July 12—Dan Shea, Jr., South Shore, furnished the upset of the third round of the 31st Massachusetts amateur golf championship by defeating Melville F. Heath, Jr., 1 up, here this morning.

At the turn, it appeared as though Shea was all washed up, for he was three down to Mel. He was unable to cut down his opponent's lead at the 10th or 11th but then he started to get going Heath failed to get the green at the short 12th, which was apparently all Shea needed to start on his way to victory.

A three-hole spurt squared the match for Shea, and then they battled through to the 18th, all even. They were both strong with their second and Shea chipped on, but Mel's approach caught the fringe and stopped.

Heath's approach putt stopped above the hole and, when Shea putted, he laid Mel a dead stymie. Heath made a wonderful try to jump the stymie, his ball hitting the back of the cup but did not drop, and Shea was awarded a 1 up victory.

Mel Merritt stopped Emory Stratton, winning 2 and 1 and Eddie Stimpson eliminated Charlie Howe, 4 and 3, but Milan Heath had a tough time getting through his clubmate Bill Snow, who took him to the home hole before yielding 1 down.

Leo Martin, one of the famous twins from Sandy Burr, put out a serious threat in the person of Minor Rogers, Salem and Buzzie Gates, Brae Burn, defeated his former prep school roommate, Bobby Hood, 2 and 1.

Heath Leads

Mel Heath piled up a three-hole advantage over Dan Shea, Jr., going out by virtue of four birdies. While Heath was winning four holes on the out nine Shea was obliged to content himself with one, the eighth, where Mel's chip from off the green was poor and he missed his putt for a half.

Shea was still trailing by three holes going to the 12th. Dan won this short hole, had a birdie and a win on the 13th and then dropped a 12-footer for another birdie to square the match at the 14th.

The 15th was halved and Shea went out in front at the 16th, where he had a three. Mel squared the match with a three at the 17th, where Shea failed to get home from the tee, and then came the 18th and the dead stymie.

Little Ken Corcoran, Oyster Harbors, was too hot for Bill Taylor, Commonwealth, opening up a five-hole gap going to the turn and then protecting his lead by halving the return trip until Taylor ran out of holes at the 14th.

John Nies, playing right behind Corcoran, equaled the Oyster Harbors boy's feat, with Franklin T. Praelzer, Jr., The Country Club.

Nies Victor

Nies was five up on Pfaelzer at the turn and went to six up at the 10th with a birdie, and they shook hands, down on the 13th green, Nies winning 6 and 5.

Mel Merritt stopped Emory Stratton, 2 and 1. Merritt was one up at the turn. He became dormie three. At the 16th, Merritt missed a short putt which would have ended the match, and his five on at the short 17th was good for a half, ending the match.

The cool, steady Eddie Stimpson walked through little Charlie Howe, Wellesley, to win, 4 and 3. Stimpson was two up at the turn, winning both of the short holes in par figures.

Stimpson birdied the 10th and then the next four holes were halved. At the 15th, Stimpson pitched eight feet from the cup. Howe's second landed in the trap, and it was all over, Stimpson winning, 4 and 3

THIRD ROUND

Dan Shea, South Shore defeated M. F. Heath, Jr., Brae Burn 1 up. Heath tried to jump a stymie 3 feet from the hole and failed, losing by one. Heath lead at the 9th with 34 against Shea's 39.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Detroit took American League lead as Schoolboy Rowe set Yankees down with six hits, fanned 11 and beat them, 4-2.

THREE YEARS AGO—Bob Grove, Athletics, lost third game in five days as relief pitcher.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Bob Jones won National Open golf crown with 287, for third successive major championship victory of year.

CRONIN Smart PILOT

By Joe Cashman

Our Red Sox will have played 77 games and completed the first half of their campaign when they finish the fourth and final tilt of the series with the Chicago White Sox before the Ladies' Day audience this p. m.

The spurt of the past fortnight, which has carried them to 10 victories in 14 starts, leaves the Croninmen with a record almost identical with that owned by "Bucky" Harris' 1934 Fenway flock as it reached the half-way mark.

The Sox enter today's tussle with 40 victories and 36 defeats. Last year the natives went through their first 77 games with 42 wins and 35 losses.

As far as position and distance from the roof are concerned the difference is slightly greater in favor of last year's club, which was in third place, six games from the top, whereas today finds the Cronin crew virtually tied for fourth place, eight games removed from the attic.

RHODES

Strangely enough, however, there is little similarity when comparison of individual performances is made.

Robert Moses Grove, who turned in his tenth victory yesterday, and Wesley Ferrell, who chalked up his 13th triumph the day before, have together won one more game than they did all last season.

During the first half of '34, Grove won only four, while Ferrell, who didn't join the club until the season was over a month old, had but five games to his credit.

On the other hand, "Dusty" Rhodes, who has gained only one decision to date, had gathered eight over the same stretch a year back.

And Fritz Ostermueller, idle on the injured list for the past seven weeks with a record of three wins and as many losses, had gained seven verdicts for Harris.

The only hurler who comes close to being consistent is Long John Welch. He's won seven and lost six, as compared with eight victories and six defeats a year back.

Offensively, the current team has been much the weaker of the two.

As the 1934 squad opened the second half of the race Carl Reynolds and Dick Porter were hitting .327, Werber was up to .325, Roy Johnson had a mark of .324, Rick Ferrell sported .321 figures, Eddie Morgan was sailing along at a .303 clip and "Moose" Solters was just inside the select circle with an average of .301.

CRONIN

At present Roy Johnson, still going along at a .325 clip, and Rick Ferrell, with an average of .312, are the only regulars hitting above .300.

Despite hitting in old time form for the past two weeks, Werber is still down around .250. Reynolds has fallen off to about .270. Porter, Morgan and Solters have departed.

The answer your envoy gets after adding up all these facts and figures is that the youthful Joseph Cronin has done a whale of a job piloting the club.

With five fewer .300 hitters and only two reliable pitchers, he's manoeuvred, directed and inspired so ably that he'll come within one or two games, depending on the outcome of today's tilt, of doing as well as Harris did during the first half of '34.

IDENTIFY SUFFOLK 'CAP CHOICE

Boocap in 2d Best on 8-Race Program

By Dave Wilson
(Selections Made for Fast Track)
BEST BET—BOOCAP, 2ND RACE.

Suffolk Downs, East Boston, July 12 — Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Identify, hero of the Toboggan, Rockingham and Governor's Handicaps, will seek further laurels in the $7500 added Massasoit Handicap, one mile and a sixteenth feature of a sparkling eight race card here tomorrow afternoon.

Identify should win. He is favorably burened under 120 pounds, five less than he carried in the Governor's Handicap at Narragansett on June 29.

A blazing four panels in 47 2 Hard Held tapered off his training routine and the clockers have pronounced him fit to run for a king's Boocap, H. Neustetter's rapidly improving Axenstein mare, turned in a corking second to Sanctity Thursday afternoon. She has only to duplicate that performance in order to grace the winner's circle in the mile and a sixteenth of the second number.

FIRST—GLORY GREENOCK, SUN DANCER, TONEY'S WIFE

GLORY GREENOCK, on New York form, shapes up as the class here. The Greenock placed to the highly-regarded Gleeman only a few days back at Empire City. SUN DANCER raced in track record time to graduate from the maiden ranks at Narragansett. TONEY'S WIFE finished close up to the top one at Aqueduct.

SECOND—BOOCAP, FLOWERY LADY, JACK CHEVIGNY

If anything upsets my dope and hands BOOCAP a drubbing it will likely be FLOWERY LADY. The latter turned in several corking efforts at Narragansett and she is coming up razor sharp. JACK CHEVIGNY is heaps better than those recent Narragansett races.

THIRD—JESSIE D M, GOLD STEP, CHAIN

JESSIE D M, always partial to cardboard racing strips, is coming up to this in the proverbial pink. A breezing four furlongs in .51 went for her final. GOLD STEP, the main danger, was barely nosed out by Lanier yesterday. CHAIN, a brisk morning worker, is capable of upsetting the dope.

FOURTH—SPIXI, VICARESS, PHILDIA

Just have to string along with SPIXI. 118 pounds and all here. VICARESS, frequent winner on New York tracks, is in under a favorable impost of 108 pounds. She shapes up as the main danger. PHILDIA flashed good form in finishing third to Good Harvest at Aqueduct.

FIFTH—IDENTIFY, FIDELIS, ALBERTA

IDENTIFY will have FIDELIS to down for main honors. The latter dropped a tough decision to Dark Hope in the Rhode Island Handicap last time out. ALBERTA, probably the best three-year-old filly on the grounds, if not on this side of the Atlantic, has trained in brilliant fashion.

SIXTH—PEEPER, HAPPY EASTER, GOLDFIN

Just a lot of tripe here. PEEPER, third to Eddie Wrack and Gala Dame on opening day, shapes up as the probable winner in my dope. HAPPY EASTER is as cheap as they come, but she managed to knock out a race at the recent Narragansett meeting. GOLDFIN shapes up well in my figures, but he comes from a stable that wins very few races.

SEVENTH—DROMBO, SUN TEATIME, SOPHIST

DROMBO, if able to get off the also eligible list, figures to stand a world of beating here. SUN TEATIME, runner-up to Fancy Flight, shapes up next best in my figures. SOPHIST, a stout stretch runner, should take it all if the top pair fails to get postward.

EIGHTH—DARKLING, CENTER LANE, POPO

DARKLING is accorded the top rating on the strength of a corking second to Grey Glade. CENTER LANE, a galloping winner at Detroit last time, figures to offer the contention. POPO will be hard to down if the gumbo comes up.

Daily Double Winners

Margaret Dwyer, 259 Norwood avenue, Edgewood, R. I.

Bud Dalton, 86 Summer street, Somerville.

Charles A. Sullivan, 14 Clare avenue, Roslindale.

Edward P. O'Connell, 35 Hudson street, Woburn.

WALL Set Down for MEET

HONEST RACING ASSURED

By Walter Kiley

The iron struck and its searing point stuck right into Nickie Wall, a capable rider who has the unhappy faculty of getting himself into precarious situations.

It was just a matter of time before our eastern jockeys realised that Racing Secretary Frank J. Ryan stands for no fooling.

Wall, reinstated only Wednesday, after having been suspended at Narragansett midway through the meeting, at a time when he was leading the riding colony there, was mounted on Aileen C., P. B. Codd's chestnut mare.

Aileen C. broke well out front but at the quarter was fourth. She finished third by a head and full of running.

Bryan detected something amiss with the ride and ordered Wall to forfeit the remainder of his mounts already contracted for until further notice.

Washed Up

While he would not commit himself, it is the firm conviction that Wall, a colorful and well backed choice every time he goes to the post, is through as far as the balance of the Downs' meeting is concerned.

All of which means that Suffolk Downs will have clean racing. Nothing gets by Bryan's aged but eagle eye and both horsemen and riders will either be in there trying or else—.

To many the second day's handle of $226,142 looked small by comparison with what was expected.

However, horsemen who have been watching such things throughout the country and have no particular interests either way at Suffolk Downs, claim that the small mutuels handle may be explained by the many novices in betting who will gradually fall into line as they gain in racing experience and wisdom.

It is the men of racing who are Suffolk Downs' biggest boosters. They see for it a brilliant future wherein other tracks throughout the country will fade by comparison.

However, they say that it will take time and patience.

Expect Big Crowd

Given good weather, Suffolk Downs should be tested to its capacity limit tomorrow. There is no telling how many people will be there. In fact, it is hard to guage the attendance either the first or second days.

The crowds for some reason arrive much later than at either Narragansett or Rockingham, the Daily Double and opening race handles suffering accordingly. Newspapermen hung up on the rooftop press box see nothing but the racing strip, and when they take to the catwalk for crowd estimates the place is so gigantic that accurate figures are almost impossible to guess.

The $7500 added Massasoit Handicap is tomorrow's big feature, 31 thoroughbreds having been nominated for the mile and one sixteenth contest, with the possibility of 12 to 14 of them going to the post.

Discovery and Identify, A. G. Vanderbilt's aces, have been given top weight, the former 131 pounds and the latter next with 121. But Discovery is slated to run in the Butler Stakes at New York tomorrow so that New England's favorite Identify will most likely have to carry the Vanderbilt colors alone.

Treasurer Charles F. Adams of the Eastern Horse Club finally broke down under a combination of heat and overwork. His trouble was diagnosed as indigestion. It caught up with him during the latter stages of the Thursday racing.

GOLFFANS PULLING FOR STRATTON TO WIN

HAS QUALIFIED 13 YEARS

By Bill Grimes

Years ago, the Scituate-Plymouth "Either or Both" tournaments were the most popular on the M. G. A. schedules . . . Hundreds of golfers of all sections of the state attended the "Either or Both" tourneys and among the contestants were most of the leading amateurs.

It was during one of the "Either or Both" tournaments that Bill Blaney established a competitive record of 65 at Scituate.

After a lapse of three years, the Scituate and Plymouth Country Club golf committees have again merged their tournaments, which started this morning and will continue through tomorrow . . . There's a cut rate of $2 for players who enter both tournaments, but it is not mandatory to play both on the same day . . . There was a fine turnout during the opening day of the three-day Stoney Brae open . . .

Stratton Favored

Hundreds of close followers of state amateur championships are pulling for Emory P. Stratton, Charles River, to win the title... Stratton faces a tough assignment today, for if he gets through Mel Meritt this morning, the chances are that he will bump right into Johnny Nies, the 1934 finalist, this afternoon . . . With all due respect to the golfing ability of Mel and Johnny, if Stratton is playing as well today as he did yesterday the Salem and United Shoe representatives will be among the missing tomorrow . . . There's no player in the field more deserving of succeeding Bill Blaney as state champion than Emory Stratton, who has qualified for 13 straight years.

Dan Shea, Jr., South Shore, burned up Brae Burn yesterday afternoon . . . After beating Gerald Anderson, 5 and 4, he played out the bye holes and was 71 . . . It was too hot for Bill Taylor to waste any time with Bill Bryden, so the Commonwealth player hung a 7 and 5 defeat on the pride of Fall River and went home . . . Despite the heat Bill Warnick trekked to Brae Burn to lend his support to Danny Shea, one of his South Shore clubmates . . .

Babe and Gene

Miss Rosamond Vahey, the state champion, will team up with Jesse Guilford against Babe Didrikson and Gene Sarazen on Tuesday at Woodland . . . The Didrikson-Sarazen combination will encounter some stern opposition when it tackles Tom Mahan and Johnny Nies, Sunday afternoon at the United Shoe . . . Miss Didrikson is rated as the world's greatest woman athlete and is proving a fine attraction while en route with Gene Sarazen.

Five of the nine Brae Burn qualifiers survived "Bloody Thursday." . . . And there were three Salemites left when the third round started this morning . . . W. M. L. Rogers, one of the Salem representatives, started his golf while a student at the University of Virginia, and before he finished his post-graduate work he had established a new competitive record for the Charlottesville course . . .

There's no better loser in golf than Francis Doyle, Wachusett . . . Until such a time as their opponents call penalty strokes for grounding clubs in hazards, the infringers will continue to break rules . . . Bobby Hood and Buzzie Gates, who are third-round opponents today at Brae Burn, were co-captains of the Tabor Academy golf team . . .

Yesterday Emory Stratton had a best-ball of seven under 4s, for the first 14 holes . . . Mel Merrill played a hand mashie off the 12th tee against Ray Deaton, his ball hitting in the tree back of the 11th green. . . . The Heath brothers, Milan and Mel, Jr., are still very much in the running for the title.

2 Coaches Appointed at B. U.

Boston University announced the appointment of two new football coaches this morning. Announcement was made by President Daniel L. Marsh and Dr. John M. Harmon, director of athletics on the recommendation of Head Coach Pat Hanley. The two new men are Al Kawal and Oliver "Ollie" Olson, both of Northwestern University. Kawal, who was football and basketball captain of Northwestern last year will be varsity line coach. Olson, who coached the Northwestern frosh backfield last fall, will coach the freshman team at B. U. this year.

Mel Kollard, who was recently announced as baseball coach, will also coach basketball.

REVERE TRACK RECORD IN DANGER TONIGHT

Mr. Boston
Danno Chasing George

By JACK CONWAY

DAN O'Mahoney says he is willing to wrestle Ed Don George to determine which is the better wrestler.

George insists he is the world's champion and demands a guarantee of $40,000 and a privilege of accepting 37½ per cent of the receipts.

Mr. Boston

Paul Bowser, Jack Curley, Ray Fabiani, Tom Packs, Ed White, Lou Daro and other wrestling promoters are rightfully indignant at George's demands.

They consider Don is trying to avoid a meeting with the sensational young Irishman and that he has set up impossible financial demands.

The public wants to see O'Mahoney and George wrestle. They are tired of having two wrestling champions.

George can trace his title back to Gotch, while O'Mahoney's claims have the blessings of 38 state commissions and all foreign countries.

I believe George has the strongest claim to the title. I never gave much consideration to commission champions. Titles can be won and lost only in the ring.

George won his championship when he defeated Henri DeGlane at the Boston Garden two years ago last March. He broke the Frenchman's collarbone and won in two straight falls.

DeGlane became champion when he conquered Strangler Lewis in Montreal.

SONNY CHAMP

BEFORE Lewis the title was held by George. Don defeated Gus Sonnenberg, but a few months later was upset by the Strangler.

Lewis bobs in and out of the championship at frequent intervals. Sonnenberg won the title from Lewis at the Boston Garden.

Tracing the championship back, we find the names of Joe Stecher, Stanislaus Zbyszko, Wayne Munn, Lewis once more, Earl Caddock, and eventually Frank Gotch.

The O'Mahoney claim is built around commission rulings. When Gus Sonnenberg wouldn't abide by the decisions of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, it was decided to move the Dynamiter out of the wrestling picture.

A tournament was held in Philadelphia, and Jim Londos and Dick Shikat met in the final bout. Londos won and gained title recognition in Pennsylvania.

He later gained the support of the New York, Illinois and California commissions. He ended up with the backing of 38 states and all foreign countries.

Londos' title claims went to youthful Dan O'Mahoney when the latter tipped over the gorgeous Greek heavyweight at the Crosscup-Pishon Post show at Fenway Park.

SHOWDOWN

I AM for a wrestling showdown, and I think Old Jawn Public is behind me.

I want to see O'Mahoney and George forget ridiculous demands long enough to sign contracts for a title bout.

I do not believe George is entitled to $40,000 for a bout with Danno or anybody else. Admitting he is champion, he rates only a reasonable guarantee and the champion's cut of 37½ per cent.

O'Mahoney must take the short end of the money if he is going to get the crack at George.

Danno came to the United States determined to win the heavyweight wrestling championship for Ireland. He has already eliminated Londos, and should consent to take the small end of the purse to get the George bout.

Of course Don is demanding his pound of flesh, but champions have always done so back to the days of Gotch.

In boxing, the heavyweight champion gets 42 per cent of the gate. This is the price Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey, Primo Carnera and Max Baer were paid by the New York Garden.

GEORGE AT TOP

DESPITE O'Mahoney's sensational rise to fame, I am still forced to rate George as the best of the heavyweight wrestlers.

A champion must have something to get to the head of his division, and I am always glad to give him proper recognition.

I would rate the first 10 wrestlers as follows:

1—Ed Don George.
2—Dan O'Mahoney.
3—Jim Browning.
4—Henri DeGlane.
5—Jim Londos.
6—Dick Shikat.
7—Ray Steele.
8—Strangler Lewis.
9—Leo Numa.
10—Earl McCready.

Star Rejoins TEAM

New York, July 12 (INS)—Milton Galatzer, center fielder of the Indians, was to rejoin the Cleveland club today, after spending a night in the Roosevelt Hospital for observation.

He was taken to the hospital yesterday evening as a precautionary measure after he had been hit far back on the right temple in the eighth inning of yesterday's game by one of Johnny Allen's fast shoots.

Galatzer was stunned by the pitch and fell to the ground, but was able to leave the park without assistance.

$12.20 PAYOFF

By Associated Press

Winning by a length over the highly-favored Frisky Matron, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's three-year-old bay filly, Motto, captured the featured fifth race at Suffolk Downs before an estimated crowd of 12,000.

Motto, handled smartly by Eddie Litzenberger, followed the early pace set alternately by Frisky Matron, from the stable of C. B. Shaw, Jr., and then All Forlon.

Turning into the stretch Litzenberger moved Motto up and she finally caught up with and passed Frisky Matron, leading the Shaw entry to the wire by a length.

Motto paid $2 ticketholders $12.20 in winning the six furlong beat, All Forlorn won the place position, finishing two and one-half lengths in the rear.

The Starmount stables' Brindle, a 12 to 1 shot won the Rhinebeck, a class "C" handicap race for three-year-olds at Empire City in one of the biggest talent upsets at the current meeting at the Yonkers track.

C. V. Whitney's unreliable Rough Diamond, which recently figured in a dead heat with Below Zero, was the even money choice, and the Whitney colt finished a distant last in the four-horse race over the mile and one-sixteenth route.

The Tranquility Farm's Cross Ruff, third choice, was an easy second, beating Crete by five lengths for the place. Crete had eight lengths to spare over Rough Diamond.

The Fort Sheridan purse, a five and one-half furlongs race for two-year-olds, was captured by Mrs. Ethel V. Mar's The Fighter today at Arlington Park.

The Fighter, a two-year-old son of Bull Dog, was only a fifth of a second off the track record of 1:04 2-5 in leading H. P. Headley's Night Alarm to the wire by a length. The Dixiana Stable's Erin Orch finished third. Jockey Alfred Robertson rode the winner, which paid $6.80 straight.

Grove Loses 7 Pounds Beating Chisox

By Joe Cashman

The second day of the Suffolk Downs meeting found the Sport of Kings outdistanced by the National pastime in the public popularity sweepstakes. A crowd of 14,500 watched the Red Sox-White Sox double-header while the unofficial estimates of the gathering at East Boston didn't exceed 10,000.

All of which proves that both sports can prosper at the same time in this greatest of sporting towns.

Robert Moses Grove turned in another mound masterpiece in the opener. His string of 13 consecutive scoreless innings was snapped in the first frame but "Lefty" started another quickly.

After being found for five hits and three runs in the first three stanzas, he breezed through the remainder of the contest without giving a hit or run. He threw little else but a perfectly controlled sharp curve to set the last 19 batters down in order after the Chisox had shown they could hit his fast one.

Don't overlook Bob's hitting either. He singled in the third to put Babe Dahlgren in position to score the Sox first run and got a second single in the ninth which he turned into the run that gave him his 13th victory when Melillo sacrificed and Dib Williams came through with a single to center.

All this effort in the intense heat cost Robert Moses a loss of seven pounds in weight, he revealed as he watched the nightcap from the press coop.

The humidity also took a lot of starch out of Manager Joe Cronin and ol' "Bing" Miller. The pilot was forced to retire in the sixth inning of the opener because of a slight stomach disorder, and Uncle Tom called it a day in the same frame.

"Dib" Williams replaced Cronin at short. Miller was relieved by Carl Reynolds, making his first appearance in right field since he hurt his ankle on the last Western trip.

Roy Johnson was given three innings off in the second game. "Dusty" Cooke spelled him and contributed a triple and single to a lost cause in two trips to the platter.

Louis Serves Notice on Max Baer

By Associated Press

Detroit, July 12—Young Joe Louis took a long, careful look at his hands today, then modestly ventured to give Max Baer a tip the former world's heavyweight champion should make certain his fists are ready for his next fight—or quit the fight game.

The "Brown Bomber" hasn't much to worry about regarding his hands or any other part of his 202 pounds of anatomy. He's up every morning for a long horseback ride, and within three days says he can get back at the weight at which he exploded Primo Carnera out of the heavyweight picture.

But Joe sympathizes, nevertheless, with Baer's hand problem. He said today he was glad to read that Max was "tickled pink" that surgeons said his hands were not seriously hurt in his battle with James J. Braddock.

"But only Baer knows if his hands are O. K.," the sensational young Negro fighter said. "If Max isn't certain his hands are O. K. and feel right, he should stay out of the ring. If we meet this fall, and I'd like to fight Max [illegible] time, he wants to be certain they're O. K., because mine are."

"Max believes he's the best heavyweight in the business—and I think I'm the best," continued Joe. "Well—he's entitled to his opinion and I to mine and the only way to settle the argument is in the ring. I'm just as sure as I ever was that I'll beat him when we meet."

Joe fights Kingfish Levinsky in Chicago in August. Next Tuesday the "Bomber" will leave for Chicago and soon after will begin training.

Of First Race at Suffolk

"Racing at Suffolk Downs, starting tomorrow, in the future will start at 2:15 in the afternoon, and the Daily Double will close at 2:00 o'clock." This announcement was made today by Judge Frank J. Bryan, racing secretary for the current race meeting which is being conducted on the new Sufolk Downs track.

This move places the entire program back 15 minutes from the schedule which has been in force thus far in the meeting.

RACE
Named for HOTEL

Taunton, July 12—The Narragansett Hotel trophy race, the first trophy event to be staged at the new Taunton dog track, will headline tonight's program of 10 events.

The race will be the eighth on the card, in which Racing Secretary William Fineran has bracketed a notable group of topnotchers.

The owner of the winner will be presented a beautiful silver trophy by J. J. Seefer, manager of the Narragansett Hotel, assisted by H. T. Brown, hotel president.

These two will be guests of honor of the track and William Reagan, presiding judge, in the judges' stand during the running of the headliner.

Such speedy hounds as Dummy, Lena Breeze, Reckless Tom and Traffic will be matching strides in Taunton's first trophy race.

Your entry must reach the "Daily Double" Handicap Game Editor of the Boston American, P. O. Box 1946, or deliver to 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, not later than 1 P. M., Saturday, July 13

Here are the Rules:

To play the "Daily Double" Game name the horses you think will win the first and third races at Suffolk Downs. Then place the names of the horses you believe will run second and third in each of the two races.

20 pairs of tickets to the Suffolk Downs Races will be given each day to winners.

Winners will be picked under the following rules:

Entries that pick the "Daily Double" will be given first consideration. Should there be fewer "Daily Double" winners than there are prizes, winners of the remaining tickets will be scored as follows: First counts 8 points, second counts 4 points, and third counts 2 points in each of the two races. The entries scoring the largest number of points will be declared the winners.

In the event there are more "Daily Double" winners than there are prizes, the prizes will be given to the "Daily Double" winners who score the largest number of points in selecting the horses that run second and third in the first and third races. In scoring these winners the following rules will be observed: Place counts 4 points and show 2 points for each race. Tied contestants will each receive a ticket.

In the event any of the horses you pick are scratched, the next horse will be automatically moved up one space on your list. For example, should your first choice fail to start, the second horse named becomes your first choice and the third horse your second choice.

Except where horses are scratched, your selections must run in the order in which you list them on your entry blank in order to be counted. ONLY THE NAME OF ONE HORSE MAY BE SELECTED WHERE THE HORSES ARE COUPLED IN BETTING, AS IN ENTRIES AND FIELDS. The decision of the judges will be final and no entries returned.

A coupon for Monday's "Daily Double" selections will be printed Saturday.

Each day's winners will be printed in all editions of the Boston Evening American the day after the races are run (Saturday's winners in Monday's editions).

Watch for the Suffolk Downs Daily Double

YACHTSMEN TO GATHER AT PEDDOCKS ISLAND

3000 Convene SUNDAY

ON FIFTEENTH ANNUAL PARTY

By Ed Schriftgiesser

Yachtsmen and their friends from 35 yacht clubs will get together at Peddocks Island on Sunday for the biggest boating carnival of the year.

The occasion will be the 15th annual outing of the Massachusetts Bay Yacht Clubs Association. More than 3000 merrymakers in a fleet of nearly 600 boats are expected to make the trip down the harbor.

Under the direction of Commodore Charles H. Jackson, Rear Commodore Hosea D. White, and Fred Hagemeister, chairman of the race committee, an elaborate program has been arranged for the all-day festival.

Ray Nelson and his games committee has scheduled sports for men, women and children starting with a baseball game between North and South Shore members. There will be a tug-of-war, sprints, wheelbarrow races, and even a rolling-pin throwing contest for the ladies.

Transportation to the island will be provided by yacht owners, and by boats leaving the Columbia and South Boston Yacht clubs during the morning. Herbie Donovan, well known South Boston racing hand, is chairman of the transportation.

Eddie Morris, football announcer of the foghorn voice, heads the reception committee. Other committee heads include Charles A. Cain, badge committee; John S. Long, publicity; Secretary John J. Farren, finance.

In addition to the above officers, vice-chairman of the general committee include George J. Hamilton, John J. Loonie, Thomas F. Sheehan, Robert Schuerch, and Reginald Middleton.

Two races of the twilight series were completed this week at the Squantum Yacht Club, stormy weather having halted the Tuesday contest. Ten races make up the schedule, scattered through the summer whenever the tide serves during the evening.

A popular feature of the Squantum program, these contests offer a very different sort of sailing than that of daytime sailing.

As the wind usually goes down with the sun during summer westerlies, the task is to guess where its last puffs will linger longest, and to choose one's course accordingly.

Finding the course markers in the dusk adds to the difficulty of navigation, and the race committee of George Hey, Fred Hersey, Jack Russell and Howard Gannett sometimes have a hard job identifying boats as they glide over the finish line in the gloaming.

Danno Whips Steele

St. Louis, July 12—Dan O'Mahony, who gained the heavyweight wrestling championship by defeating Jimmy Londos in Boston last month, defeated Ray Steele, Glendale, Cal., in 38 minutes and 5 seconds with a head scissors and armlock here. He weighed 220, Steele, 215.

Steele had thrown O'Mahony with two front headlocks and was trying for a third at the time he was thrown. Unable to lift the Irishman, he fell and O'Mahony pinned him.

The famous Irish whip of O'Mahony didn't function, and a crowd estimated at 12,000 witnessed a tame affair.

Other results: Carl Hansen, 236, New York, defeated Pat Murphy, 212, Columbus, Wis., in 14 minutes.

Pat McGill, 225, Omaha, Neb., defeated George Tragos, 218, St. Louis, in 11 minutes, 55 seconds.

Orville Brown, 218, Wallace, Kan., threw Charley Strack, 239, Boston, in 11 minutes 21 seconds.

Joe Dusek, 214, Omaha, Neb., and George Zaharias, 230, Pueblo, Col., wrestled to a 30-minute draw.

3 Twi Games Scheduled Tonight

Climbing into third place by slugging the league-leading Roslindale Club, 13 to 3, last night at the Jefferson Playground, the Hennigan Club of Roxbury will again meet the Walker outfit at Fallon Field tonight.

Roslindale must take the measure of Barney McDermott's boys in order to hold their slight lead.

Billy Benson's St. Augustines will play host to the Casey Club at Columbus Park tonight in what promises to be a hot contest. After dropping a few tough ball games, Benson has inspired the old fight in the Saint's crew and a different type of baseball is expected at the Strandway tonight.

The fact that they are now out of the cellar and on the way to a playoff berth is reason enough, according to the fiery John Walsh of the Wolf's Club, to take Jordans tonight at the Town Field. The Wolf's outfit is coming along fine with the work of the Davis brothers and the excellent pitching support, which has been missing all year, and are now rated as one of the best clubs in the circuit.

John Santos will bring his St. Lazarus team up to Billy Madden's Roxbury field tonight in the final game carded.

ROMANCE After 3D IN ROW

West Springfield, July 12—Racing Secretary Tom Gregory has arranged one of the most attractive programs to date for tonight's events at the Crescent Kennel Club.

Romance, star of Ollie Payne's Kennels, will attempt to make it three in a row in the feature event of the evening. Miss Angeles will furnish stiffer competition than she has met lately, however.

Gov. Horner

Vetoes Race Horse Bill

Springfield, Ill., July 12 (INS)—Mayor Kelly's revolutionary bill to legalize Chicago's racing handbooks lay in the wastebasket today.

Gov. Henry Horner vetoed the measure last night a few hours before it would have become a law without his signature.

The governor said he had been swayed by several motives, chief among them being his consideration for the public good, and his doubt of the bill's constitutionality.

ARLINGTON VS. CUBS

With the Miller Oil-Maynard game at Waltham scratched as Manager Jimmy Haney had arranged another game for the Bike Park diamond this evening, Arlington and the Cambridge Cubs hold the field alone in the Boston Twilight League second half competition this evening at the Spy Pond field.

Manager Eddie Cartullo of Arlington believed he had a winning combination against the Lynch Club, but found Rogert's twirling too strong for his batters. He hopes to get his club going in the win column this evening.

The last time the Cubs went to Arlington they were trimmed, 8 to 3, but since then have been going places and wound up their first half schedule by polishing off Miller Oil, 9 to 4, winning four games and losing one by a single run in its last five games.

Three games are on tap for Sunday afternoon with the new Mayor John Irwin team of Medford against the Miller Oil at the Waltham Bike Park, Arlington playing the Middlesex Laundry team at South Acton and the Jefferson Club at Lowell.

The Jefferson went to the top of the league standing last night when the team edged Miller Oil at Cambridge, 11-10. It was their first game in the second half of the loop's season. C. M. A. C. broke into the victory column for the first time in this section of the league, when they defeated Maynard, 11-6, in South Acton, in the other Twi game.

What the Stars Did

By the Associated Press

VIRGIL DAVIS, Cardinals—His pinch double in ninth drove in runs that beat Phillies.

LEFTY Grove, Red Sox, and ZEKE BONURA, White Sox—Grove pitched five-hit ball and scored winning run in opener; Bonura drove in five tallies in second game with two homers.

AUGIE GALAN, Cubs—Led attack on Braves with homer and two singles.

JOHNNY ALLEN, Yankees—Limited Indians to six hits, fanned nine and knocked in first two runs.

ERIC McNAIR and JIMMIE FOXX, Athletics—McNair hit homer and five singles; Foxx two homers and two doubles in double-header against Browns.

BABE Breaks SILENCE

By Universal Service

New York, July 12—Babe Ruth today emerged from his status of "private citizen" to tell the world there is much more to life than being a baseball hero.

The noted sultan of swat reveals in the American Magazine the innermost feelings of a public hero who was cheered by thousands at one moment only to be pelted with pop bottles by the same throng a bit later.

Breaking the silence he has maintained since he quit baseball after his row with the Boston Braves, he writes:

"It's all very well to be known all over the world. It pays big dividends. But dividends alone won't make a man happy.

"I know, because I've spent them. I think it is better to be known well by a few good friends—trusted, liked and respected by them in spite of one's weakness and shortcomings, than to be cheered on every continent by by people who think you're great.

"A famous man always feels as if he were living under false pretenses, that sooner or later he will be found out and showered with pop bottles.

"Fame is a spotlight one minute and a bull's-eye the next. The people who cheer loudest when you succeed are those who throw pop bottles the hardest when you fail.

"The crowd begins by overrating you. When you don't live up to its exaggerated opinion of you, it underrates you. Loud cheers make heroes. Pop bottles make martyrs."

Of baseball fans, the Babe said:

"I like fans, too. They made me what I am, even if they did nearly break my skull two or three times with bottles and stones."

BUSINESS PACE

Holding STEADY In N. E.

By Hugh E. Bradshaw

Business activity in the New England sector continues almost without change from week to week. The outlook is favorable and offsets the fact current levels are somewhat below last year.

The three graces of New England business, wool, leather and cotton, present a conflicting picture. Woolen piece goods are rather slow, but this is more or less hidden because volume is good, due to government orders. Cotton mills are taking new orders as efforts are directed toward holding prices. As a result inventories are somewhat depleted. Leather is responding to increased shoemaking activity and raw stock markets are beginning to feel buying of manufacturers forced to replenish stocks.

• • •

The real sore spot in the New England outlook is cotton. But even this is starting to show indications of healing. Until the industry is in a fairly healthy state, this section cannot very well hope for anything more than a feeble recovery. Personally, we think its troubles are well on the road to solution. Granted a measure of cotton prosperity in the fall, there is good reason to forecast cheerful conditions throughout New England. Compared with other sections, the percentage of improvement may not be great. But it still holds that other sections plumbed depths unknown here.

• • •

Gossip: Continental Can is said to be about ready to increase the dividend . . . $3 is the gossip . . . Boom in retail sales in New York City area responsible for some buying of merchandise shares . . . Sales pressure on secondary brands by American Tobacco causing bullish comment on company . . . Despite pressure of late on Southern Railway securities, the gossips say everything is all right . . . Final quarter this year is critical one . . . With some heavy loans coming due . . . Carrier Corporation has made satisfactory arrangement for financing sales of its small and medium-priced air conditioning units.

• • •

The market insists on offering added indications of distribution. To complete the picture all that is needed is another show of strength with the possible setting of a new high by a small fraction, without any follow through. Substitute action might take the shape of firmness over the next few sessions. In any event, we fall back on customary market device in order to be assured of protection. Sell now and, if a new high is set by a truly vigorous movement, repurchase. The cost is only the point or two more paid and it is worth it.

• • •

Sidelights: A big statistical service is making an interesting point regarding heavy industries . . . It says that the steel boiler industry reaches maximum activity some time before heavy industry . . . Right now sales of steel boilers are expanding in good fashion . . . A large New York service says today that the market gave an important bear signal at mid-week . . . It is backing up this statement with advice to sell . . . In the expectation of repurchasing from five to ten points lower down some time in the next eight weeks.

EXPORTS TO Europe Decrease

Washington, July 12 AP)—Large decreases in exports to Europe were shown by Commerce Department figures today to have accounted entirely for the decline of American export trade for the first five months of this year as compared with last year.

Exports to every other section of the world increased some $50,076,000, while those to Europe decreased $61,822,000, leaving a net decline in exports of $11,746,000.

May figures showed that Southern North America, Asia, Oceania, and Africa made slight gains in purchases from the United States compared with May last year.

Imports for the month were generally larged from every section of the world, the total gain being $109,070,000.

CARLOADINGS In Sharp Decline

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The Association of American Railroads announced today that loadings of revenue freight for the week ended July 6 were 472,421 cars, a decrease of 145,615 below the preceding week, 48,320 below the corresponding week in 1934 and 71,089 below 1933.

The heavy decrease was due to the July 4 holiday. The holiday, however, also occurred in the corresponding weeks in 1933 and 1934. Miscellaneous freight loaded totaled 197,855 cars, a decrease of 39,873 below the preceding week, an increase of 106 over 1934 and a decrease of 4112 below 1933.

New York, July 12 (AP)—Bar silver easy, ⅝ lower, at 68¾.

CURB Shares Are MIXED

UNITED GAS STRONG

New York, July 12 — Curb shares continued irregular in later trading. Some profit-taking was in evidence but outside of this factor the market tended higher.

Price changes were for the most part small and irregularity extended to all groups.

The United Gas issues were strong in the utility list as the preferred jumped a point and the common advanced ⅛ to 2¼. United Light & Power preferred eased ⅛ and Electric Bond & Share ¼ point before the latter recovered slightly.

In the specialty list Consolidated Aircraft, Armstrong Cork and American Cyanamid B registered slight gains.

Niles Bement Pond declined sharply, losing 1⅜ in early dealings. Swift International and Ferro Enamel eased.

REFINING Shows Profit

Atlantic Refining Co. will probably show a small profit for the first six months of 1935 in its preliminary report to be issued within a few weeks.

Operations during the second quarter probably will reflect a slight profit sufficient to make up the deficit of $129,000 reported for the first quarter of the year.

In the second quarter last year Atlantic's net was equal to 59 cents a share bringing net for the six months of 1934 to $1.12 a share on 2,664,904 shares of $25 par.

PRICES Are Firm AT CLOSE

TRADING IS QUIET

New York, July 12—Aircraft, motor and specialty issues lent the principal support to today's stock market. Profit taking, generally, dried up although there were a few soft spots still in evidence. Trading was relatively quiet.

Douglas Aircraft advanced more than 2 points and United Aircraft and Wright Aeronautical were up about 1 each. General Motors moved into new high territory for the year under active buying.

Other gainers of fractions to a point included Chrysler, Kelsey Wheel, Chicago Mail Order, National Biscuit, Schenley, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Electro Auto-Lite and Western Union. United Fruit lost more than 2. The utilities and steels did little. The late tone was firm.

The financial sector was brightened a bit by rumors from Washington that the administration's wealth-tax program might not be pushed through this session of Congress.

The utilities' followers were still giving their attention to the legislative lobby probe and wondering as to the ultimate fate of the holding company bill.

Railroad reorganization conferences were being watched by carrier stock and bond holders for indications of further government help for some of the distressed lines.

Brokers said the flurry in the aircraft division probably was the result of European war talk and the possibility that large orders for fighting craft may be obtained from abroad by American factories specializing in this type of plane.

In addition, various aviation companies were said to be doing quite well in the building of transport and government machines.

Mixed Factors

Followers of the automotive department were cheered by the report of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association, which showed production of its members in June amounted to 276,218 motor vehicles, a gain of 11 per cent over May and 21 per cent over the 1934 June month.

For the first six months of 1935 it was estimated output was 20 per cent ahead of the same period last year and 48 per cent above the average for the last five years. All but one of the major producers are members of the association.

Further aid to market optimists was contained in the trade review announcement that building permit values throughout the United States in June established a new peak since November, 1931.

The June total represents an increase of 84.1 per cent over the same month last year.

Wall Street found bullish and bearish market factors about a standoff as trading got under way, brokers said.

Observers declared the Dun & Bradstreet trade report made good reading. It said:

> "In spite of the fact that final figures on retail distribution for June revealed larger increases than were in prospect at mid-month, the trend of sales thus far in July has been strongly upward."

The survey stated that a conservative estimate for the country indicated gains of from 10 to 30 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago.

The Federal Reserve System report for the week ended Wednesday was featured by a gain of 152,000,000 in member bank reserves to a new high level of $5,052,000,000.

Banking circles attributed the rise to the return of $68,000,000 of currency to banks after the holiday and to the disbursement of funds by the Treasury.

It was estimated that the excess reserve total had risen to around the old record of $2,500,000,000, which was first reached four weeks ago.

In the foreign exchange market the pound sterling opened off ⅝ of a cent at $4.95¾. The French franc was .01¼ cents lower at 6.61¼ cents.

CALIFORNIA Oil Net Up

Union Oil Co. of California reports for quarter ended June 30, 1935, estimated net profit of $1,600,000, equivalent to 336 cents a share on 4,386,070 shares of capital stock. This compares with $1,350,000, or 31 cents a share in preceding quarter and net loss of $200,000 in June quarter of 1934.

For six months ended June 30, 1935, estimated net was $2,950,000, equal to 67 cents a share, against $300,000, or seven cents a share in first six months of preceding year.

INDUSTRIAL HEADS

Fight PUNITIVE Taxes

By B. C. Forbes

Industrialists are up in arms.

Deciding that the time has come to brave Washington's displeasure in the interest of investors, they have begun to educate their stockholders on the injuriousness of President Roosevelt's proposed discriminatory taxes on shareholders in large corporations.

When it was revealed in this column months ago that President Roosevelt, ruffled by the bold stand of one business leader against certain Rooseveltian policies, hurled at him a statement which could be interpreted only as meaning that the President was determined to wage war against all big businesses, skepticism was expressed—skepticism and vitriolic criticism.

Business men to whom I related the incident were incredulous.

Now President Roosevelt comes forward and unequivocally demands that investors in large corporations be punished by the imposition of 75 per cent heavier taxes than investors in small companies.

That the motive is to punish success, to penalize outstanding achievement, to wound bigness rather than to raise additional revenue to meet the government's gigantic expenditures, is revealed by the fact that, instead of maintaining or increasing the present rate of 13¾ per cent on all corporations, the proposal is to reduce the rates to as low as 10 per cent on smaller businesses.

Figures were given in this column the other day revealing that 23 American corporations each has upwards of 100,000 stockholders and that other 31 companies average 73,500 stockholders each.

The truth is that modest savers and investors have been attracted by the securities of large corporations rather than of small corporations. The biggest business enterprise in the world, American Telephone & Telegraph, has more shareholders than any other organization in the land—675,000.

The average holding is 28 shares. Not only so, but more than 50 per cent are women.

Another pertinent fact is that many smaller enterprises are largely owned by families or a few very wealthy individuals.

But under the extraordinary tax program recently thrust before Congress, with orders to enact it hastily into law, the little stockholders—men, women, families—who have invested their savings in American Telephone would have to pay 75 per cent more taxes than wealthy owners of large blocks of stock in concerns of lesser importance.

This is an entirely new, an entirely revolutionary, an entirely un-American taxation principle.

It aims at punishing achievement, punishing efficiency, punishing superiority, punishing success.

PALMER On New Haven

President Palmer of the New York, New Haven & Hartford said gross revenues the first week of this month showed a gain of about 2 per cent above a year ago. Freight traffic was up 4 per cent in this period, while passenger receipts were about even with a year ago.

Interest due July 15 on the New Haven's convertible debenture 6s, 1948, will be paid, it is understood.

Facing Blackmailer

OTIS VANBRUGH paced the floor of the sittingroom that he shared with Consuela at the Imperial Hotel, Mayfair.

Consuela, sunk in a deep armchair, watched him uneasily.

"I don't know, my dear; I don't know. I don't know what to say. I don't see how you can go on."

"Otis, can't we do something? I could kill him. I would kill him if I had a chance. I'd kill him with my own hands. If only for making me feel like this, driving me back to what I was. I was forgetting how to hate, forgetting that ever I had hated — and now I'm talking about killing. He's driving me back to what I was; making me bad again, Oh, if he were here in this room."

"Forget it, Consuela. Cut it right out. Don't talk like that. I'll fix him, don't you worry. Look here, we'll go down to Vane Court with Harry tomorrow, and from there I'll go on to Brandon Abbas, and I will talk it over with John Geste. John's not only about the whitest man that ever lived, but he's wise, he's sound. We'll see what he advises. You won't mind if I tell him everything, will you?'

"Don't Worry"

"Oh, Otis . . . but . . . Well, you know best. I'll leave it entirely to you. If you think it's going to help."

"In point of fact, Consuela, I should have had to tell John something, even if we'd never met the Vanes and Spanish Maine. I wrote and told him we were coming to England and that I was bringing my half-sister; and when he was at the ranch in Wyoming there wasn't any half-sister! He knows Mary and Janey, and as he was going to take us around in British society, I should have had to tell him something to explain your accent, and your being such a brunette, so different from Mary and Janey.

"But don't worry, my dear, John Geste is not one of the best, he's the best, and his wife, well . . ."

"She's the woman you loved so, isn't she?" said Consuela. "Yes, and but for her I should never have known you, Otis, and never have known Harry. I should still be in Bouzen. It was because you loved her that you came to Africa to look for her husband, wasn't it" Yes. Tell them, if you like. I don't care. They'd never, never tell anybody else, would they?"

"They'd sooner die, Consuela. They'd sooner cut their tongues out."

"Well, tell them, and see if they can help. Yes, tell them. I don't care. I feel everything is slipping . . . Oh, Otis, Otis, I shall die."

And the girl burst into a flood of passionate tears.

"Help Me!"

"There, there, there . . ."

"Oh, help me," she wept. "I do love him so. And, oh God, do help me to kill Spanish Maine. I do hate him so."

"There, there, Consuela. Don't carry on. I'll fix him. I'll fix him.

"Otis! Don't you do anything to bring trouble on you! I won't have it! I've given you trouble enough Promise me, Otis. I'll deal with El Senor Manoel Maine."

"Now, none of that, Consuela' Stop it! Cut it out, I tell you Never mind about fixing Spanish Maine. Go and fix yourself. They'll be here to lunch in half an hour."

And as the girl went from the room, Otis Vanbrugh seated himself in her chair, resting his chin upon his clenched fists.

"I don't know," he said "I don't know. What a mess! What an awful mess. She can't get away with it. We can't—with or without Mr. Spanish Maine.

"Mr. Spanish Maine! . . . Why, hombre, I begin to think you are the one bright spot in it; for I do surely promise myself a real shining moment with you—when the time comes."

Switching on the lights and locking the door, John Geste turned to his guest, Otis Vanbrugh

"Well, old chap, here we are What's the trouble?"

"Blackmail."

"Good Lord! That's a nasty thing Nearly as bad as murder."

"Worse, sometimes,' agreed Vanbrugh. "I'd make it capital offense. Murder of happiness. Sometimes murder of mind and soul. Much worse than killing the body"

"Who's being blackmailed? Not you?" asked John Geste, incredulous.

"Yes, indirectly"

"For a large amount?"

"Oh, six thousand pounds cash down, and five thousand a year; with a contingent thirty thousand pounds—a contingency which I've no doubt will be made to arise."

"Who is it?" Geste asked.

"Our friend Senor Manoel Maine, approved and admired by Lady Drusilla Vane."

"Good Lord above us! A blackmailer?"

"Very black"

"Well, in a case of blackmail, our police and law courts are particularly sound and helpful. If you run a man in, for blackmail, your name is suppressed if you wish it to be. The plaintiff is referred to as Mr. X, and the real name is not mentioned in court at all."

OTIS VANBRUGH answered quickly·

"What you say only refers to the general newspaper reading public. The blackmailer always has the postal facilities at his disposal. You can prosecute and punish him for blackmail without public exposure, but you can't prevent exposure; you can't stop his tongue and his pen until he goes to prison—if he does go.

"It's bound to be known in one's own circle; and one's own circle is really a sphere. It is one's world The world we move in is our world, and the real agony, misery, injury and ruin accrues through our own people knowing the secret—not the general public.

"And what about such relatives, friends, acquaintances, servants, tradespeople and such, who are called as witnesses, whether for the prosecution or defense? Your own circle must simply buzz with it; and they are the people who matter.

"And of course the circle is ever widening, like those cast by the throwing of a stone into a pond. No, there is no need for newspaper reporters to tell your friends all about it. They are bound to know, anyway, once you come to prosecute"

The Girl's Story

John Geste smoked in thoughtful silence.

"Yes, but look here—what does that matter, after all? Your household, family, relations, friends, know it's a damned lie So do the people who are called as witnesses."

A brief silence.

"Suppose it isn't a lie?" asked Vanbrugh with a deep sigh.

"Oh! Well . . . you mean—something one wouldn't want one's people to know"

"Yes," said Otis Vanbrugh

"But surely that would be preferable to blackmail, wouldn't it? I should imagine anything would be better than that."

"YOU'D think so, wouldn't you? And generally speaking, you'd be right, I should say: but you can't generalize. You can't lay down a general rule. Circumstances alter cases. Take this one, for example

"Suppose someone, a girl let's say, were, through no fault of her own, put into a horrible position, a terrible situation . . . apparently permanent

'She escapes from it, and the ghastly awful past is behind her Later she finds herself in precisely the opposite sort of position, as desirable as the other was undesirable

"Then suddenly, like a bolt from the blue—her new beautiful calm clear sky—comes a blackmailer, the man who has known her in the former horrible position, situation, circumstances. He's got her absolutely; for she is about to be married.

"It's as good as death to the girl if he tells her fiance—as bad as death—for it is the death of her happiness. It's social ruin, too; the inevitable end of the friendship of every friend she has. It's disgrace, downfall, dishonor, a terrible scandal. It means flight, hiding, the end of all things . ruin, destruction, probable suicide."

"Poor girl' Who is she?'

"My sister'

"Your sister? Being blackmailed? Good God' By whom?"

"This fellow Maine. Senor Manoel Maine Spanish Maine"

"But . . . but . . . What can he . . . ?"

"I'll tell you."

OTIS VANBRUGH filled his glass, lit a cigar, and settled down to tell John Geste the story of the metamorphosis of Zaza the Death Angel, daughter of Zaza Blanchfleur, into Consuela Vanbrugh.

Dimly, very vaguely indeed John Geste had a faint elusive memory of a girl in the camp of Shiekh Yussuf ben Amir

He had been practically unconscious when he and Vanbrugh had been brought before Sheikh Yussuf ben Amir, his son Selim ben Yussuf, and the Angel of Death, as they sat in front of the old Sheikh's tent.

But until Vanbrugh now spoke of her, he had entirely forgotten the incident, and, in any case, had no memory of her face.

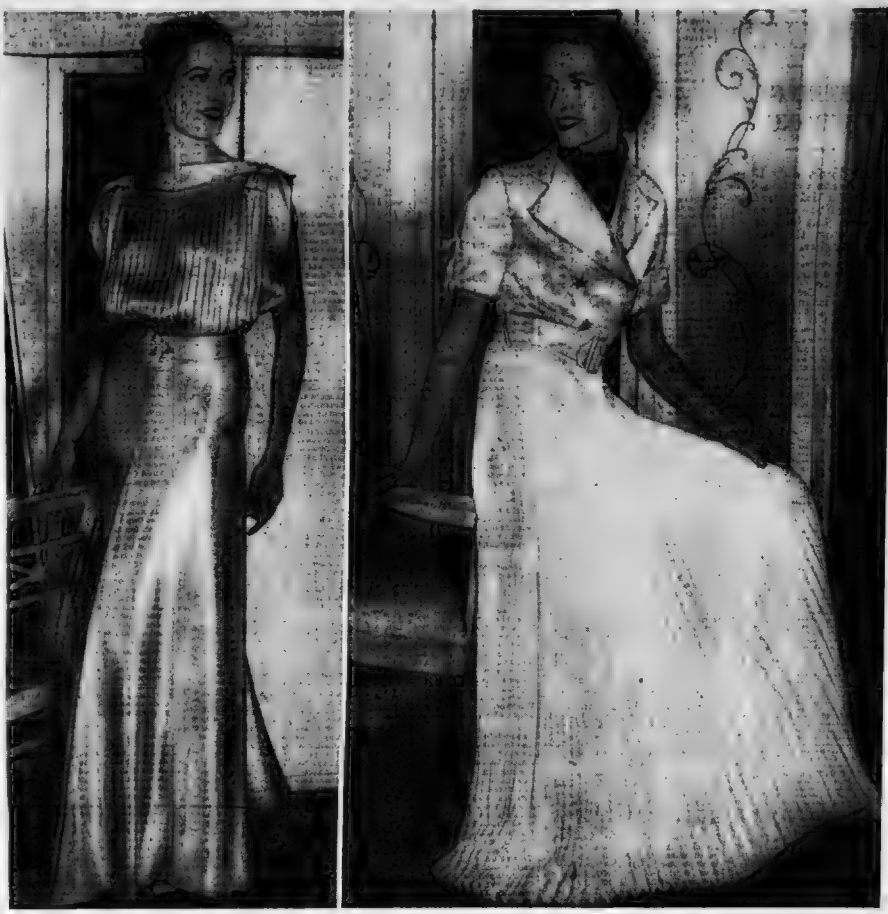
Night Sees the Shimmer of Satin



By ANNICE BRINK

GRECIAN as the breast drapery of a Caryatid are the softly pleated bodice lines of the satin dance frock, shown at the left. Deep bands square off the neck and arms, and encourage the classic air. But the color is modern as this morning's coat of tan—a dusky melon rose. Fullness, for the sake of the slim line, is confined to godets, in front and back. Right, flare pleated white satin rivals chiffon for beauty in motion . . . and it also encourages the taper effect. A double-breasted reefer top is a slight shock, but a pleasant one. On white, the star buttons and the chiffon ascot are emerald. On lilac, the ruby of Dubonnet, and so on in an exciting array of contrasts. Both dance frocks are silk satin, and both are budget. COOLEST SLEEVE

It's the Well-Known Cape

By Marian Martin

PATTERN 9480

There's nothing like being "brief" about the sleeve problem for hot weather.

The surest way to simplicity and cool freedom is via a little cape sleeve, and we have considered mother as well, for the dress is so easy to put together that several could be quickly made.

The cape provides girlishness without fussiness, and the simple skirt has two pleats to give her young legs room for a good stride.

BIRTHDAY PLANS FOR MARION

CHAPTER 393

I WAS REMINDED of nothing so much as a baited bull as I watched Samuel Brixton's face change color under Lillian's scrutiny, and her apparently casual comment—"Ah! Does that interest you, Sam? I thought it would"—following his surprised ejaculation about Lee Chow's projected presence at the scheduled opening of Marion's lock box.

I guessed, of course, that his chief concern was not Lillian's suspicions, but a fear that his wife might come to know of his old crimes.

For I suspected that the ugly word was the only one which would adequately describe those old transactions of his with Marion's father, Lillian's first husband, who had caused my old friend such cruel suffering.

LILLIAN SAVES BRIXTON

His love for Helena and for her children whom he had adopted as his own in their infancy, giving them his own name legally, was the finest thing in his nature, a trait which, I knew, in Lillian's mind almost out-weighed his offenses.

That Lillian would not risk Helena suspecting anything concerning her husband I knew when, at Helena's surprised query, "What's the matter, Sam? You look so queer," she at once said in the most solicitous tones possible·

"It's the heat in here. Jim has the fire in the furnace altogether to hot. I've been feeling stuffy myself, and my blood pressure isn't what Sam's is, I'll bet, Hank, Bill, open a couple of windows. Better go and sit near one, Sam."

"Thanks, I will,' he replied gruffly, but there was a grateful note beneath the brusqueness, and I knew that he was gratefully relieved when his wife, patently accepting Lillian's explanation as gospel, hurried to his side, and with pretty wifely solicitude went with him to the window which Bill ad hurriedly opened.

It was Marion who took up Mr. Brixton's surprised query and finished it.

LEE SHOULD BE PRESENT

"But Mumsie," she said, "please don't think I'm impertinent, but Granzie never told me anything about Lee Chow. Why does he have to be present at the opening of the box?"

Lillian looked at her young daughter thoughtfully, evidently bebating the question as to how much she should tell her of the reasons for Lee Chow being present at the box opening.

"Your grandmother [illegible] not know that such a man as Lee Chow was in existence" she said slowly. "And you are right. To carry out this strict letter of your grandmother's request, he would not have to be present."

She stopped, as if groping for words; began again.

"Dear child, this primarily is yours soley." she said. "The bequest was left to you alone. But will you bear with me and believe me when I tell you that, to my mind, there are very urgent reasons why Lee Chow should be present at the opening of that box?"

There was a note in her voice which no daughter as loving as Marion could withstand, and I was not surprised to see the child —for she is little more, despite her almost eighteen years—rush across the space separating her from Lillian and throw her arms around her mother's neck.

"Mumsie! Darling!" she said. "Don't explain any more. You make me seem such a little ungrateful beast. Of course, it's all your business, and you are to say everything that's to be done It just—seemed so queer, that's all."

"There, there, my pet!" Lillian patted her shoulder as I had seen her do many times in Marion's girlhood. "Everything's all right, and you are perfectly justif'ed in thinking it is queer. Nothing queerer has ever come under my observation. And I've seen many things in my life."

There was another pause, and in the big room the proverbial pin dropping would have sounded like the explosion of a bomb, or so it seemed to my excited imagination. But I was sure that it was not all my imagination that told me that Samuel Brixton was the most concerned listener of us all.

Limit YOUR Bridge LOSSES

By MRS. CULBERTSON

Where you can afford to lose one trick in a suit, but cannot afford to lose more, it is foolhardy to attempt to avoid the loss of any tricks at the risk of losing two, if there is a play that must surely limit the loss to one.

Today's hand is a typical example of a situation which in slightly different forms comes up fairly often.

And when it does is always worth a little reflection before deciding what you will do.

West	North / South	East
	♠ 9 6 ♡ Q 7 ♢ A 9 5 4 3 ♣ A J 5 2
♠ Q 10 ♡ J 10 8 5 3 2 ♢ K J 10 8 ♣ 6	North South	♠ J 8 5 ♡ A 9 6 ♢ Q 7 6 ♣ Q 10 8 2
	♠ A K 7 4 3 2 ♡ K 4 ♢ 2 ♣ K 9 4 3

This hand was dealt in a team-of-four match. Playing at four spades, South has lost a trick to the Ace of diamonds and the Jack of spades.

He can afford to lose one trick in clubs but not two, and the fact that if the Jack finesse works and the suit splits he may not lose any is a consideration of no importance.

One South led low to the Jack and lost to the Queen, after he carelessly led the King from his hand, overlooking the fact that King-nine-five as against Ace-five-three offered a finesse possibility if the suit did not split. He was set one and lost a vulnerable game.

The more careful South found an absolute safety play to avoid the loss of more than one trick against any adverse distribution.

The possibilities were that either East or West might have Q 10 x x or that East might have Queen alone and West 10 8 x x.

To guard against the latter case he led small to the Ace, led back a small club and when East played low, finessed the nine.

Note that if West has both Queen and ten or either Queen or ten, declarer loses only one trick; since the only remaining club must drop on the lead of the King.

With the cards as they actually were, only one trick is lost. And finally, if West holds four clubs to the Queen-ten, East must show out on the second round.

South then wins the King and leads low to the Jack, losing only one trick to the Queen. Simple, isn't it?

A play that cannot lose against any combination of the adverse cards—the only thing South had to do was recognize the situation —or figure it out.

Dressy Dishrags

COUNTRY LADIES go about all dressed up in dishrags. Well, practically, for dishrag knits have those familiar square meshes and are bordered at skirt edge and sleeves with bright red, green or blue in the best kitchen tradition. The two piece collarless models are particularly nice, and some have dashing swagger coats. Dishrag knits fit faithfully, don't wrinkle, and look especially giddy with Aunt Jemima calico bandanas and bright kidskin sandals to match the colored borders.

* * *

CLOVER CLUB, a pink that is as delicious as the cocktail it is named for, is the most exhilarating new summer color. Clover club linen makes marvelous resort clothes such as halter back dresses with brief bolero jackets and spectator frocks that button down the back for variety. Combined with violet or beetroot red, clover club crepe appears in knockout town frocks. Pink kidskin sandals, delightfully cool looking, brimmed pink straw hats with colored veils and clover club gloves with enormous cuffs are enchanting accessories.

FLOWERS for Madame blossom into exquisite accessories. Languorous crimson poppies cluster at the back of sophisticated evening coiffures, nosegays of bluets nestle over the ear, and waxen gardenias are worn Victorian-fashion just above the bangs. Artificial cornflowers, lilies of the valley and buttercups make tiny clips for slim white kidskin pumps. Flower earrings are new, too, and charmingly fresh and becoming.

ADVICE on LOVE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX and NELL BRINKLEY

Hobbies Have Youth Giving Qualities

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SOME WEEKS AGO, a much-weeded-out group of important women were invited to one of the embassies in Washington to hear a distinguished man of letters talk.

He was charming, handsome, wonderfully young-looking for his age—which most of the ladies had verified in some of the biographical sketches of the lecturer.

The gentleman did not talk about the subject which has made his name known on both sides of the Atlantic. On the contrary, he talked about his fad—rose-growing, which he said had been instrumental in making him successful in his profession.

What is your hobby? What would you really take up if you had time and opportunity? And whatever it is, please don't put it aside with a pang of self-pity, for your hobby will keep you young and pretty beyond the magic of beauty parlors. Doing just what you want, whether it's painting a picture, modelling a statue or making a layer cake, gives you the release which rubs out more lines and hollows than the most expert masseuse.

SWEET REST

What profiteth cold cream at $5.00 per jar, if your mind is tied up in bow-knots of worry and apprehension? An absorbing pursuit will bring the sound, refreshing sleep which gives to your eyes a dewy look beyond the power of eye pencils or mascara.

Of course, your hobby must be healthful, because if it happens to be cocktail parties or a wild time over which you lose a night's sleep, better pass it up quickly.

People with hobbies are easy to live with; they make good husbands and wives. They are not cranky over meals because the lure of that precious fad, whatever it is, is beckoning, and leaves scant time to worry over imperfect coffee or overdone meat.

FAMOUS HOBBIES

Here are a few of the hobbies which have kept famous women young and lovely:

Edna St. Vincent Millay, our really great woman poet, has a garden which would bring her fame if she were not among the world's foremost writers.

Mary Garden swims and takes sun baths. Jeritza says there is nothing like a pair of oars for making her happy and keeping down the "too, too solid" flesh.

Mrs. Roosevelt is a splendid horsewoman, and in spite of the pressure of multiple engagements, takes a daily canter. Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, is intensely interested in pictures, and regrets that she has not more time to spend among Washington's notable picture galleries.

'Neysa McMein, who does those fascinating magazine covers, likes a good game of croquet—and just let anyone try to beat her.

NOT EXPENSIVE

Now, very probably, you will write me "mad" letters, and say these women have incomes which make fads, hobbies and avocations possible. If space, time and money prevent you from pursuing your fad on a large scale, have a go at it in a modified form.

If you've always wanted to travel, and crossing oceans and continents is out of the question, join a travel club at your local library and hear some good travel talks. Get up a hiking club and explore interesting places near your home town.

If you like the water, learn how to swim, row, and paddle a canoe. Don't stay home and fret over what you'd like to do, but try to do it even in a modified form. The thing that makes women peevish, homely and wrinkled is sticking off by themselves and dwelling on their troubles.

If a fad or a near fad will help them to forget for even an hour, it's a beautifier.

* * *

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 30, and romance doesn't often come my way. But one man seemed to care for me—all this in a business office. And he promised to come back. The lady manager of the office is a relative who has always tried to down me. She does not want me to marry, though she has married.

I want to see him again. I lead a terribly lonesome life. I have no friends nor, indeed, any place to invite them after office hours. I'd love to marry and have a home.

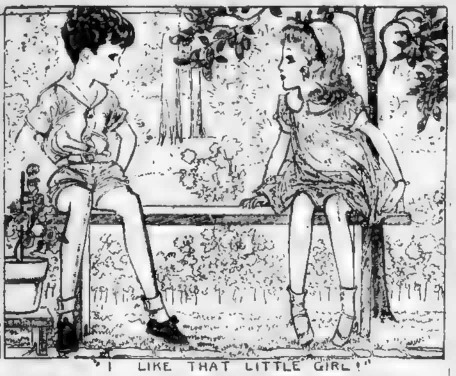
S.

Don't give up hope; try and get the relative to bring you and the gentleman together. If she declines to do this, you might call at her office rather frequently, in the hope of seeing him again.

What Makes Affinity?

By Nell Brinkley

"I DON'T LIKE THAT BABY!"



"I LIKE THAT LITTLE GIRL!"

EVEN the infant on his blanket on the lawn, eyeing the "company" baby, with her little corn-colored top-knot tied with a satin ribbon, knows whether he LIKES her or NOT! He either makes her presents of his toys, or he takes them back; and screams when she holds them tight. And she knows, potential young lady, and perhaps a great beauty-to-be, whether she likes this dark-eyed gallant in a batiste frock with a bit of lace at his neck, or NO.

And they don't know exactly why, any more than grown Jack and Jill know why they are drawn to one another irrevocably under the lemon-moon of summer, 'til death do them part. Or why they can sit under that same romantic moon WITHOUT falling in love.

The baby says, "I don't like THAT BABY."

A little boy looks on the little snub nose of a plain little girl, shy in her flowered play-dress, and says, "I LIKE that little GIRL."

And with all the explaining of fact and fiction, prose and poetry, by wise ones and simpletons, nobody yet knows just what makes affinity.

It doesn't mean "like" at all, many times. It means—what does it mean? NELL BRINKLEY.

Stretch Away Fatigue

Star Gives Her Exercises

By THE BEAUTY EDITOR

HOLLYWOOD has definite, logical ideas about keeping the body youthfully lovely through normal, healthful exercise.

If you are one of heaven's pet daughters who spend the summer on the white sands of Cape Cod, or high in the White Mountains, or at a dude ranch far out on the Western plains, it's a pretty safe bet that you possess the sparkle and buoyancy of a Balinese maiden.

But how about the business woman, the working girl and the housewife—city-bound victims of heat, blues and the "workaday kinks"?

Out in Hollywood, many of the stars were faced with this same problem. Hours of tedious rehearsal spent under the hot Klieg lights, left the nerves and tempers on edge, and in many cases health undermined. But not for long, however, because a successfull solution was soon evolved.

When you drag yourself home from business, or finish the last wearying household duty, don't throw yourself on a bed and indulge in a fit of tired blues.

Slip into an inexpensive sun suit, or gym suit, and go through a set of simple exercise, especially recommended for reviving jaded spirits and bringing beauty back to life.

Lovely Kathleen Burke, gracious girl that she is, has posed to illustrate these exercises for you—to show you how to go about getting rid of the "workday kinks."

Glamorous summer nights are too precious a time to sacrifice in exhaustion at home. Just realize that the reason you feel as low as you do is because your body has been denied, normal, healthful exercise.

This illustrated leaflet, free to you for the asking, contains a stretching-away-fatigue exercise and five other exercises designed for the sole purpose of putting sparkle and life in you again. These exercises include a special one for developing skinny legs and one for relieving shoulder cramps.

To obtain Kathleen Burk's illustrated leaflet on getting rid of the workday kinks, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Juliet Shelby, Boston Evening American.

Fashion Flashes

FOR INFORMAL dinner and cocktail wear, the short-sleeved black satin frock is indispensable. Sometimes it has brief capelet sleeves and is cut on coat-dress lines, sometimes it is in the shirtwaist frock category, with collar and pleated bosom in white organdie or chiffon, and in all cases it is smart.

The black satin suit for town wear also is finding new supporters. It consists uually of a frock and matching three-quarter coat, the former with front fullness and soft lines, the latter with either long or short sleeves and a tailored collar.

And here's a new trick of the season—buy an extra jacket or coat of white crepe or satin, and wear it over your black frock, with white accessories.

MAIDLESS SUNDAY DINNER

TRY THIS EASY, GRACIOUS TABLE SERVICE

SUNDAY—a day of relaxation!

Serve a delicious midday dinner and invite one or two guests to enjoy it.

But have no more than six at the table if you're going to play the role of cook-hostess-waitress.

Plan the kind of menu you can prepare ahead of time, with a minimum of last-minute watching. One you can serve with few trips to the kitchen, and as few dishes as possible. Then you'll really enjoy entertaining at dinner.

If you are serving fruit cocktail, have it ready on the table when you announce dinner. Have the water glasses filled, the butter on individual plates, and heated rolls on a platter covered with a linen napkin.

Simplified Service

If you follow the menu in our sketch, the man of your household will serve stuffed lamb chops, parsley potatoes and glazed pineapple from a large platter, peas from a dish to his right. After bringing in these two main dishes, the heated plates, and the mint sauce or jelly, you won't need to leave your place again during this course, except to bring in more hot rolls.

Place the water pitcher and salad plates, the salad serving spoon and fork, and a plate of crackers on a tea wagon, or serving table, conveniently set by your side. The salad (we suggest crisp greens in a large bowl, with French Dressing) remains in the refrigerator until the last moment.

Your dessert—cherry pie, say, and cheese—with its plates, forks, and serving knife are in readiness on the lower shelf of the tea wagon.

Serve coffee in the living-room, from a small table. On your coffee tray you'll have the after-dinner coffee pot and half-sized cups with a small spoon on each saucer. Pass cream and sugar on a small tray.

At informal meals such as this, it is proper to remove two plates at a time, one in each hand (taking out the serving dishes first). Our hostess lets her 14-year-old daughter help with this and other details—crumbing the table and removing salts and peppers before the dessert course, filling the water glasses.

Helpful Booklet

There . . . a delicious dinner . . . an unruffled hostess! Perfect Sunday entertaining. It's this sort of effortless entertaining our Home Institute booklet, TABLE SETTING AND SERVICE, describes. Photographs and diagrams illustrate such subjects as:

Maidless Service
Table Coverings and Decoration
Dinner Luncheon Breakfast
Afternoon Tea Buffet Supper
After-Dinner Coffee

With this 40-page booklet as a guide, you'll find entertaining surprisingly easy. To order, use the coupon below.

Introducing GUESTS OF Honor

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Our club is giving a dinner dance at an inn. We are going to have one and perhaps two honor guests. Just how should I introduce these guests? Should I introduce them from our table, or go around and do it individually?

2. As I am to act as hostess, just what am I supposed to do from the time of arriving at the inn until leaving time?

3. Someone suggested that I should say a few words. Do you think I should? If so, what should I say?

4. Should all officials sit at one table as long as we are having an honor guest?

5. Should our club provide our honor guest with a corsage?

6. Should we invite the husbands of the honor guests also? We are all going with our husbands. Thank you.

1. I suggest that before the dinner you as hostess, the honor guests and perhaps one or two of the officers of your club (surely the president or whatever you call the ranking officer), form an informal receiving line, so that the honor guests may be introduced to the other guests before places are assigned at dinner.

You, as hostess, would stand first in line, and would introduce each guest to the honor guests.

The president and other officer would be at the other end of the line. The fact that the introductions are made before the dinner always gives a party a smoother start.

2. Before the dinner, perhaps late on that afternoon, you should go to place the place cards, and perhaps arrange flowers (or see that they are arranged as you wish them) if they are to be used as centerpieces of the tables, and see that every other detail is in readiness.

Then you arrive early in the evening so that you will be there in time to greet your honor guests and to take your places in the line.

Graciously you make all necessary introductions, see that everyone is having a good time, and during dinner you would do the things that you would do as hostess at dinner in your home.

And of course after dinner you would stay until all the guests have said their good-nights.

3. You might properly, if you wish, say a few words of welcome and greeting at the dinner. Perhaps after the first course, you might rise and say

"I want to welcome our honor guests and the members of the club to this party to-night, and to thank you all for coming. It is such a special pleasure to have you all here, and I hope that everyone will have the happiest kind of time tonight."

4. Yes, you, the honor guests and the officers of the club should sit at a "guest table."

5. Yes, the gracious thing to do is to send a corsage to each guest of honor, in the afternoon of the party.

6. Yes, by all means the husbands of the guests of honor should be given invitations to the dinner. It would be most ungracious to omit this hospitable and friendly gesture.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Long Engagement

By RUBY AYRES

IT IS only quite recently that a woman said to me "I am so glad that long engagements seem to have gone out of fashion. I always thought they were such a mistake because they take all the gilt off the gingerbread. People get so used to one another if an engagement drags on for more than a few months."

I am not sure that long engagements have gone out of fashion!

It may be so amongst a certain class of young people, where there are rich parents to make the course of love run smoothly and quickly to the church door, but there must still be many an engaged couple who for lack of funds are forced to wait a year or two, and sometimes even longer before they can reach the fulfilment of their dreams.

Very few young people of today are in a position to marry before they are 30, and as many of them fall in love and get engaged long before then, an engagement of two are three years must be a fairly common thing.

If you are lucky enough to meet love, it is so well worth while to wait happily. If you have found the right man, time can make no difference. I know a girl who was engaged and married within a fortnight, and and I know a woman who after a six years' engagement has just married the man of her choice. Both these people are perfectly happy, but I cannot help wondering whether the one who waited six years may not know the more enduring happiness.

No long engagement can take the gilt off the ginger-bread if you will not allow it to do so. Fundamentally love is as much of a business as anything else, and its failure or success largely depends on courage and common sense and good management.

SPORTS FROLIC
To Draw 10,000

Between 500 and 700 girls of Greater Boston playgrounds will participate in the annual sports frolic to be held at the South Boston Stadium Sunday afternoon. More than 10,000 spectators are expected.

Preceding the "Olympics" games the girls will stand at attention and pledge allegiance to the flag.

The carnival will include a track meet, hoop bowling, baseball, soft-ball, squash-ball, volley-ball and calisthenics.

FLOYD GIBBONS' PAGE OF THRILLS AND MYSTERY

In the Face of Death

How Would You Manage to Meet This Desperate Situation?

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO, EVERYBODY!

And a special greeting to today's winner, A. Leslie Baldwin of 258 Sixth avenue, Newark, N. J. Leslie snaps into it with a yarn that will give you a smile as well as a thrill and its frankness is after my own heart.

FLOYD GIBBONS

You know, boys and girls, few of us ever know just what we would do if suddenly confronted with a life and death situation requiring instant decision and action. Heroes are born, not made, and I think the state of our nerves usually determines our actions in a crisis, don't you? Listen to Leslie.

"My big thrill," Leslie says, "came right here in New York, where the Sullivan law forbids honest citizens the use of firearms and criminals are pitied and pardoned, and where industrious workers are forced into the gutters to make way for one group after another of picketing soap box orators in the pay of scheming propagandists."

Sounds a little bitter, but Leslie is a dyed-in-the-wool New Yorker, and if he can't pan the town, who can? He is an insurance agent, and in 1925, at the time of his great adventure, was employed in the Metropolitan Insurance Building at No. 1 Madison avenue.

Leslie says he had just left the glorious park, "filled with pigeon feeders and bottle toters," and was headed for his office. As he walked along, musing on the news of the day—holdups, kidnapings and murders—he pictured himself in the place of one of the victims and planned just what he would do in their position.

He pictured himself suddenly confronted by a man with a gun. Wham! He would let loose a haymaker before the fellow could pull the trigger! His fists clenched as he planned his course of action.

Of course, there didn't seem much chance of anything like that happening right then—it was broad daylight and the streets were crowded—but just the same there was no harm in planning. Leslie says he thought so much about it that he almost wished to be put to the test.

He was still hoping for a chance to prove his courage when he entered the beautiful entrance of the building and then, boys and girls, he got it.

Somebody grabbed him by the arm. He turned quickly—all ready to let the haymaker go—and looked into the eyes of a girl.

"Help me! Help me!" she cried in a voice hysterical with terror.

Leslie says a happy thrill went through him. Here was his chance. The girl was well dressed and pretty. Her voice had a slight foreign accent. She pointed to a man approaching.

"I want to get away from him," she pleaded.

Leslie sized up the man, took a step forward and drew back his deadly right. But the man backed toward the staircase and put his hand in his back pocket. The girl screamed.

"He's got a gun! He's going to kill me!"

Then she got behind Leslie and held on—shielded by his body—with a death grip. The gun came out, and Leslie says he never thought the hole in a gun could look so big. It was a bright nickel-plated revolver and Leslie says he stared at it—marveling at its newness—and found himself fascinated like a bird under the hypnotic eye of a snake.

He tried to remember the plans he had made for just this sort of an emergency, but couldn't think of anything but that shining gun. He says he stood there motionless and watched the man take deliberate aim from his vantage point on the staircase. Leslie says, for the life of him, he couldn't figure how anyone could miss at that distance. He saw the desperate man's face go grim as he pulled the trigger. And then the spell broke.

The gun missed fire. Leslie heard the harmless click of the trigger, and in a second had shaken himself loose from the terrified grip of the girl. Here was the moment he had been dreaming of. One jump for the staircase and he could swing his haymaker before the man could pull the trigger again

"What did I do?" Leslie asks. "Did I play the part of a brave hero and spring to the defense of a lady in distress? I'll say I didn't. Providence, or reflex action or something intervened and I dropped to the floor, thinking only of my own skin."

Leslie saw the crazed man dash down the staircase and leap over Leslie's prostrate body. He heard the gun bark twice and turning his head fearfully saw the girl crumple to the sidewalk and the man flee.

Leslie says he fled, too. He didn't like the part he had played in the drama and only wanted to get away.

The rest of the story he got from newspapers. The man was caught. The girl lived, and a few weeks later the girl and her desperate sweetheart got married!

Incidentally, there is no use in mentioning the names of the couple. They are both thankful to Leslie that he acted the way he did. His death, you see, would have delayed their romance, besides annoying Leslie, and Leslie says he'd rather be "a live Cupid than a dead hero anyway."

Thanks, Leslie, old man, for a good story, and if you ask me I think you have as much courage to tell this story on yourself as it takes to be a hero.

And now, boys and girls, suppose you get up your nerve and send me that story of YOURS. I'm still paying ten smackers per day for true adventures and I'll whip yours into shape for publication.

Tomorrow I'll have "Man With the Rope."

It's as easy as just reaching for it—and a heck of a lot more fun. That's what hundreds of Boston American readers say of the $10 and $100 bills they have received from headline-hunter Floyd Gibbons for their TRUE adventure stories. Floyd says everybody has had at least one thrilling experience, and he wants to write up yours. Send him the facts, and win a pocketful of dough, like Mrs. Henry W. Gould of Worcester, who drew a $10 check and a $100 prize.

HOW TO WIN

And Membership In The Floyd Gibbons Adventurers' Club

It's all very simple. There are no rules, and everyone is eligible. Just write down the facts of your most thrilling adventure and mail it to Floyd Gibbons, care of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston. Remember, the story must be TRUE. Don't worry about how well you can write. Floyd will take care of that. Floyd will pay $10 for every story printed and an extra prize of $100 for the best story of the month. Keep a copy of your story if you wish to have it, AS NO STORIES CAN BE RETURNED. Do not send valuable pictures or souvenirs of your adventure. Send the FACTS.

RADIO STARRING CLAUDETTE COLBERT

By N. F. T.

An auspicious "mike" appearance by the beauteous Claudette Colbert should send more than a few thousand dials (WNAC) spinning between 9 and 10 o'clock tonight.

Program planners who construct the "Hollywood Hotel" hour out on the distant Pacific shore have cast the lovely screen lady in a special version of her latest film, called "She Married Her Boss," and Melvyn Douglas, also prominent in the picture, provides the coast-to-coast radio support.

"N. F. T."

This marks the second broadcast of the year by Miss Colbert for the "Hollywood Hotel" head men. Louella Parsons, the motion picture editor and columnist for your favorite evening newspaper here, will introduce Claudette. Dick Powell has in mind a particularly nifty tune novelty labeled "My Very Good Friend, the Milkman," he says, and promises some startling effects to lend realism.

CLASSIC COLOR

Excerpts from Herbert's "Algeria" and "Mme. Butterfly" by Puccini will be featured by Jessica Dragonette, soprano star of that regular weekly concert (WEEI) when it takes the air this evening at 8 p. m. Robert Simmons, tenor, also will be presented as soloist singing Wood's "I Look Into Your Garden." As usual Rosario Bourdon directs the orchestral highlights.

* * *

With hot weather prevailing, tonight's "College Prom" attraction (WBZ) will present an appropriate outdoor personality in the world's foremost diver, Georgia Coleman. Miss Coleman is Olympic diving chamipon as well as national champion, and won her honors as a member of the Los Angeles A. C. Ruth Etting is the singing star and it's all due down the ether lanes between 8:30 and 9 o'clock.

BUSY AS BEES

Goodman Ace of the "Easy Aces," is doing dilligent typewriter duty these vacation days. In addition to the radio scripts he is penning the play based on the "Easy Aces" which is set for a fall production on Broadway. He is also busy with the scenarios for the numerous films they will make under a new five-year contract to which they have just been signed.

* * *

Abe Lyman recently marked his 3000th broadcast. Lyman was one of the first maestros on the air. His band made what was probably the first remote control broadcast on the West Coast, over old KFI back in 1920. Unless it was Joe Rines in Boston. Open for debate before consulting the record.

Obituaries

Final rites for Mrs. Alma Perkins, former president of Hamilton College, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Old South Church. The Rev. D. Bliss will officiate.

Born in Exeter, N. H., Mrs. Perkins was graduated from Robinson Seminary in that city and later from Wellesley College. After college she spent a year in a secretarial position at Simmons College. She left there to become a dean in a women's college in Kentucky and then was elected president of Hamilton College.

Following the services the body will be cremated at Forest Hills crematory. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery, Kingston.

ARTHUR M. REED

Funeral services for Arthur M. Reed, 60, former member of the Bristol County board of commissioners, who died yesterday at his home on New Bedford road, Westport, will be held at 2 tomorrow afternoon at his residence.

CATHOLIC WAR VETERANS OPEN DRIVE ON REDS

By Universal Service

New York, July 12—The Catholic war veterans are launching a national campaign against Communism in the United States.

The movement is headed by the Rev. Father E. J. Higgins, founder and national chaplain of the organization, who has just returned from Rome.

Discussing the menace of Communism, Father Higgins said:

"It is a religion of hatred toward all religions and all peoples except Communists."

Father Higgins was met at the pier by a delegation of veterans from various Catholic war veterans posts in Greater New York, and the boys' band of Immaculate Conception Church, of Astoria, Long Island, of which he is pastor.

BARE RED DANGERS

Under the programme, the Catholic war veterans will explain the doctrines of Communism and its dangers to the American public. They plan to speak from street platforms, and elsewhere.

Father Higgins added:

"Communism sees the state as the determiner of every province of human life.

"In Communism, as it is practiced in the Soviet, there is no distinction between society and the state, because under Communism there are no ideas such as the functions of society, such as the church and morals, and the state or politics.

"Man, say the Communists, is interested only in food, clothing, shelter, transportation and such items as are needed to sustain the body. Man, therefore, would be only an animal with no more emotions, feelings or ideas than a cow or a dog.

STRIKE AT FAMILY

"By striking at marriage and the family, Communism aims its blows at religion. Through a series of laws, the Soviet has made marriage and divorce easy.

"By destroying marriage, Communism tries to pull down one of the oldest pillars of society—the family — and the part the family plays in life.

"Communism not only seeks to destroy all forms of religion by making this earth the sole end of existence, but it would overthrow the form of republican government in the United States and replace it with the sternest sort of dictatorship in which all ideas of liberty, equality and justice are brushed aside."

Noone Recovering

His condition reported improved, State Trooper Joseph Noone is resting comfortably today at Newton hospital. Noone was escorting the governor's car when his motorcycle crashed, seriously injuring him.

WEATHER REPORT

For Boston and Vicinity: Continued fair and warm this afternoon and early tonight, probably thundershowers late tonight; Saturday fair; cooler tonight and Saturday; moderate southwest to west winds.

..Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut. Local thundershowers tonight; Saturday generally fair except possibly showers in extreme south portion; not quite so warm except in extreme south portion tonight; cooler Saturday and Saturday night.

Maine: Local thundershowers this afternoon or tonight; cooler in west portion, and warmer on the east coast tonight; Saturday generally fair and cooler.

New Hampshire and Vermont: Local thundershowers this afteroon or tonight; cooler tonight, Saturday generally fair and cooler.

Eastern New York. Local thundershowers tonight and possibly Saturday morning in extreme south portion; and local thundershowers this afternoon or tonight; and generally fair Saturday in north and central portions; cooler Saturday and in north and central portions tonight.

Atlantic Coast, Eastport to Sandy Hook—Fresh southwest shifting to west and northwest winds and mostly overcast weather with local showers tonight, probably ending Saturday morning.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The pressure is moderately low in Quebec and eastern Ontario, and moderately high in the Southeastern States, causing southerly and westerly winds, high temperatures and generally fair weather east of the Mississippi river. An area of high pressure moving down over the Rocky mountains and Missouri valley is causing a slight fall in temperature in the Plains States with generally fair weather throughout the Western States. Showers have occurred from southern Virginia southward to the Gulf coast and in the upper Mississippi valley and upper lake region. Temperatures were generally above 90 degrees in the middle and southern states yesterday. Dodge City, Kan., reporting 106 degrees, and Kansas City Mo., 102 degrees.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

LAWRENCE SHAW NATIONAL DIRECTOR

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF THE YOUTH OF THE AMERICAS IN AVIATION

The purpose of the Novice Glider Contest to be held at the Playstead in Franklin Park on Friday afternoon, July 26, is to encourage the beginners in model plane construction, not to discourage the good model plane builder.

Herbert Lovejoy, Jr.

It offers every Junior Birdman and Birdwoman, who is definitely a beginner, an opportunity to compete with fellow members of the same degree of experience. A novice, within the rules of the contest, is a member who has never taken a first, second, third, fourth or fifth place in any official Junior Birdmen indoor or outdoor wing tournament.

Many experienced model plane builders have expressed regret that they could not join in this competition and try to win one of the many prizes which will be distributed. These prizes consist of the following:

Leoard A. Guaraldi

First—A $25 merchandise order good at the Boys' Shop of Kennedy's store, 31 Summer street, Boston; second—wrist watch; third—fountain pen and pencil set; fourth—camera; fifth—set of three tennis balls; sixth—Boy Scout four-bladed knife; Seventh—Balsa wood contributed by William Rivera of the Woburn Model Airplane Shop; eight and ninth—year's subscription to an aviation magazine; tenth to fifteenth—complete sets of ten Junior Birdmen handbooks contributed by the General Envelope Co., 100 Summer street; sixteenth to twenty-sixth—pairs of guest tickets for the Metropolitan theater, good week of July 28.

Among the contestants who expect to win one of these prizes are Herbert Lovejoy, Jr., of 18 Shepard street, Cambridge, and Leonard A. Guaraldi, 14, of 79 Marshall street, Somerville.

Here are the rules for the contest:

1—Every Junior Birdman and Birdwoman is eligible except those who have won from first to fifth place in an indoor or outdoor wing tournament.

2—The contest is for all-Balsa gliders only.

3—The glider must be hand made by member flying it in the contest.

4—The wing of the glider must measure no less than 12 inches and no more than 24 inches from wing tip to wing tip, including dihedral.

5—Models are to be hand-launched.

6—The contest will start at 1 p. m. and end at 5 p. m. on Friday, July 26, at the Playstead in Franklin Park. Contestants may enter as many gliders as they wish and take as many flights as they have time for within the hours set.

7—The event is for endurance, the longest flights being the winning flights.

Best Bets Tonight

Radio Answers

Q—When will Buddy Rogers be back broadcasting with his orchestra and is he in Hollywood now?
E. T. T., of Holliston.

A—Last word of Buddy was of his being in Europe. He will probably be considering a new network schedule in August.

Q—What is the correct age of Graham McNamee?
V. L., of Cambridge.

A—Graham was reported 43 on his last birthday.

Q—Is the announcer Don Wilson paid by Jack Benny, the sponsors or the broadcasting network?
Pay Checker, of Brighton.

A—He is on the NBC staff and payroll. He draws extra money for special presentations as do all "mike" men.

Q—Does Vic Whitman of "The Tattler" program live in Lynn?
Commuter, of Salem.

A—No, his residence is in West Roxbury.

Q—Is Rudy Vallee scheduled to appear in person hereabouts any time soon? If so, could you state when?
B. H. of Hyde Park.

A—Yes, he will be in these parts with his orchestra during the last week of this month. Suggest you watch for dates and places.

Q—What station in Boston gave the announcer, Charles O'Connor, his start? He is now on the network periods. Also the same about John S. Young, please.
Hub Club, of Dorchester

A—Charlie began with old WLOE and went to WNAC, thence to WBZ and on to New York, Young was originally a WBZ worker.

Forward your radio questions to the Radio Editor of the Boston Evening American then watch this space for the information you seek.

PROPOSAL

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS, DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTION, NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY PROJECTS MASS. STATE P-8, DOCKET NO. 2237; P-11, DOCKET NO. 5505; P-12, DOCKET NO. 4534.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals for PWA Docket No. 2237 for (A) TOOLS AND MISCELLANEOUS VOCATIONAL EQUIPMENT, (B) MISCELLANEOUS LABORATORY EQUIPMENT, (C) MISCELLANEOUS FURNITURE AND EQUIPMENT, (D) STEEL FILING CABINETS, (E) MISCELLANEOUS LIBRARY EQUIPMENT, (F) SCHOOL SUPPLIES, (G) VISIBLE RECORD FILES, (H) TOILET FIXTURES, (J) ACOUSTIC WORK, (K) TYPEWRITERS, ETC., (L) INTERCOMMUNICATING TELEPHONE SYSTEM; and for PWA Docket No. 5505 for (A) WOOD FURNITURE, (B) MISCELLANEOUS BUILDING SUPPLIES, (C) STEEL FILING CABINETS, (D) MISCELLANEOUS CAFETERIA EQUIPMENT, (E) MOTION PICTURE AND SOUND PROJECTORS, (F) TYPEWRITERS AND STANDS, (G) DUPLICATING MACHINE, (H) TOILET FIXTURES, (J) REED ORGAN, (K) ACOUSTIC WORK (L) INTERCOMMUNICATING TELEPHONE SYSTEM; and for PWA Docket No. 4534 for (A) INTERCOMMUNICATING TELEPHONE SYSTEM will be received by the Superintendent of the State Prison Colony at Norfolk, Massachusetts, until MONDAY, July 29, 1935, at 12:30 p. m., and at that time and place will be publicly opened and read. Bids must be made upon the Department's prescribed special form of equipment contract for projects financed and constructed under the terms of the National Industrial Recovery Act and Chapter 365 of the Acts of 1933 to which is attached and made a part thereof the Special Contract Provisions, Revised June 7, 1934, and Reprinted September 27, 1934, of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works and the State Emergency Public Works Commission.

Specifications, drawings, and contract forms may be obtained at Room 125, State House, Boston, or at the State Prison Colony, Norfolk, Massachusetts. Bids must be accompanied by a properly certified check on, or a certificate of deposit issued by a responsible bank or trust company in the sum of not less than ten per cent of the amount of the bid with a minimum of twenty-five dollars, payable to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Checks will be returned after the execution of the contract upon demand. A surety bond by an approved surety company will be required from successful bidders in an amount not less than the full amount of the contract. When required by the specifications bidders shall provide certificates of quality to accompany the proposals.

No assignment by the contractor of any principal construction contract or any part thereof, or of the funds to be received thereunder by the contractor, will be recognized by the Public Works Administration unless such assignment has had the approval of the awarding authority and the State Engineer, and the surety has been given due notice of such assignment in writing.

Bidders may submit proposals for any or all of the items listed in any proposal form and the right is reserved to reject any or all items or proposals, or to accept any item or proposal deemed best for the Commonwealth, and no award can be made without the approval of the State Engineer, PWA, and of the State Emergency Public Works Commission.

By MAURICE N. WINSLOW, SUPERINTENDENT.

P.W.A. PROJECT—DOCKET NO. 4307
TO CONTRACTORS

Proposals to furnish and install electric lighting fixtures for the Surgical Operating and Ward Building, Boston City Hospital, are invited to be deposited at the office of the Architects, James H. Ritchie and Associates, 100 Arlington Street, Boston, Mass., before 2 o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, July 26, 1935, at which time they will be publicly opened and read.

Proposals must be placed in an envelope, sealed and marked "Proposal for Lighting Fixtures, Surgical Operating and Ward Building." The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals, or to accept any proposal deemed best for the interest of the owner; and no award can be made without the approval of the State Engineer, P.W.A.

Specifications may be obtained at the office of the Architects. A deposit of $5.00 will be required for a set of specifications, said sum to be refunded on return of specifications. Mutilation of the specifications will be deemed sufficient cause for the forfeiture of the said deposit.

This material is to be furnished and installed under an allowance in the general contract. The successful bidder will be required to enter into subcontract with the general contractor in the amount of the proposal sum.

Bidders must give due consideration to the fact that the project is being constructed under the terms of the National Industrial Recovery Act and Chap. 366, Mass. Acts of 1933, as amended. Attention is directed to the special contract provisions relating to such projects. Contract documents may be examined and further details obtained at the office of the Architects.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum wage rates prescribed by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works must be paid on this project.

JOSEPH P. MANNING,
President of the Board of Trustees,
Boston City Hospital.

'Soak the Thrifty!'—Loot Industry!—and SPREAD POVERTY!

THE President's plan to discourage industry and genius by confiscatory taxes for political purposes illustrates the singular and erratic psychology of the New Dealers.

Even the "parlor socialists" of every school have invariably recognized the necessity of adequately capitalizing or generously subsidizing genius and energy FOR THE ULTIMATE BENEFIT OF SOCIETY.

Mediocrity may eke out a bare existence, but IT IS GENIUS AND ENERGY that a nation must depend upon for the CREATION OF THE WEALTH WHICH BRINGS A CONSTANT ELEVATION IN THE GENERAL STANDARD OF LIVING.

The President and his advisors are apparently not only unable to grasp this simple constructive doctrine, but, like most of the absurd New Deal phantasies, this confiscatory tax idea seems to have been incubated in minds clouded by a DESTRUCTIVE MANIA.

THE utter folly of this policy can be visualized by hypothetically applying this "destruction by taxation" program to the Henry Ford enterprise in its early struggles, to cite a familiar example of the hundreds of outstanding geniuses who have created nearly all of the wealth of this nation.

Had this proposed law then been in force, the Ford enterprise as it is today would never have existed—it would still be a small and insignificant operation, and the billions of new wealth which it has created and DISTRIBUTED and the untold benefits which it has conferred on the nation and on the world would never have existed.

THE WHOLE AUTO INDUSTRY WOULD BE A SMALL, CRUDE AND UNIMPORTANT VENTURE, AND WE WOULD TRULY HAVE REMAINED IN THE HORSE AND BUGGY AGE.

In fact, had this been an early principle, none of our modern facilities would have been possible.

IT IS of the utmost importance to society that new ventures be permitted to reap and retain generous profits, not only to accelerate the specific development involved, but for the tremendous indirect benefits which may flow from a new venture.

Besides the tangible wealth which the Ford enterprise has created and distributed, directly affecting millions of families, THE OPERATIVE METHODS OF THE GIGANTIC INDUSTRY HAVE ALMOST RECONSTRUCTED MANY OF THE IMPORTANT MECHANICAL PROCESSES OF THE WORLD.

THE BENEFICIAL EFFECT UPON HUMANITY IS BEYOND COMPUTATION.

The billion or so INVESTED has CREATED and DISTRIBUTED many times this capital amount, and INDIRECTLY added to the wealth and the standard of living of the civilized world an IMMEASURABLE SUM.

In comparison, the profits of the enterprise are insignificant.

The same situation is true of the thousands of less spectacular but equally important ventures, the total effect of which is our present state of civilization.

VISUALIZING the effect of confiscatory taxes upon these industries in their early struggles, when every dollar earned was being plowed back into the enterprise, and their wealth creating and distributing potentialities were limited only by lack of adequate capital, concretely illustrates how this insane program, if effected, WILL DEPRIVE A FUTURE CIVILIZATION OF THE BENEFITS OF OUR POTENTIAL GENIUS AND THE GREAT OPPORTUNITIES WHICH LIE AHEAD.

To deprive INDUSTRY of this much needed capital and to assume that POLITICIANS could use it, or WOULD USE IT IF THEY COULD, to the greater advantage of society is to exhibit such extraordinary ignorance of the development process of industry and enterprise, and such an equally gross ignorance of the general selfish incompetence of politics and politicians, that thoughtful men must be shocked and dismayed to realize that we have elected to positions of power persons so mentally immature that they seriously consider such a program.

But this is the menacing situation which must be faced.

These childish and absurd fallacies are being incubated and will be enacted into laws and enforced upon the people of this nation unless organized, determined and intelligent effort is made, EITHER TO REMOVE THEIR INCOMPETENT DESIGNERS, or, if that is not possible, to demand from Congress that these FOOLISH and DANGEROUS proposals be SUMMARILY REJECTED.

Scraps of Paper

The Kellogg Pact

THE death throes of the Kellogg Pact are ended.

The pact is dead.

It never was a live thing.

And now its cheap pretense of banishing war as an instrument of national policy has been scuttled by the little African nation of Ethiopia, against which Italy is bearing down with all her superior military force, and without pausing a moment to weigh the fact that she, as well as Ethiopa, signed the pact which "outlawed war."

THESE are indeed evil days for peace by international agreement.

The Covenant of the League of Nations is so near death that no one can record its pulse.

The League's abortive attempt to stay the course of events in Manchuria revealed its utter futility.

And now comes Ethiopia's plea to the Powers for protective intervention as contemplated by the Kellogg Pact.

France gives notice that it will not lift a finger.

England perceives only too clearly that intervention by her, whether in the form of a blockade or by the legally dubious expedient of closing the Suez Canal, might precipitate a war with Italy, and this neither the British Government nor the English people have any intention of doing.

THE Emperor of Ethiopia, Haile Selassie, in his desperate extremity, turned to this country and asked us to see that our co-signatory of the Kellogg Pact, Italy, was reminded of her agreement to refrain from war as an instrument of national policy.

But the United States denied its own child and was deaf to the appeal.

All that we could think of was to express, with folded hands and upraised eyes, our pious hope that Italy would find some pacific means for adjusting its controversy with Ethiopia.

It was at this point that the Kellogg Pact sank for the third and last time—sank to the depths—never to rise again.

And with it sinks the whole deluded philosophy of peace and security for nations—BY SCRAPS OF PAPER!

Hurting Business

By Lessening Sales

The State of New York increased its gasoline tax a cent to four cents a gallon on April 1.

And receipts fell ninety thousand dollars below those of April, 1934.

American petroleum industries officials believe sales—which had INCREASED in the previous three months—fell off because of the added impost.

If their conclusion is correct, the States now taxing gasoline four cents a gallon must be repressing business.

Which is BAD policy.

Adding to UNEMPLOYMENT.

Independence 1935 Style

Hardly "Self-Evident"

From the United States Flag Association in Washington comes a new Declaration of Independence, as much needed today, perhaps, as the first Declaration was in 1776.

The 1935 document calls on America to free itself from the twin menaces of Crime and Communism.

Considering our 12,000 murders every years, our twelve billion-dollar crime bill, and our tolerance of thousands of agents of the Moscow despotism in our midst, we seem to have parted with some of those inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness which we thought were "self-evident" in this country.

They are not exactly self-evident at the moment—except perhaps in the case of criminals and the Reds.

Autos, Slow Down!

When Children Are Near

Of ten rules drafted by General Manager E. C. Benway of the Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts, the following stands out:

"Slow down when children are near."

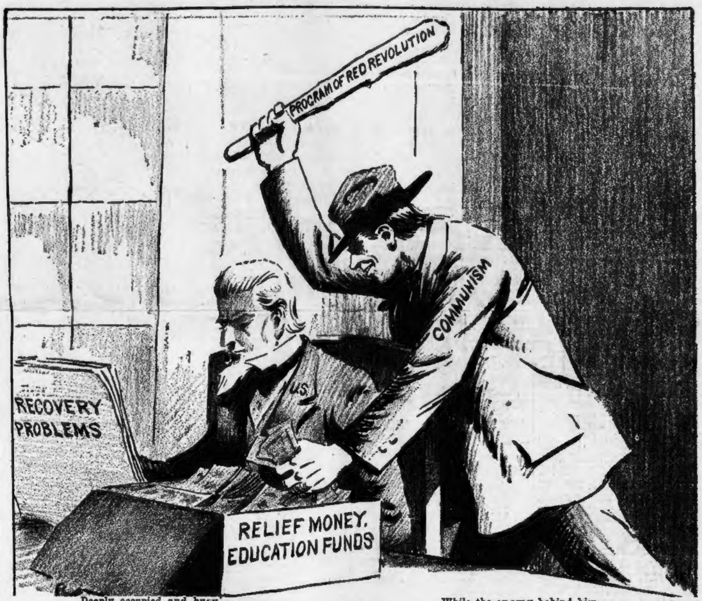
No matter how good your brakes.

No matter about your fancied skill as a driver.

Slow down!

"Your Money AND Your Life!"

By Nelson Harding



Deeply occupied and busy
With Recovery's great problems,
Uncle Sam, a careless person,
Leaves the money box wide open

While the enemy behind him
With one hand accepts his money,
With the other grasps a brutal
Weapon meant for his destruction.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, July 12—Thoughts while strolling. Park avenue pent house horticulture: Using the hot water bottle to sprinkle flowers. A runaway firm—Gallup and Slyde. "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" started the craze for cocker spaniels. Arthur William Brown's blue collars and canary yellow ties.

O. O. McIntyre

No hotel looks so outdated yet comfortable as the Murray-Hill. Ever-strange word: subsidy. That Gay 90 boulevardier, Whitney Warren—white flannels, wide Panama and flowing black bow. Lesser enthusiasms No. 1—Jack Barrymore. Add names for gargling: Margolo Gilmore.

Nothing is more desolate than the front of an unused theater. Slickest of pates: Donald Meek, Ryley Cooper, Postmaster General Farley. Huey Long is the wildest arm-waver among the modern orators. Irvin Cobb's best speeches are without a single gesture. Job Hedges had the slowest delivery.

Belligerency on Fifth avenue. A chow in a Rolls and a Sealyham in a Dusenberg barking at each other furiously. Jack London always separated the human race into two classes: the living and unburied dead. Be fun to take Burton Holmes on a ferry-boat ride to Staten Island.

Viola Brothers Shore suggests a swim in the Mediterranean. One word description of young Teddy Roosevelt—grinny. Gertrude Stein calls Harry Leon Wilson America's most refreshing author. At least one sensible thing she has uttered. If Chaplin doesn't hurry that picture we'll all be screaming.

Speaking of public orations, about the dirtiest trick ever played on a speaker was that on Federal Judge Dave Kincheloe one time when campaigning for Congress in Kentucky.

A practical joker with a prodigious memory eavesdropped when Kincheloe was rehearsing a speech in a village hotel. Then delivered it word for word before the candidate's turn on the rostrum. Kincheloe tried to fabricate another but it had lost the Sunday punch.

Modesty has become the biggest asset of the newest jazz dance leaders. He is an importation, an almost Albino blond from London named Ray Noble. His conducting is by almost imperceptible gestures from the wrist. Slight, pale and with a peekaboo manner, he reigns at the smart Rainbow Room, where the un-whitetied are parked behind bosquets of palms.

Noble, composer of such sturdy tunes as "Good Night, Sweetheart" and "Love Is the Sweetest Thing," mumbles over the radio like a half-frightened schoolboy afraid his voice may change any moment. Already he is notched next to Paul Whiteman as an exponent of dance rhythm.

The demolition of the New York Theater and its famous Roof marks the passing of a glamorous Rialto landmark. On the roof Ziegfeld revealed the first of those summer revues, with beautiful girls melting into entrancing scenes and which became the now historic Follies.

It was here Lillian Lorraine in sunbonnety charm swung over the audience, a pendulum of roses, and became the toast of the town.

Bert Williams, as I recall, first introduced here his pantomime poker game and there was a girl from Milwaukee in the front line chorus that was to be heard from sensationally. You know her as Nora Bayes.

If people would let me alone. Standing on the outfield line of a Central Park kid diamond a foul fell at my feet. I intended to toss it to the nearby fielder. But Jed Kiley diverted me with: "See if you can throw it to the home plate."

I tried and jerked the jerusalem out of a whizzle string or something. And eat soup with a roundhouse swing ever since.

The Typewriter

By Edgar A. Guest

Here on the keyboard of this machine
The letters and numbers are plainly seen;
Here on this coldly mechanical thing
Are hidden the songs which the world shall sing.
Here is the roll for the paper white
For the books to be which the wise shall write;
Here still hidden are odes and prayers
And the great orations for great affairs.
Here, still waiting the printer's ink,
Lie all the thoughts which mankind shall think;
Here are the unborn dreams of men
Which shall come to life never to die again.
All in a jumble and strewn about,
Awaiting the genius who'll sort them out.

Isn't It So?

The Almighty is on the side of the man who behaves himself.

Laziness travels so slowly that poverty overtakes it.

To get the best results, do your work with enthusiasm and accuracy.

Deliver your words, not by number, but by weight.

Dictator of Cuba

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Edwin C. Hill

The expulsion from troubled Cuba, Pearl of the Antilles, our uphappy stepchild of the Caribbean, of a group of Americans a little too outspoken for the present regime, calls attention to the striking personality and career of the 35-year-old top-sergeant, Fulgencio Batista, who is the absolute dictator of Cuba.

In his way, and for her territory and population he is as much a dictator as Mussolini or Stalin. He is a striking representative of the Cuban racial mixture.

He is part white, part negro and part Indian. In his childhood he knew all the miseries of utter poverty.

STARTED AS A PRIVATE

As an escape from it, he went into the Cuban army some 12 years ago as a private soldier.

There is small hope of any reward, either in money or fame for a private in the Cuban army, but our sergeant—for sergeant he quickly became—Fulgencio was made of different stuff.

The incessant political upsets and revolutionary outbreaks of the past six years gave him his chance.

In some fashion he drew the keen glance of General Gerardo Machado, who had an idea once upon a time that he could hold down the lid in Cuba and remain president at the dictates of his own sweet will.

Machado made the sergeant a member of the general staff and in that way he became acquainted with the curious subterranean passages of Cuban politics. And then came the revolution of September 4, 1933.

The students of the University of Havana, allied with other elements bitterly hostile to conservative government, named Senor Grau as provisional president.

Many army officers refused to join the revolution and barricaded themselves in the American-owned Hotel Nacional.

LED THE ATTACK

It was Fulgencio Batista who led the assault which drove the officers from the hotel and sent many of them to imprisonment or death. Of a sudden he became the strong man of Cuba.

An out-and-out militarist, he is nevertheless a real patriot.

Unlike many Cuban patriots of a fanatical stripe, Dictator Batista realizes the worth of American friendship.

He would like to see the tyranny over Cuban agriculture and industry which has been exercises by foreigners, greatly relaxed.

But he realizes that Cuba is too poor to exist without foreign assistance, particularly American assistance in the way of financial investment and guidance. He is a master without civil law to curtail his actions.

He makes his headquarters in Camp Colombia, the military reservation which was built by the American army some miles outside of Havana during our occupation after the Spanish-American war.

From Camp Colombia he issues his decrees and gives his orders. It is there that he receives representatives of foreign countries and ministers of the Cuban government.

$2,000,000 A YEAR

The President of the Republic is a useful figurehead. The one-time Sergeant, Fulgencio Batista, is the real power.

"The Little Black Indian", as he is nicknamed, commands today an army of fifteen thousand men, thirty-two hundred sailors, four thousand police, twenty-five hundred secret service agents and various other groups of state employes to a total of some twenty-six thousand.

It is said that he is provided with about $2,000,000 a year to spend in the service of the state, and no auditor has authority to scrutinize his accounts.

Under Batista the Cuban army today is not only stronger than at any time in its history, but it is much better paid. He plans to build up a reserve army of perhaps 75,000.

In times of crisis he is all steel, but he can be affable, engaging, altogether a pleasant companion.

Intent upon raising Cuba to recognized rank in the family of nations, he believes it can be done only by a single will overcoming all groups of noisy opposition.

To Batista the end justifies the means. He is hostile to professional politicians.

At least three attempts have been made to assassinate him, but he bears, it seems, a charmed life.

Plots have been formed within the army, but this alert man has spotted them invariably and stamped them down under an iron heel.

The Marry-Go-Round

By Helen Rowland

The Husband in the House

Just about now, a lot of spring brides are beginning to discover that a man around the house is something like a bumble-bee in a closed car. He seems to take up ALL the room.

Helen Rowland

That's something that every seasoned wife has learned. It takes time and patience; but you can "acclimatize" yourself to a husband, just as you can to the motor of an electric ice-box or the clatter of a lawnmover so that you don't even notice the noise he makes.

You can accustom yourself to the sound of a man about the house just as you can to the buzzing of a vacuum cleaner, until his rushing around mornings ceases to disturb you and you can doze right through his conversation, without even knowing when it is turned off.

* * *

Or even as you can to the constant wailing of a radio, next door, so that you can sit right through his broadcasting of the same old wisecracks, while you mentally refurnish the sun parlor or recover the porch glider.

Or you can go into the silence and close your ears to him as you would to the yapping of a puppy, knowing that there is nothing really the matter with him and that he merely wants to attract attention or to work off his high spirits.

* * *

You can become completely insulated to the presence of a man around the house, just as you can to the dripping of the drain-pipe, until you would almost miss the incessant racket, the morning aria and the breakfast-table hubbub.

Or as you can to the ringing of a telephone bell, that you scarcely hear, and don't intend to answer, anyhow.
